Death Trap Blonde.
Some Said Print It.
She Tired of Seeing Him.
Gen. Dawes' Good Vote.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

THE headline writer finds new inspiration, "Death Trap Blonde," and it's in Cyrus H. K. Curtis' paper, not in a raging tabloid. The mysterious blonde, white, of course, "trapped" a Negro politician in New York.

HE DROVE with her to an uptown address, and when he got out, a white man, stepping from behind the taxi, shot him to death. The Death Trap Blonde vanished, the police are puzzled and the victim leaves a fortune.

Even Ike White will admit that the story is new, in crime.

ENGLAND is observing the three hundredth anniversary of John Bunyan's birth. On November 25 "Bunyan Sunday" will be celebrated throughout the world. Nearly three centuries have passed since the humble tinker, locked in jail and compelled to meditate, with leisure to write, gave "Pilgrim's Progress" to the world, doubting and hesitating.

Some said, "John, print it," others said, not so.

Some said, "It might do good;" others said no.

PUBLISHERS thought that only servants and others ignorant could possibly want the ignorant peddler's simple book and the only edition printed, at first, was bound in paper for a penny. You couldn't buy a copy of that first edition now for a thousand pounds. Sometimes simple things outlast others, more showy.

MRS. CHARLES HAWKINS, British, married 40 years, asks and gets a divorce, saying "Husband's don't appreciate' you, if you stick at home all the time."

Now that he has her no longer, the lady's daughter says father comes home every night and looks at mother's empty chair. Mother says the chair will "stay empty," for she is tired of "seeing his face every day." Husbands, take warning.

Married life has become uncertain, even for those that thought themselves safest.

GEN. DAWES, who probably will be the Republican nominee if anything should happen to the Hoover boom, rendered yesterday a public service that the West will not forget. He cast his deciding vote to prevent adjournment of Congress today at 5 p. m. Without Dawes' vote that adjournment, against which Senator Hiram Johnson fought desperately, would have killed the Boulder Canyon Dam bill for this year.

CALL money, used for stock gambling, also for legitimate installment purchasing, cost 6½ per cent yesterday, first time since 1921, and that hit stocks in the last hour. Big favorites dropped like an athlete from Barnum's roof. High finance knows that the way to discourage vice, gambling included, is to make it EXPENSIVE. And for its own reasons, high finance is determined to check speculation.

FARMERS, who wonder why their McNary-Haugen bill was vetoed, might wonder about other things. For instance, Canadian railroad commissioners, lowering freight rates on wheat, give the Canadian farmers an advantage of 8 to 10 cents a bushel over our farmers in the world's markets.

SENATOR CAPPER introduced a bill to help fix that. Secretary Hoover and Gov. Smith, one of whom probably will be President a year hence, promise cheap wheat transportation by canal.

Something should be done.

MEANTIME, Senator Capper prints in big type "THE RAILROAD RELIEF ACT WORKS FINE. IT HAS PUT THE ROADS ON THEIR FEET AND ALL THE FARMING THEY HAVE TO DO IS OCCASIONALLY TO RAISE THE RATES."

HENRY FORD says, "What's the use of talking about any limit to United States development?

"I, for one, can scarcely see more than a beginning here and there."

That's how healthy business minds feel about it.

James Speyer puts it briefly:

"Prosperity is our NORMAL CONDITION. Nothing will interfere with it but foolishness."

AMERICAN gold is going to Europe rapidly. If we are too careless our large supplies will drift across the water.

London is drawing gold STEADILY, which puts up British exchange. The Bank of France has added $220,000,000 in gold to its reserves this year.

In addition, Americans traveling abroad leave a thousand millions a year in gold money behind them.

We helped our foreign friends to finance their big war and now we are helping them recover from it.

WHOM would you suggest for Vice President on the Republican ticket? How would you go about selecting him?

New York's Business Men's League suggests Col. Theodore Roosevelt. His father accepted the Vice Presidency against his will, complaining, "I am being sidetracked." It turned out to be quite a conspicuous "side track."

Gov. Lowden is said to have declined the Vice Presidency when Harding was elected. Had he accepted, he would be President now.

Wins Baby

MRS. IRENE YOUNG

Mrs. Irene Young, 23, 215 Brinton avenue, Pitcairn, has been given possession of her daughter, Fay, 3, by Judge John A. Evans on habeas corpus proceedings instituted by the mother. The child had been in the custody of the father, John Young, and when it was brought into court it cried repeatedly: "I want my 'mamma.'" Young and his wife have been separated for several weeks.

WELL SUPPLYING MINE FAMILIES POISONED

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., May 29.—(AP.)—Belmont county authorities today were investigating the poisoning of a well near the Webb mine, used by 50 miners and their families.

Col. Don L. Caldwell, Gov. Donahey's observer in this section of the mine fields, and deputy sheriffs reported the finding of sediment in the bottom of the well, half an inch deep, which proved to be a deadly poison.

One man, two women and a child were ill from the effects of drinking water from the poisoned well, while a dozen others reported ill effects. Prosecutor Paul V. Waddell ordered a sample of the water taken for further analysis.

How Strong Is Al Smith In Western Pennsylvania?

TO answer this question, that is heard everywhere in Pittsburgh today, the Sun-Telegraph prints a ballot below.

These ballots will not appear every day, but occasionally; and on those days no extra papers will be delivered to any agent nor will papers be sold in bulk to any individual or organization. Ballots received in bulk will not be counted. No more than three in one envelope. Thus a fairly accurate estimate of the relative strength of Hoover and Smith may be determined.

Watch the Sun-Telegraph for an early announcement of the results.

For President of the United States, I expect to vote for—

HOOVER ☐ SMITH ☐

An X-ray photograph last night disclosed the injury in the finger, smashed on Sunday in Chicago when the first-sacker, essaying the third base role, was struck with a ball on the finger.

It was decided this morning that Capt. Pie Traynor would not get into action. The ailing third-sacker was eager to go back to his post, but he will be restrained.

Burleigh Grimes is due to hurl for the Pirates with Jess Haines slated to pitch for the enemy.

TOT SHOOTS HERSELF WITH UNCLE'S REVOLVER

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., May 29.—While playing with a revolver she had taken from the pocket of her uncle, Wilbur Ulery, as he slept, Anna Mae Ulery, 4, shot herself in the head last night, the bullet entering under her right eye and coming out at the back of her head. She was taken to Mt. Pleasant Memorial Hospital in a critical condition.

THOUSANDS AWAITING BALLOON DERBY

Interest in the national elimination balloon races at Bettis Field tomorrow has already reached fever heat. Several thousand spectators, gathered on the field during the forenoon today, were given their first thrill when a dirigible from Akron, O., sailed serenely from the western sky and after circling overhead, landed near the airplane hangars.

"Favorable weather for the balloon races tomorrow is a probability," said Forecaster W. S. Brotzman at noon. "At present, conditions are unsettled and showers are likely tonight. By tomorrow, skies should clear, with a southwest wind prevailing, and the temperature in the afternoon about 70."

Yesterday also was a busy day for the visiting airmen. With inspections of the field, registration at headquarters in the William Penn Hotel, luncheons, teas, dinners and receptions, the various teams were on the jump from early morning until late last night.

The most important session of the day was a business meeting at 5:30 p. m., when the pilots drew lots for starting position. The Detroit News entry drew first position. The others in the order assigned for tomorrow's takeoff are: Detroit No. 4, Army No. 3, Gardner 8, Goodyear V, Sun-Tele-Pittsburgher, W. W. W., Army No. 2, City of Cleveland, Detroit No. 2, Navy, Lt. J. H. Stevens; Navy,

Special Balloon Race Forecast Says "Fair"

A special forecast from Washington predicts favorable weather conditions for the balloon races here tomorrow. The forecast received by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman, follows:

"Generally fair weather indicated for Western Pennsylvania Wednesday afternoon and night. Winds will be light to gentle mostly northwest or north up to 1,000 feet and moderate, possibly fresh west-northwest or northwest at 5,000 feet and fresh northwest or north-northwest at 10,000 feet. These conditions will likely continue until Thursday morning."

YOUNGSTOWN CHILDREN

Redoubled efforts in the investigation of the kidnaping of Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, following on the discovery of the child's body, have brought to light 4-year-old twin girls, children of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Kelley, 44 West Marion street, Youngstown, as eye-witnesses to the kidnaping. Mrs. Kelley, from an open window of her home, also saw the kidnaping. Here are the children, Alice Catherine and Audrey Clare.

CONGRESS QUITS TODAY; BOULDER DAM FAILS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Reversing its action of yesterday, the Senate, after an all-night session, voted today to adjourn the Seventieth Congress at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Immediate adoption by the House of the adjournment resolution is anticipated, as the House had already voted to quit at 5 o'clock today. The Senate vote was 46 to 35.

The revised adjournment resolution was brought in by administration leaders after it appeared evident that Boulder Dam supporters would not be able to break the filibuster conducted against the bill by

CHALLENGE HURLED AT CLERGY BY HOUGH

"I wish some of the Pittsburgh ministers who find time to criticize public officials and who ballyhoo prohibition as a success, would come and sit in my courtroom for a while."

Thus Police Magistrate Edward M. Hough declared in an outburst against the dry law from the bench of North Side Police Court today, the third denunciation of prohibition by law-administering officials of the city within a week.

Magistrate Hough was hearing a case of two youths, of clean-cut appearance, arrested for carrying liquor after they had dropped pennies in the fare box of a Woods Run car.

INVITES MINISTERS

"One thing prohibition has done," asserted the magistrate, "and that is to make it possible for such young fellows as these to get liquor. It is at a time like this, when I am trying youths who apparently come from good families and amount to something, that I would like the ministers to sit in my court. A magistrate's court is a good place to study the evils of prohibition.

"It is here we come in direct contact with the wrong that has resulted from dry legislation. The great majority of my cases each morning have been caused by moonshine whisky. I would like the clergy of this city, as a whole or in part, to visit this court and judge for themselves."

Curtiss Lampker, 22, of 1207 Allegheny avenue, one of the youths, testified he had bought a blackjack in a Woods Run saloon besides the liquor. He was sent to the workhouse for 30 days. The other youth, John Ploka, 18, of 106 Trimble street, was turned over to Morals Court. A pint of moonshine was found in his possession.

ASK BRANDON'S VIEWS

Pittsburgh ministers yesterday issued a challenge to Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, to come before them and express his views on prohibition. In a statement Monday Brandon declared that the enforcement of prohibition was not successful. The Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, who introduced a resolution adopted by the Methodist Episcopal ministers demanding the resignation of Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh for his denunciation of prohibition, took issue also with Brandon.

"If Magistrate Brandon wishes to express his prohibition views before a ministerial body I am certain the ministers will grant him that privilege," declared Dr. Duncan. "We want all the light we can get."

Declaring that he had received no complaint against Superintendent of Police Walsh through official channels, Mayor Charles H. Kline today said that no consideration was being given to the demand by Pittsburgh ministers for Walsh's resignation.

The Mayor and Superintendent were closeted in the Mayor's office for an hour this morning, but the result of their conference was not divulged.

WALL OF SNOW HIDES NOBILE, MISSING BLIMP FROM RESCUE

(Copyright, 1928, by The Associated Press)

KINGS BAY, Spitsbergen, May 29, 11 a. m.—(AP.)—Unfavorable weather conditions, including intense cold and a heavy snow, prevailed at Kings Bay today, increasing the difficulty of the base ship Citta di Milano, now out in the Polar Sea searching for the missing dirigible Italia.

This morning a north wind was blowing and the snow was so thick that it was impossible to see nearby mountains.

The Citta di Milano was thought on her way North from the Northernmost part of Spitzbergen, and it was considered that it would be difficult for the ship to find an opening to get through the ice under the present weather conditions.

(The above dispatch, filed out of Spitzbergen at 11 a. m., Spitzbergen time, or 5 a. m. Eastern Standard time, made no mention of unconfirmed reports received in Rome and Oslo that the Italia had come down on Amsterdam Island, which is near the scene of the operations of the Citta di Milano.)

International News Service.

LONDON, May 29.—Hope was revived at Kings Bay today when a wireless message was received from the captain of the Citta Di Milano which stated that he had received information leading him to believe that the dirigible Italia had made a forced landing at Amsterdam Island, a Central News dispatch from the dirigible's base stated.

Amsterdam Island is a few miles north of Magdalena Bay, where the Citta Di Milano is hemmed in by the ice floes.

The captain of the supply ship reported that he had been in radio communication with a sealer which reported having received a message

PRESIDENT O. K.'S TAX SLASH

WASHINGTON, May 29. —(AP.)—The tax reduction bill was signed today by President Coolidge.

The measure, which now is law, provides for an estimated annual reduction in tax payments of $222,495,000.

However, the cut in revenue under the act is estimated at only $155,000,000 for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, the full force of the reduction not being felt until the following fiscal year.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Coolidge today signed the postal rate revision bill, which will reduce mail tariffs $16,000,000 annually. The measure provides lower rates for newspapers and magazines and restores the one-cent postal card.

The President also signed the second deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $145,000,000 for various governmental operations between now and July 1.

BOULDER DAM LOSES PLACE

Following adoption of the adjournment resolution Senator Bruce (Dem.), of Maryland, blocked all attempts to reach an agreement to make the bill the "unfinished business" of the Senate at its session in December. Bruce's objections brought down on him censure from Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority floor leader, and Senator Hiram W. Johnson Rep.), of California, leader of the Boulder Dam fight.

After 20 minutes of fiery arguments, the Senate went into executive session to consider presidential appointments. The motion was made by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, obviously in an effort to pour oil on the troubled senatorial waters.

JOHNSON ADMITS DEFEAT

At the conclusion of the fight Johnson arose and delivered a magnificient gesture of defeat. He was given a tremendous ovation by the galleries and his colleagues.

"I am whipped," he said, his voice choking. "Yes, but by heaven, sir, there is another day coming and someone else may be whipped."

The galleries burst into prolonged applause, while even Senators and members of the House seated on the floor, joined in the cheering for the California Senator.

The vote astounded Boulder Dam adherents, after their victory of yesterday when Vice President Dawes broke a tie to vote against adjournment. A tremendous crowd jammed the floor of the Senate and its balconies as the vote was taken. There was no outbreak of cheering as occurred yesterday when the Senate voted to keep Congress here.

SENATORS CHANGE VOTES

The wide difference between the 40 to 40 vote yesterday and the 46 to 35 majority for adjournment today was due to a shifting of senators favorable to the Mississippi barge line bill, which was passed late yesterday. This caused Senators James A. Reed and Howes (Dems.), of Missouri, to switch from opposition to adjournment to voting for the resolution. Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, did likewise, while the adjournment group gained three new votes, Senator Swanson (Dem.), of Virginia; Ransdell (Dem.), of Louisiana, and Schall (Rep.), of Minnesota, who did not vote yesterday. The opponents of adjournment lost three votes which switched, while Senators Howell (Rep.), of Nebraska, and Kendrick (Dem.), of Wyoming, failed to vote today, after opposing adjournment yesterday.

Speicher, Sr., Carrick, when run over by a truck while riding on his kiddie car, were rated at $1,000 in a damage suit filed by the boy's father against Joseph H. Fulton in Common Pleas Court. The accident occurred April 21 in Sunnyside avenue, Carrick. The lad sustained cuts on his face, head and back.

"STAND UP" TO BE GIVEN KIDNAPING SUSPECT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 29.—Crowds of morbidly curious packed about the undertaking rooms in Market street here last night where lies the body of Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, found dead in a wooded ravine near Salem, O., Sunday, after having been missing for 15 days. And throughout the early hours today, long lines of curious, attracted by the nationwide interest in the brutal kidnaping, filed past the tiny casket.

Police and special investigators, taking advantage of a short respite, are preparing for a determined and exhaustive search for the perpertrators of the crime which has stirred the entire country. Immediately after the funeral services today at 11 o'clock, James O. Sloan, of Cleveland, the only remaining suspect being held for investigation, will be given a "stand-up" before eye witnesses to the kidnaping, Mrs. W. C. Van Gorder and Mrs. George E. Kelly, neighbors of the Rosenbaum family.

Two suspects held, Harry Churchill, 44, of Detroit, and Frank Haguedush, 40, of Caldwell street, Youngstown, were released yesterday.

Police are searching for the writer of a letter, posted in Sandusky, O., and signed "The Jackal," which may have been written by the kidnapers before the child escaped from them or was abandoned. The letter read: "We have your daughter. She is safe. She will be returned to you, but not until we get what we want."

Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, and American Business Club of Akron.

Earlier in the day, the pilots were presented to 14 Pittsburgh debutantes who will act as sponsors of the balloons at Bettis Field tomorrow. The affair was held in the University Club and was attended by a number of prominent society people who will occupy boxes at tomorrow's air meet. The business meeting followed the tea and immediately afterwards came an informal dinner and reception for the airmen in the William Penn Hotel.

The visiting pilots and their aides were entertained at Sanders, Freeport road, after the dinner.

With promise of clear skies and moderate winds for tomorrow, plans were rushed this morning for the reception of the giant Naval dirigible, Los Angeles, which is expected to make the trip here from its mooring at Lakehurst, N. J., if fair weather prevails.

Postoffice Aid Kills Self

Worry over continued ill health is believed to have driven Ray Ramsey, 27, clerk in the Coraopolis postoffice, to shoot himself yesterday. His body was found in an automobile near Hookstown, Beaver county, within sight of his boyhood home.

Ramsey entered the employ of the Coraopolis Postoffice in 1923 and lived on the Broadhead road, near Carnot. He leaves a wife and three children, the eldest 6 years old.

Officials at the postoffice said Ramsey appeared worried for the last year, but did not attribute it to business trouble.

A note, found near the body, asked that the postmaster be notified. His wife, formerly a Miss Morris, is said to have been a native of Weirton, W. Va.

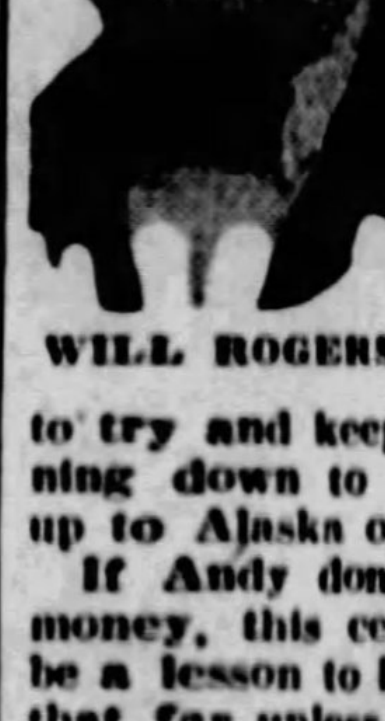
No Ancestor Aid For Bunioneer—Rogers Knows



WILL ROGERS.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 29.—Breeding and ancestry hasn't got a thing to do with anything this boy Andy Payne. His daddy and I grew up together about the same age. He was raised on an outfit next to ours. He never run in his life. He always rode horseback.

He has another kid that was named for me and I am certainly going to try and keep him from running down to Buenos Aires or up to Alaska or somewhere.

If Andy don't get this prize money, this certainly ought to be a lesson to him to never run that far unless he is sure. If I was him from now on I would just enter some short sprints of maybe just 1,500 or 2,000 miles.

Yours

KIDNAPER STRANGLES GIRL

TOLEDO, O., May 29.—A man early today entered the home of Alex Sielagowski, here, and took Dorothy, aged 7, from the bed where she was sleeping with her three sisters, carried her to his automobile, attacked and killed her. Twenty minutes later he threw the body on the porch of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dobrzenicki, a few doors from the child's home.

The child had been attacked with a hammer, then strangled.

A "little man dressed in black," who parked a large closed car in front of the Sielagowski home, then entered the house with a pass-key, is believed to be the slayer.

The child's body was found by her father and detectives.

Dorothy was sleeping in an upstairs bedroom with her two sisters, Stella, 15, and Leona, 5, when the kidnaper entered the room.

Stella awoke as he seized Dorothy and fled. Stella, temporarily paralyzed by fright, could make no outcry.

The kidnaper, with Dorothy struggling in his arms, ran from the room, down the stairway and into the street.

As the kidnaper fled with the child Stella overcame her fright and screamed. Her father was aroused and, learning the cause of Stella's terror, ran to the back door, through which Dorothy had been carried.

He then ran to the front of the house where he saw the large car parked. As he ran toward the vehicle, the auto was thrown into gear and sped away.

Sielongoski jumped into his own machine and sped to the police station. He returned to his home with a squad of officers and the search for Dorothy got under way.

The tragedy occurred just before dawn, when the streets were deserted.

FLIER AT TROMSOE

OSLO, Norway, May 29.—(AP.)—Lieut. Luetzow Holm, Norwegian flying ace, arrived at Tromsoe at 11 o'clock this morning en route to Spitzbergen where he will conduct an air search for the missing dirigible Italia in a Norwegian naval plane.

DEPEND ON HUNTERS

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 29. (AP.)—With the Italia's base ship Citta di Milano ice-bound, dependence today was placed upon hunters of the Northlands for tidings of the missing dirigible.

The Citta di Milano took aboard one hunter at Magdalena Bay where the vessel sought shelter from the ice floes, which were being driven before a shore wind. She was endeavoring to get in touch with other hunters.

One team of dogs, driven by two experts, named Tandberg and Noels, was ready to make a trip of three or four days to Widje Fjord in the hope of learning the fate of Gen. Nobile and his crew of 17. Other plans were afoot for exploration with the huskies of the North.

VENGEANCE, CRIES MOTHER

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 29.—Broken hearted and on the verge of collapse, the mother of little Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10, beyond tears, has but one cry. It is that the kidnaper and murderer of her helpless child be found and brought to quick justice.

"Don't talk about it. Can't you do something?"

That is her answer when a reporter calls to ask questions. She has told and retold her part many, many times. Now she begs us to join the police in the man-hunt. The father sits by and nods his agreement absently.

And when white-faced Mrs. Rosenbaum holds out trembling hands and begs, as though she were pleading for the life of her baby, you want to go out with your bare hands and find the man who took little child-like Beatrice to the woods to wander around, dazed and starving, until she stumbled and fell, face down, in death.

Four officials took me in a police car out to the scene of the crime today and their faces were grim. Sheriff P. J. Corll, Chief of Police Thompson, of Salem; W. T. Lally, city detective, and William J. Harrison, county detective, were in the scouting party.

We scoured the woods around for clues. They showed the spot where her stockings were found. Farther away she had dropped her shoes and rest of her clothes. Beatrice, according to her mother and father, did that at home. They left the laces out of her shoes because she was always taking them off. She hated clothes. It was pathetic that she did the same thing while dying. All of the detectives hashed these things over and shook their heads.

Shriff Corll spoke: "We can't take those car tracks seriously or the handkerchief clue—it was found near here. No marks of violence. Nothing good to base our suspicions on. I'll admit I'm floored."

This was echoed by the other men. This was the consensus:

"We're up against a stone wall. But, that just means we'll have to redouble our efforts. This crime shall not go unpunished."

Little Alice Atherine Kelley, 4, a neighbor, whose mother was questioned by police today as an eye-witness, lisped out her first interview today to me.

"I tol' mammy look at the funny car—old, ugly car Beatrice is going riding with the man in."

Just then a roadster drove by the house and she points:

"Look, it was like that."

Her mother was amazed at the little twin's memory. Alice has a twin sister. Mrs. Van Gorder, another eye-witness to the kidnaping, also said the child was right.

The little one will be questioned carefully today. So that a part of the mystery may be cleared up with halting phrases from "out of the mouth of babes."

FOURTEEN 'BAGS' ENTERED

Thousands will see their first air derby here tomorrow when 14 balloons shoot into the sky from Bettis Field for the start of the National Balloon Race, the elimination contest for the international meet at Detroit next month. Teams have been sent here from the Army, Navy and private interests all over the country. Squadrons of army and navy airplanes, together perhaps with the naval dirigible "Los Angeles," will give exhibitions in addition to a number of privately-owned planes. Above are shown some of the principals in tomorrow's air derby—sponsors and pilots—together with scenes in the midst of preparations.

PA. SHAFT UNVEILED

FISMES-ON-THE-VESLE, France, May 29.—(AP.)—A monument commemorating the achievements of Pennsylvania soldiers in the World War was unveiled today, with Maj. Gen. William G. Price and Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, representing Pennsylvania and Andre Tardieu, minister of public works, present on behalf of France.

Two hundred and nine men, in full uniform, carrying their rifles and full equipment, picked one each from the 209 military units of Pennsylvania, infantry, cavalry, heavy artillery and engineers, led by 12 officers, the latter all wounded veterans of the war, rendered military honors.

The party left Paris early in the morning in charabancs and automobiles, coming to Fismes by the way of Chateau-Thierry where the Twenty-eighth Division went into action in 1918.

From the Marne to the Vesle, the officers passed through various villages and towns which, whether helping to defend, or charging to capture, the Twenty-eighth had seen in 1918, "when things were a little different," as one officer put it.

Jaulgonne, Champvoisy, Goussencourt and finally Fismes, were reached in turn, looking spick and span, with new bridges replacing destroyed ones in the war and brand new houses, freshly painted.

All along the road between the Marne and the Vesle, the scene of terrific fighting in July and August, 1918, the Pennsylvanians tarried and exchanged reminiscences on spots where their brothers had died and nany of those present had been wounded.

Myron T. Herrick American ambassador to France, Gen. Price and the mayor of Fismes spoke briefly.

OHIOAN SENTENCED IN OFFICER'S DEATH

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 29.—Angello Tamburro, 24, was sentenced to an indeterminate sentence in the Ohio penitentiary late yesterday, following a plea of guilt to a manslaughter charge, in connection with the death of Police Lieut. Scott Roe. The police officer was injured in attempting to break up a fight at a Fraternal Order of Police ball, April 11, when he was pushed down a flight of stairs. Tamburro admitted pushing the officer, but said he had no idea Roe was near the stairway.

RACER PISTONS SMALLER

For the third successive year cars which will compete in the Decoration Day classic on the Indianapolis Speedway will be propelled by motors with a piston displacement of 91.5 inches, one-seventh the size of the motors used in the first race in 1911. There have been six changes in the piston displacement The present-day race cars are often referred to as the "vest pocket" type, but they have developed amazing speed records. In 1911 and 1912 the piston displacement was 600 cubic inches; 1913 and 1914, 450 cubic inches; 1915, 1916 and 1919, 300 cubic inches; 1920, 1921 and 1922, 183 cubic inches; 1923, 1924 and 1925, 102 cubic inches, and 1926 and 1927, 91.5 cubic inches.

WEATHERMAN'S LATEST WORD

Here, pilots, is the very, very latest from the weatherman, William Brotzman, who promises, tomorrow, "ballooning weather." To substantiate his prediction, he offers you his own bureau map, showing Pittsburgh at the very latest recordings today to have been enticing a "high pressure area," which means, everyone knows, fair weather. The "low" that was over the city last night has shifted. That "high" about which the forecaster speaks should be here for tomorrow. Bon voyage!

HEART ATTACK KILLS CARNIVAL EMPLOYE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 29.—Joseph Flenard, 27, employe of a carnival company, who was found dead in a tent on the Conemaugh show grounds Sunday night, died of heart disease, the coroner's office announced last night. Flenard was the son of Police Lieut. Clifford N. Flenard, of Camden, N. J. The father identified the body today.

MINNIE MADDERN FISK, actress, born in New Orleans, La.; daughter of Thomas W. Davey, theatrical manager, she appeared on the stage in children's parts when two years of age. Married Harrison Grey Fisk. Her fame as an actress rests on her success in "Tess of the D'Ubervilles," 1897, and "Becky Sharp." Is president of the American Humane Association. Lives in New York City.

Pittsburgh is an intensely materialistic center. Nevertheless I have found it a city in which there are revealed a warming and stimulating feeling for art and a deep sense of beauty. Furthermore, I am under the impression that the Presbyterian and Methodist churches in Pittsburgh were among the first religious institutions of the world to pass a resolution recognizing the rights of the dumb animal creation and the duty of the human race towards it. It seems to me that that was an act marking a very long step forward towards better civilization * * * If any religious institution of any foreign land has made formal acknowledgement of the duty of mankind towards the sub-human race I have not heard of it. Therefore, in this particular act in intellectual, spiritual and moral progressiveness it may be that Pittsburgh has led the world. All honor to Pittsburgh.

PRINCETON TO REMAIN UNDER DUAL BOARD

TULSA, Okla., May 29.—To the generalship of Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor, and Dr. Maitland Alexander, pastor emeritus, of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, and the stirring oratory of Dr. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle, Wash., is accorded much of the credit for the victory won yesterday in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church by opponents of the proposed new plan for the government of Princeton Theological Seminary.

Although neither Dr. Macartney nor Dr. Alexander is a commissioner to the assembly. Both are members of the seminary's board of directors and both came here for the primary purpose, it is understood, of helping to organize the opposition to the plan of substituting a unified board of control for the dual board now operating.

The debate on adoption of the proposed new plan was about to close, with strong indications that its friends were in the majority when Dr. Matthews introduced a resolution postponing further consideration of the subject for a year and directing the present board of directors to compose their difficulties and make a report to the assembly in 1929.

VOTE IS 520 TO 391

Dr. Matthews made a passionate appeal for favorable action on the resolution. It was adopted by a vote of 520 to 391. It was said that this action leaves the report of the committee of 11 which formulated the new plan, and the dissenting report of Dr. Ethelbert D. Warfield, still before the assembly for action next year.

Following adoption of the Matthews resolution Dr. Macartney, himself a former moderator, said:

"The action of the General Assembly is eminently just and fair. It gives the board of directors an opportunity to take those steps which will at once secure peace at Princeton. Had the assembly adopted the report of the special committee and disrupted the present government of Princeton Theological Seminary, an heritage of ill feelings, severed friendships and mutual suspicion would have been left behind, and the church would have been confronted with the possibility of a deep and abiding schism and division.

"But as things now stand, we can face the future with confidence and hope."

PLEA FOR MISSIONS

"America's Challenge to the Church" was the subject of an address delivered this morning by Dr. John McDowell, secretary of the board of national missions.

"Never was a greater opportunity afforded the Christian Church than just now to give the full flavor of its religious life to strengthen, sweeten and direct the life of the nation," said Dr. McDowell.

"The scientific mind, the philosophic mind, the economic mind, and the social mind without the glow of religious truth and feeling cannot satisfy the fundamental needs of the nation's soul. The nation is crying aloud for a moral and spiritual leadership based on a faith that is not afraid to reason or ashamed to believe."

PITTSBURGHERS ELECTED

Two Pittsburgh men were elected members of boards underlying the Board of Christian Education, Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, of the Shadyside church, being chosen to the college board, class of 1927-30, in place of Dr. John W. Macivor resigned, and Attorney Hallock C. Sherrard being chosen to the General Board of Education, class of 1928-31.

At a popular meeting under the Board of Foreign Missions this evening the speakers are to be Dr. Robert E. Speer, the retiring moderator, and Sir William J. Wanless, of Western India.

No new business may be introduced after the adjournment of the Assembly this afternoon and it is expected that all business on the docket will be finished in time for final adjournment tomorrow afternoon.

For your breakfast and your better health

Of course, most people eat Heinz Rice Flakes for breakfast because of their crunchy goodness and their delicate, nut-like flavor.

But there is another, equally inviting, equally important reason for eating these delightful flakes of rice.

This reason is the better health, the Joy of Living, which Heinz Rice Flakes help to promote.

For, by a special, patented Heinz process, Heinz Rice Flakes are naturally "laxatized". This unique process utilizes the natural roughage of the rice itself in such a way as to impart to Heinz Rice Flakes a mild laxative quality, enabling them to assist Nature in keeping you "fit as a fiddle".

SENATE REPORT CRITICIZES TREASURY

WASHINGTON, May 29.—A report bitterly attacking the four oil magnates who participated in the profits of the long investigated Continental Trading Company oil deal of seven years ago and criticizing the Treasury for waiting almost three years before demanding taxes due from the transaction awaited presentation today to the Senate.

"PRIVATE STEAL"

The report, prepared by Senator Walsh, (Dem.), Montana, veteran prosecutor of the Teapot Dome Committee, and unanimously approved by his fellow committeemen, characterized Robert W. Stewart, Harry F. Sinclair, H. M. Blackmer, and James E. O'Niel as "conspirators" and denounced the entire deal as a "contemptible private steal."

Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, planned to offer a supplemental report on the committee's findings, but Senator Walsh said neither was to be regarded as the last word on the oil investigation since many points remained to be cleaned up.

TRACED TO FALL

The Montana Senator reviewed the history of the Continental Companys organization to buy and sell oil in this country and declared there was a general belief that its $3,080,000 profits were "to be devoted, and perhaps had been devoted to corrupt uses of one for or another," since $233,000 in Liberty bonds purchased with the profits had been traced from Sinclair to Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary, about the time of the lease of Teapot Dome.

"It seems now, however," the report added, "to have been ill-gotten gains of a contemptible private steal, the peculation of trusted officers of great industrial houses, pilfering from their own companies, robbing their own stockholders, the share of the boodle coming to one of the freebooters serving in part as the price of the perfidy of a member of the President's cabinet."

Reference was made to the testimony that Stewart, O'Neil and Sinclair had made restitution to their companies for their shares of gains in the Continental transaction, under which oil was purchased at $1.50 a barrel and resold to their companies at $1.75, but Walsh had this to say on that point:

"It is unnecessary to dwell upon the facts leading to the conclusion that no one of the four conspirators had, at the outset, any purpose to make the company, each respectively represented, the beneficiary of the Continental transaction."

PENN ANNEXING LOSES AGAIN

Because they lacked 25 signers, annexationists of Penn township lost their second court battle in four months, today.

Judge George V. Moore upheld an appeal by township officials and others from a petition of residents along Frankstown road, adjoining the city. The law requires signatures of three-fifths of the taxables and the court ruled 255 names were necessary. The petition bore only 230.

A similar move to merge was thrown out in February for the same reason. Annexation boosters maintain the list of taxables shows a jump every time annexation is proposed.

RECEIPTS TAX HELD ILLEGAL

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP.)—Taxicab companies operated by corporations, joint stock associations and limited partnerships won in the Supreme Court yesterday in an attack upon the tax imposed by Pennsylvania upon gross receipts. The court held that the law was invalid because it posed upon corporations taxes which are not imposed upon persons and partnerships.

Justice Holmes announced his dissent, declaring that the states could discriminate as proposed in the Pennsylvania law. Justice Brandeis also dissented declaring that such taxes had long been in force. Justic Stone announced that he agreed with the views of Justice Brandeis.

TRAIN VICTIMS GET $5,000

Consent verdicts were returned in Common Pleas Court awarding Benjamin Goldstein and his daughter, Gladys Goldstein, Monongahela, Pa., each $2,500 damages against the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad for personal injuries. Attorney Ben Paul Brasley represented the plaintiffs and Carl Gluck the defendant.

How To Be Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

'Is Your Hair Sprinkled With Gray?'

IS your hair sprinkled with gray? If so, before you decide to change its color remember that naturalness is very much the mode today.

Increasing numbers of women are leaving their hair the tint that nature gave it, for they realize that this tint tones in best with the coloring of the eyes and skin.

Have you not noticed at the opera that the women in the partiere boxes who stand out because of exquisite beauty are in many instances those with white or gray hair, slender of figure and youthful face.

Not long ago I visited the salon of a famous beauty specialist. A charming lady who looked about 22 entered and removed her hat. Then I saw that her dark hair was peppered with white.

"I hope she is not going to have that lovely head of hers dyed," I murmured.

"No, indeed," replied the mistress of the salon. "She is an old customer of mine, and I know she is proud of her hair, which she considers an individual setting for her face.

"She is here for a facial. She indulges in one about every two or three weeks, for she realizes that occasional facial massage tones the skin, stirs up circulation and is a reliable beauty aid. Her idea is to keep her complexion exquisitely young and fresh as a foil for her gray hair."

"Simple care, including the daily bath and facial cleansings of oil, with perhaps massage now and then, is all the complexion needs," she continued. "It is the hair that is most often neglected.

"A woman will shampoo her hair once or twice a month, then wonder why it is lifeless and oily. The hair becomes soiled more quickly than the rest of the body. It should be shampooed every week or even more often."

There is much truth in this comment. Wash your hair as often as it needs it. This will be oftener in summer than in winter.

Use liquid green or melted castile soap. Lather and rinse your scalp twice. Then rinse it again and into this last rinse squeeze the juice of a lemon. Half a lemon may suffice for a bobbed head.

Is your hair falling out profusely? Do not worry, it should do so at this time of year. And feathery little new hairs should make their appearance about the edges of your forehead, for spring is also the season of renewed growth. If new hairs are not sprouting, your scalp may need attention.

Brush it vigorously every morning with wire-bristled military brushes. Go outdoors bare-headed on mild days, so that it can breathe in oxygen.

RETRIAL ASKED IN HOLDUP

A motion for a new trial for Fred West, 20, of Fairmont, W. Va., convicted May 16 of the holdup of the Aldine Theater, December 14, last, was argued in Criminal Court. With a masked companion, West was accused of forcing entrance and with drawn guns taking $2,400 in receipts from Gerald Murphy, assistant manager. He was arrested in New Albany, O., in January. His defense was an alibi. Argument was based on an alleged confession introduced at the trial. His counsel, Joseph P. Passafiume, argued that it was unsigned and that W. L. Collins, Pinkerton detective, who was stated to have taken the confession, did not appear at the trial as a witness. Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty opposed the motion.

Judges Joseph M. Swearingen, Thomas J. Ford and H. H. Rowand sat in Criminal Court to hear arguments on motions, concluding the May term of court.

Memorial Day

AGAIN this great and prosperous nation celebrates the day consecrated to the memory of its countless heroes—those who gave their lives in defense of the lofty ideals and sound principles upon which our country's strength is firmly founded.

And just as a great nation grows and prospers through unwavering fidelity to certain ideals and principles, so, too, the success of a business depends upon the ideals and principles upon which it is founded.

Richman's Clothes, today, represent the crowning achievement of half a century devoted to these ideals and principles—to give men the finest materials and workmanship we can produce, at a price within easy reach of every purse—to value the customer's satisfaction above our immediate profit—to deal fairly with all those to whom we sell, those from whom we buy, and with all our employes.

The tremendous growth of our business—our great factories employing 2600 men and women who own Richman stock valued at $6,000,000.00—our 31 stores—and thousands upon thousands of customers who buy Richman's Clothes, year after year—all bear evidence that we have honestly lived up to our ideals.

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

Reviews of Pittsburgh Attractions in Legitimate, Vaudeville, Burlesque and Photoplay Houses

SOME ENTERTAINERS :-: WHOM WE MEET :-: IN MIMIC WORLD

Corinne Griffith has the leading role in "The Garden of Eden," photoplay in the Penn.

Harry Bannister plays the male lead in "The Baby Cyclone," stock comedy in the Nixon.

Ida May Chadwick heads a group of blonde girl dancers in the Davis vaudeville bill.

John Steel, tenor, is the feature of the stage presentation offered to patrons of Stanley.

Anne Forrest acts the title role in "Mary's Other Husband," comedy played by Pitt stock.

AMUSING FARCE IS OFFERED IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

The George Sharp Players are presenting a highly amusing farce comedy in the Pitt this week. It is titled "Mary's Other Husband." The action centers around a young wife's efforts to make an "impression" on a visiting uncle of wealth from the West.

As the plot gets under way you learn that Mary Marshall, a young matron portrayed by Anne Forrest, had boasted of having many fine things—pianos, limousines, butlers and maids. This state of fine living had reached the ears of an Uncle Elmer, living in California. Mary gets a telegram that uncle is to arrive that night. She finds herself confronted with the job of making her dreams come true—turning her ordinary bungalow into some shade of pretentiousness.

So she hires a maid, sends an S O S to an employment agency for a butler and borrows lavishly from a neighbor, Sylvia Allen. Silverware and draperies come from the Allen house across the way. And when the first curtain raises it discloses Miss Forrest and Mabel Kroman, the Sylvia of the piece, hanging drapes and plotting a big "front" for the benefit of Uncle Elmer.

But difficulty after difficulty arises. And with each new difficulty the comical situations broaden into wider grins for the audience—and finally extend into wide-open laughs, and from about the middle of the first act until the last curtain these laughs are quite continuous, and at times, rather prolonged.

First the butler turns out to be a crook. Then the home-coming husband balks at the idea of all the false show. In the end he is drafted as the butler, it being decided to fake a story about the husband being detained somewhere. But when Uncle Elmer and his niece, Florence, arrive, it develops that another husband must be found. The Uncle, you see, must consult with him about transferring some property to the Marshall baby. Oh yes, there is a baby. So Mary, with what her real husband terms a "movie plot complex," rounds up another man.

But you haven't heard anything yet. Many more complications arise, one of them being Stella, the maid, who rather fancies the butlering husband.

Mr. Sharp's players give very satisfactory performances. There is praise for Stella, the maid, as essayed by Alice Ann Baker; Husband No. 1, as played by Ralph Morgan, and Gordon Anderson, the temporary husband.

The premier last night was quite a smart event. Almost a capacity house was there. In addition to it being a benefit performance for the Eastern Star, many persons socially prominent were present to witness the debut, as a George Sharp player, of Brown Mehard, young Pittsburg and Sewickley society woman. She had the role of Uncle Elmer's niece, Florence.

FUN AT PIANO DAVIS HIT

There is a comedian in the Davis this week, whose antics amuse and whose artistry as a musician impresses, for he is a clowning pianist and violinist. He does all the old funny things on the piano and some new ones, at times giving the final flourish to a comic rendition of a familiar air by sitting on the keys. George Chabot is the lad and he has the assistance of Nonette Tortini, good-looking French girl, as his effective foil. Once he becomes serious and, with the house darkened, he stands in the rays of a blue footlight and plays the violin with real feeling. This team is easily the leader in the bill and a couple of comedy acrobats, Wulff and Jerome, run second. Their act is a lot of fun and the way one extends himself out horizontally from a horizontal bar, holding his body in the air with his arms on a level with the bar is a revelation. The dancing act of Ida May Chadwick and six blonde aids is a pleasing demonstration of various steps and is well liked. The Three Vagrants win favor with their playing of guitar, clarinet and accordion. George Austin Moore sings and the three Nelsons roll and juggle hoops. Madge Bellamy is seen in her undies in "The Play Girl," trivial but amusing comedy romance, the photoplay feature. Johnny Mack Brown is the likeable boy. Walter McGrail and Anita Garvin are prominent. News pictures and a film comedy complete the program.

KENNYWOOD EVENTS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Lieut. Izzy Cervonne's Band will play four concerts in Kennywood Park tomorrow, Memorial Day. Dancing in the big pavilion will be to music by the Kennywoodians, under the direction of Danny Nirella. Will Hill and his Society Circus, Mlle. Theira and her Royal Puppet Show and all amusements will be open. The big bathing pool also will be open. There is a large list of entries for the modified marathon race and field meet.

NEW WILLOWS SCENE OF AUTO CLUB OUTING

The Syria Temple Automobile Club held its spring party in the New Willows, Oakmont, last night, with an attendance of more than a thousand. Eva Tanguay, returning to Pittsburgh after a long absence, headlined the vaudeville bill of four acts. Cass Hagens New York orchestra furnished music for dancing. The New Willows will be open to the public again tonight.

Makes Her Own Skin Bleach

Known for having one of the most beautiful skins in New York, Miss Mildred Ball, favorite artists' and photographers' model, recently made the statement that most of the New York models use a skin bleach of their own making.

According to Miss Ball, "we get three ounces of Orchard White from the druggist and add to it the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a perfectly harmless yet marvelously effective bleach. Applied to face, neck and arms, it bleaches any dark or discolored skin a beautiful rosy white. It also makes any rough or coarse skin soft and smooth. Many of the girls use it, too, for a tan and freckle bleach. Nothing like this wonderful mixture can be bought ready to use because it acts best when freshly prepared. The cost for several weeks' supply is only a few cents."

"The Baby Cyclone," Farce, Gives Nixon Audience Much To Laugh at, Pup Assisting

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"THE BABY CYCLONE," a George M. Cohan Farce, proved an amusing vehicle of broad humor last night in the Nixon, where it was presented as the second offering of the summer season of stock by the Noxon players. It was diverting throughout to a fairly large audience tolerant enough to appreciate the difficulties under which a stock organization labors and thus to overlook a slight obstacle to smoothness of production occasioned by some faltering over lines in the first act. The fact that this was soon forgotten as the audience became engrossed in the intricacies of the maintaining of friendly relations where there is a pet dog around to keep things agitated speaks a lot for the quality of the piece as a comedy.

The pet mentioned is a Pekinese and his name is Cyclone because he was born in a storm. So perhaps he feels right in his element as a storm center, for that's what he is. Because Cyclone makes him run second in his own home Gene Hurley takes him out and sells him just to get rid of him, telling his wife he is lost. She creates a scene in the street and Joseph Meadows interferes. He meets the usual fate and when he arrives at his own home he has a blackened eye and Mrs. Hurley, the latter so nervous she is put to bed. Gene later arrives, explanations are made and the men become friendly. Meadows leaves to meet his fiance, Lydia Webster, and she, wondering about the delay, comes to the Meadows home, bringing a Pekinese. You guessed it—Cyclone. Revived, Mrs. Hurley comes into the room in the absence of Miss Webster recognizes and embraces Cyclone and takes him away.

That is the foundation of the story, the development of which leads to numerous complications, widens the rift between the Hurleys, disrupts the betrothal of Meadows and Miss Webster and reaches its farcical height when the four of them are arrested by an officer who can't make head or tail of the situation because Hurley insists the dog belongs to Miss Webster and Meadows is equally insistent that Mrs. Hurley is the owner of the animal, feeling that it would cause him to be second to the pup if it were in his home after his marriage, which impends. Yes, indeed, Cyclone is a storm center and it takes three merry acts to establish his status.

Excepting the slight imperfection noted above, the farce was well acted and well staged. Harry Bannister appeared as Meadows and Katherine Wilson, as Mrs. Hurley. Josephine Whittell, making her debut with the company, made good as Miss Webster. George MacReady was Gene Hurley and Howard Freeman made a hit as a policeman who could not be fooled. Fred Sullivan, Kathryn Card, Joseph Thayer, Louise Quinn and others also had parts.

Worthy Picture Is Feature In Penn

Corrinne Griffith, whose eyes reflect epics, romance, idyls, comedy, has a splendid vehicle for all her talents in the United Artists' picture "The Garden of Eden," which is the chief attraction in the bill in the Penn this week. Few screen offerings combine subtle comedy with such a logical plot, and, with superb photography, it makes a wholesome and satisfying entertainment. Add the beauty and grace of the star, and you have something worthy of the highest praise—which this is intended to be. A Hal Roach comedy depicting the events in a pie-throwing battle, which follows the main screen attraction, emphasizes the subtle comedy in "The Garden of Eden." And by the way, "The Garden of Eden" has nothing to do with Adam and Eve, or the serpent. Teddy Joyce, in his master of ceremonies business, depends on the "Kat Kabaret" for his fun-making. The specialties include Bert Nagle and Omar, Hearst Brothers, the Patterson Twins, Roy Walman and Kerenoff and Maree. The overture, including Wagnerian selections, is the chief musical feature.

TWO EXCURSIONS BY JAPANESE GARDEN

Preparations are complete to handle a capacity crowd of adults and children in the two initial excursions tomorrow by Japanese Garden, the newest amusement steamer operating on the three rivers. The Garden is stationed at the foot of Wood street, from whence the first trip out will be made at 1 p. m., and the second at 8:30 p. m. In addition to novelties and cash prize events there will be dancing in the ballroom. An orchestra of girls will furnish the music.

COWBOY CAREY IN HARRIS

The Harris yesterday inaugurated its new policy of two new bills weekly. Harry Carey, movie cowboy, appeared as headliner of the vaudeville for the first three days. His chaps and wide-brim hat gave the cowboy flavor. Harry got a big ovation. His act, which was rather brief, put him in the position of a radio bedtime story teller with his own version of "Little Red Riding Hood." Fraser Hammond and company in a skit that had to do with ghosts and such, put a lot of laughs in the bill. One of the bright spots in the show was Maud Earl, very blond and very entertaining. She opened with a medley of popular songs. Then she gave her version of a certain song, followed by the way one of the big operatic stars would do it. Emmet and King were back with their same patter, buffoonery and steps. Powell and Rinehart offered something new in chalk talks—making pictures by literally throwing what, it is presumed, was colored chalk dust. The Geraldine Imperio Trio offered melodies and steps. The photoplay was "The Count of Ten," featuring Charles Ray.

PICNICS, DANCING AT PALM GARDEN

A day of entertainment at Palm Garden Park, Mt. Washington, has been arranged for Memorial Day by Johnny Jones promoter of sports and dance events. A basket picnic, with free coffee, dancing and athletic contests, has been arranged for the afternoon. Dancing in the afternoon and evening Palm Garden pavilion is on the program. Old time dancing will be featured.

BEBE DANIELS FILM TOPS BILL IN GRAND

"The Fifty-Fifty Girl" is the current photoplay in the Grand. Bebe Daniels is the star. The picture is nothing to get excited about. Its story doesn't afford Bebe many opportunities. There are some laughs however. Bebe portrays a girl who thinks men are subordinate to women. She and a young fellow are partners in a gold mine venture The plot deals with their efforts at putting the mine in operation. The former policy of incliuding stage attractions in the Grand has been resumed. Cleo Balcom and her Lucky Lindy Girls are offering an act of synocopation this week.

PARK TO OPEN TOMORROW

Jack Crawford, heralded as "the clown prince of jazz," and his orchestra have been engaged to open the new National Amusement Park, Freeport road, Wednesday. Crawford, who weighs approximately 300 pounds, comes to this new pleasure spot direct from a tour over the country. On the completion of his engagement here he will go direct to the Steel Pier at Atlantic City to officially open the summer season at that resort.

The park offers numerous amusement features, some of which are said to be new to Pittsburgh.

Oranges Insure Health

Juicy, luscious Sunkist Oranges

Eat plenty of oranges, your doctor will advise, because they offset acidity, correct ACIDOSIS and naturally stimulate the body through their mineral salts and vitamins.

To keep up with the business battle-line, open the day with orange juice. An orange salad at noon is nourishing as well as refreshing. An orange dessert for dinner is not only delightful but healthful and easily digested.

Sunkist Oranges — fresh in your home throughout the year—are juicy, tender and delicious. They are easiest to peel and to separate or slice. For 5-minute desserts and 10-minute salads these oranges have no near rivals. And best of all, everyone enjoys oranges — they do not tire appetites.

For the school lunch box, Sunkist Oranges are first choice because they are sweet and luscious and of uniform quality. Children thrive on a bountiful supply of oranges. They are a positive aid to robust good health. There is a size for every pocketbook. Buy them everywhere fruit is sold.

Richest Juice — Finest Flavor

To be sure of getting California Sunkist Oranges look for the trade-mark on the fruit and on the wrapper.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Prepares for Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at Allegheny Country Club June 22-23

THERE is no need in my telling you that the golf season is in full stride now. The golf links are dotted with players all day long, and you can see that for yourself. But perhaps you don't know and will be interested to find out that the women's invitation golf tournament will be played on the Allegheny Country Club links on June 22 and 23. This will, naturally, bring some of the best women players in the country here—and incidentally great numbers of golf lovers eager to watch the play of these feminine experts. One of them, though, doesn't need to stir from her own doorstep to take part. I refer, of course, to Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, the Western Pennsylvania champion, who lives in Maple lane, in Shields.

Mrs. James M. Schoonmaker, Jr., is in charge of the tournament, and she says that among the famous women golfers coming on for the event are Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, who has won the tournament for the past two years; Helen Payson, the present Canadian women's champion; Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, and Mary Jenny, former metropolitan champion.

There is going to be still another attractive wedding late in June, I hear. Martha Green, whose engagement to Samuel Clarke Reed, Jr., son of the Samuel Clarke Reeds, of Murrayhill avenue, was announced last June by her father and mother, the Jonathan Sherman Greens, of St. James place, has decided on Saturday, June 30, for her wedding.

The wedding is to be a small one, I believe, in Calvary Episcopal Church at 5 o'clock that afternoon. Just the two families and a few close personal friends will comprise the guest list.

The engagement of a local man to an out-of-town girl has just been announced in the betrothal of Hazelhurst Plant McCaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Eugene McCaw, of Fifth avenue, New York, and Lake George, to William M. McEldowney, son of the A. W. McEldowneys, of Westminster place. Mr. McEldowney attended the Taft School and later went to Princeton, from which school he was graduated in 1924. The girl he is to marry comes from a Georgia family, who lived for a number of years in Cincinnati. She prepared for college there and is now a student at Smith. The wedding, I hear, will take place early in the fall at Lake George.

Mrs. Scott Alexander McKeown, of the Schenley apartments, is planning to open her summer place at Lakeside, Pa., about June 10, I understand. Her daughters, Sara Jane and Scotty Jean, and her son, Scott Alexander, will go with her, of course.

Miss Louise Agnes Taylor, daughter of Mrs. John M. Taylor, of Illinois avenue, Dormont, has selected June 7 as the date for her marriage to George Hersey Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Webb, of Bartlett, N. H. The ceremony will be performed that morning at 9 o'clock and will be followed by a wedding breakfast. Mrs. Edgar S. Patterson, of Mt. Lebanon, will be her sister's matron of honor, and Dr. F. C. Snyder is to be best man.

* * *

Mrs. Ida Marks will give a card party the night of June 7 in the home of Mrs. E. J. Graham, Fourth avenue and Market street, for the benefit of N. Luella Jackson Chapter, No. 416, O. E. S.

The Marian Guild of Carrick will hold a dance June 14 in the Carrick Eagles' ballroom, Brownsville road. Miss Eleanor Schumacher is general chairman with Miss Isabella Farrell, Miss Ursula Kelly, Miss Alma Thomas, Miss Gladys Walters and Miss Catherine Wilson at the door, and Miss Amelia Franciscus, Miss Dorothy Miller, Miss Margaret Miller, Miss Louise Schmidt, Miss Catherine and Miss Clara Leininger, Miss Caroline Schumacher and Miss Margaret and Miss Helen Walker comprising the reception committee.

The women's auxiliary to the Allegheny County Homeopathic Medical Society will hold a tea June 8 in the Pittsburgh Training School for Nurses in South Aiken avenue, for the wives of local physicians. The tea precedes the annual sessions of the American Institute of Homeopathy to be held here June 17 to 21. Mrs. H. S. Nicholson, president of the auxiliary, is in charge. Mrs. J. P. McComb is treasurer, and Mrs. George B. Moreland, secretary.

At a luncheon given Saturday in the Garden Tearoom announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Charlotte Royce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Royce, of the South Hills, to Earl E. Cappel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Cappel, of the South Hills. Miss Royce is a student at the University of Pittsburgh and a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha fraternity. Mr. Cappel was graduated from Pitt and is a member of the Phi Delta Chi fraternity.

UNUSUAL REPORTS MARK CLUB MEETING

Some very unusual reports were heard last night at the closing meeting of the Mt Lebanon Woman's Club. The president, Mrs. James S. Huey, in whose home the meeting was held, reported that she had attended 29 receptions and had spent 480 hours on the telephone in the transaction of club business. Mrs. Miles G. Bulger, membership chairman, had 178 new members to report, thus bringing the total membership to 421. Assets amounting to $2,632.37 were reported by Mrs. I. G. Amsler, and the ways and means committee told of having earned $687.50, which has been added to the building fund.

One of the most unusual reports, both in character and content, was given by Mrs. A. H. Davis, who has served the club most faithfully as press chairman during the year. Mrs. Davis presented her report as a bill in advertising and showed by actual count that the club had received 203 notices averaging 20 lines each, the cost of which she gave according to advertising rates. A musical program followed the business session, Mrs. B. H. Conaway and Mrs. Adolph Krebs singing several numbers accompanied by Mrs. J. P. Boore. Tea, with Mrs. R. C. Kramer and Mrs. M. S. Kimmel presiding at the table, rounded out the afternoon and the year.

A delegation from Pittsburgh will go to Waynesburg tomorrow to be guests of the recently organized Waynesburg Quota Club when it is made a member of Quota International. The charter will be presented by Miss Elizabeth J. White, of New Castle, an international director. Other delegations will be present from Washington, Pa.; Uniontown, Brownsville and Morgantown. Among the speakers will be Miss Mary Russel Purnum, of Pittsburgh, a former Waynesburg resident and a past president of the Quota International, and Mrs. Blanche Hallam and Dr. Beatrice Merrin, both of Washington, who were instrumental in organizing the Waynesburg club. Officers of the new organization are: President, Miss Marguerite McCurdy; secretary, Miss Edna O'Hara, and treasurer, Miss Josephine Zahnizer.

Mrs. William H. French, of Alder street, a member of the Pittsburgh Colony of New England Women, is entertaining her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Jones, of New Hartford, Conn., who motored to Pittsburgh last week. They are expecting to leave tomorrow for their home.

More than 125 women attended the annual luncheon of the Homewood Women's Club, which was held yesterday in the Edgewood Country Club. Mrs. Charles W. Smith and the members of her social committee arranged the luncheon and made the place favors, tiny shoulder bouquets of sweet peas, which also formed the centerpiece at each table. Mrs. George L. Carson, retiring president, welcomed the guests, and Mrs. Ralph Bailey presented the program consisting of soprano solos by Mrs. Edith Sallada Henry and readings by Mrs. L. N. Smith. Mrs. Jennie Hollis Fackiner was accompanist for the singer.

Music for the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club meeting yesterday was provided by Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter, who sang several lovely numbers to her own accompaniments, and by Mrs. Bertha Gross King, whose piano numbers are always enjoyed. "So You're Going to Italy" was the title of an interesting talk by Miss Grace Swan, who gave her own impressions of Italy, illustrating with some beautifully colored lantern slides. Mrs. W. M. Davidson presented a deferred paper on "Venice," and Miss Mayme Stoner had as her subject, "After Mussolini, What?" The club has changed its place for the closing luncheon next Tuesday and will hold it in the Woman's City Club at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Harry C. Miller and Mrs. Charles E. Gilchrist, Jr., have arranged the program for the Memorial Day program in Legion Park under auspices of the Women's Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward. Allegheny Post, American Legion, will give the call to colors and pupils from the John Morrow, Horace Mann, Woods Run and Halls Grove schools will sing the national anthem. The address will be by Oscar I. Harter, commander of Allegheny Post, and a wreath will be placed on the memorial statue by John B. Patrick, department commander of Pennsylvania G. A. R., and George B. Rudolf, past vice commander.

Capt. Thomas Voss spoke on "The Future of Government Aviation," at a meeting of the Dormont League of Women Voters this afternoon in the home of Mrs. R. L. Ehmann, Espy avenue. The meeting was advanced because of Memorial Day.

Bridge and "500" will follow the annual luncheon of the Women's Civic Club of Wilkinsburg, which is set for Monday afternoon, June 11, in the Edgewood Country Club. Mrs. F. G. Hickling is taking reservations.

* * *

Central Branch, Young Women's Christian Association, will hold its membership vesper service on Sunday at 4 o'clock. A program of symbolism and music will be given and tea will follow.

BUGS BAER Says

PRINCETON scientists have discovered that electricians, employed in low wave length broadcasting stations, are inoculated with high temperature.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

This is true, if unimportant.

But not unusual. We have suspected for years that these United Statics were two octaves above normal.

Some years ago we diagnosed the radio hook-ups and announced that sopranos were suffering from a new ailment called microphone fever

Princeton ratified this minority report by stating that people living near low wave length garages are speedily afflicted with raging temperatures.

Especially when an adenoidical tenor is hanging Danny Deever from 9 to 10 during the Morons' Joy Hour.

There is no cure for microphone fever and no antidote for the predatory germ of elocution which now swamps America from the setting of the sun to the rising of the alarm clock.

Another new impediment is the DX wrist. Caused by chronic whirling of knobs in an attempt to convert a wolf chorus into grand opera.

The amplified ear is another by-product of entertainment and interference. It resembles what's left of an artichoke after a vegetable dinner.

This column intends to keep its readers informed of the finer things of life as fast as they can be tabulated.

HIGH BIDS WON, BUILDER SAYS

Claiming to have been the lowest bidder on contracts for three school houses in North Versailles township, Joseph Ashor, a New Kensington contractor, yesterday in Common Pleas Court asked an injunction against the township school board. He also asked the court to direct the school board to let the contract to him.

He says his bid of $46,300 for an eight-room school in Dixon Hollow was lower than the bid of Croyle & Beck, to whom the contract was let. He says the same was true of his bid of $29,184 for a four-room school at Crooked Run, let to Louis Drnjovich, and his bid of $33,929 for a six-room school at West Wilmerding, awarded to Lafayette Gamble.

How about "Al" Smith? Is he among the 12 greatest living men about whom a compelling story has been written. Read Sunday's Sun-Tele.

GEE! THAT GUY MUST BE BRINGING DOWN FORD'S BANK BOOK TO BE BALANCED!
BANK
I'M SO INSPIRED I THINK I'LL GET ME AN AUTOGRAPH ALBUM TOO!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

THE other day I saw a man going into a bank carrying the biggest book I ever saw out in circulation.

Curiosity forced me to follow him. Soon a crowd gathered around him looking at the book.

It wasn't a bank book! Ah! He must be that party I have heard so much about whose friend was going to give him a book for Christmas, but his other friends said he had a book!

Timidly I approached and took a peep also. What was my surprise to discover that this was an autograph album.

Previous to this my experience with autograph hunters has been limited to small pink pages inclosed in self-addressed envelopes.

But here was a big-game hunter! Joseph Charles Mikulec has stalked his illustrious signatures around the world for 20 years.

The book cost $120 to have especially made, and weighs 55 pounds.

It is the third one he has filled. He can instantly turn to the page on which is a signature you wish to see, even if the book is upside down. Three Kings and nine Presidents have signed this book. It is filled with official seals and autographs in every language.

I asked him which one of all these wonderful people impressed him most, and after a little thought he said:

"Teddy Roosevelt!"

Old Sol Was Mother's Worst Enemy—But Nowadays He's Daughter's Best Friend

IN GRANDMOTHER'S day the bold forward girl who dared expose herself to the glaring rays of the sun was looked upon with horror. "My dear, she's actually sunburned! Did you ever see anything more terrible in your life?" Then it was simply a disgrace, you know, to have one's complexion all tanned and healthy looking. The height of every girl's ambition was to have a dainty pink and white complexion that would be the enevy of all her friends.

But now— What a difference the years do make! Grandmother's simply horrified when she sees all the lovely young things proudly displaying the tan that comes from the outdoor activities that are the very breath of life to them. Tennis, swimming, hiking, fishing—all these things they go in for because they know it will give them the glowing good health that is the mark of beauty nowadays.

Of course, there are some who sigh for the dainty miss with her tiny toes just peeping 'neath the hem of her long, frilly skirt. And the ruffled and floppy sunshade and big hat and dainty curls framing a white, wistful little face. Doubtless they were all very lovely, but they couldn't begin to compare with the girl of today.

From sunshade to sunshine! It's a long step and a far cry, but, honestly, wouldn't you rather have the sunshine girl than the sunshade shepherdess? I would, and I'm sure Dan Cupid would, for let me tell you a secret—it's his fault that the style has changed, for when he found his masculine subjects tiring of pink and white loveliness he inveigled Dame Fashion into issuing her decree of "Sunshine—every time, all the time!" And there you are!

Horoscopes

Wednesday, May 30

ACCORDING to the fairly negative lunar aspects for this day there may not be matters of great moment. There is some encouragement for new undertakings but at the same time the financial prospects seem precarious and there is danger for all projects of a speculative nature.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a rather hazardous year financially and as regards the employment.

A child born on this day should be given early instruction and practice in frugality and prudent handling of its substance. The tendency to snap judgments and too optimistic an outlook may prove ruinous.

Thursday, May 31

AN active day with affairs moving at a lively pace in commercial affiliations as well as in all that pertains to publishings, writings and promotion is presaged by the lunar aspect to Mercury, which governs buying and selling as well as all intellectual pursuits and writings of whatsoever nature.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly lively year, with new business and a renewal of contracts, but there may be slight disappointments. Trade as well as publishing, promotion and literary matters should be lively.

A child born on this day should be versatile and clever and should succeed in business or in any contacts with literary activities.

Meditations of a Married Woman

By HELEN ROWLAND

TOO MANY WOMEN

SOLOMON isn't the only man who ever had too many women in his life. There are too many women in EVERY man's life!

The modern man is "spoiled" beyond hope. Why shouldn't he be, as long as he can do just as he pleases, and NO woman dares to punish him? Because she knows that there is another woman just waiting for the chance to "console" him!

* * *

If his wife decided to treat him to a little "neglect" just to make him "see how it feels," there is always his doting mother to darn his socks, make him his favorite pie and feed him comforting assurances.

HELEN ROWLAND

If his wife decides to "make him suffer" for something he has done, there is always his stenographer to whom he can tell his troubles, who will agree that he is "abused" and from whom he can get "a square deal"—because she doesn't dare to "pity" anyone but HIM!

* * *

A wife may spoil her husband's breakfast, but a tactful stenographer can always bring back his appetite in time for lunch.

Nobody feels sorry for a hard-working business girl who has to come home from the office and get her own dinner. But let a wife "desert" her husband for the summer, in the hope that he will MISS her, and promptly all her friends rally to his aid and insist on feeding him home-cooked dinners and introducing him to all the pretty girls they know, as a sort of temporary bachelor.

* * *

And when his wife returns, all sunburned and worn out, what does she find? Instead of a chastened and neglected spouse, she finds a REJUVENATED, confident male, all dolled up in white plus fours and entirely disconcerted at her reappearance. It is perfectly evident that he has not "suffered" a bit, that he has been overfed, and that a matrimonial vacation AGREES with him.

* * *

You can pu a bad boy in a dark closet, take away his marmalade or rub soap in his mouth to punish him.

* * *

But if you locked a husband in the cellar, some woman would let him out of the window! If you took away his marmalade, some woman would pass him the cake. If you rubbed soap in his mouth, some woman would wash it out with perfume and take away the horrid taste with a kiss.

* * *

There is absolutely NO way of disciplining or chastening a man in these days of feminine competition! As long as women refuse to stand together this will be a man's world—and he will continue to be the "spoiled darling" of the gods and goddesses. There are too many WOMEN in this world!

For the Lovelorn

Lonesome and Blue

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young lady 20 years old and an only child. My parents have always given me anything I wished, but I am not happy. I have tried to find a young man in whom I could become interested, but as yet haven't succeeded. My trouble seems to be that after I get a man he seems to lose interest very quickly. How can I hold on to the next one I meet? Perhaps I am stupid, but I do not drink or smoke, and no man has ever tried to spoon with me. If one did, I'm sure I don't known just what I'd do. Please answer this and send a ray of light to a troubled mind.

LONESOME AND BLUE.

Drinking, smoking and petting will not make a girl really popular my dear, but friendliness will. Perhaps you are a bit stiff and formal with men. Act with them in the same friendly manner you have with girls, and they will like you better.

Wondering

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young man of 20 and have been reading your advise for quite a while and consider it very good. Now, I am coming to you for some. I go with a girl who is my second cousin on my mother's side. What I would like to know is if you think there is any harm in second cousins carrying. We like each other quite a lot and our parents both are satisfied.

WONDERING.

I believe second cousins are permitted to marry in Pennsylvania.

How to Correct High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is nearly always the result of accumulated body poisons. If your blood pressure is high now, don't neglect it but take steps at once to get the poisons out of your system.

Go today and get a large, inexpensive bottle of Lithuric Salts of any good druggist and start taking it tomorrow morning before breakfast. This pleasant, sparkling drink, composed of nature's best mineral salts combined with fruit acids of lemons and grapes, will gently but thoroughly sweep accumulated waste from the bowels, stimulate the liver and assist the kidneys. Thus, all organs of elimination are caused to function properly and soon you should note a lowering of blood pressure, improved digestion and a general new feeling of fitness. Get Lithuric Salts today at any May Drug Co. Store, or any other good druggist—it's harmless and will surely help you or you can have your money back.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Swelling of Legs, "Dropsy"; Causes and Treatment

IF kidneys and heart fail to function as they should, there may be swelling of the ankles and legs. The eyelids, too, may be puffy and the fingers so enlarged that the rings cannot be removed. These symptoms are more commonly due to failure of proper kidney action than to anything else.

DR. COPELAND

There is another trouble of a similar nature. In this there is an escape of quantities of fluid into spaces of the body where it does not belong. The laymen speak of the condition as "dropsy." The doctors call it "ascites."

In this condition a watery fluid collects in the abdominal cavity, or the "peritoneal cavity," as the anatomists name it. Normally, this space holds nothing but coils of intestines, and there is just enough moisture to afford lubrication. But in dropsy there may be gallons of fluid in the cavity.

Even so marked and unmistakable a symptom as this is not regarded as a disease. It is not a disease in the true sense. Dropsy is the visible sign of some physical disturbance, rarely in the abdomen itself, but usually in the liver, the heart or the kidneys.

The quantity of fluid may be so great as to stretch the skin of the abdomen. The wall is tight as a drum. In a case where there is so much fluid the cause is perfectly apparent. But when the quantity of fluid is only a quart or two, it will not be so easy to decide what is wrong.

To get rid of the accumulated fluid requires no serious procedure. A "trochar"—a sharp pointed instrument enclosed in a hollow tube—is the simple instrument used. This may be thrust through the overlying tissues and the fluid drained off through the tube.

Of course, this little operation does not cure anything. It serves merely to remove the pressure and the visible evidence of disability. The underlying cause must be determined and the really curative treatment must be directed towards its removal. Your doctor will decide whether heart, kidney, liver or some other organ is at fault. In most cases there will be found very scanty flow of urine. It would seem almost as if the fluid which should escape this way is dammed up in the body. If the kidneys are not seriously diseased the remedies which increase their action will do much to prevent the accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity.

Likewise, excessive sweating may carry off the fluid. Hot baths, electric-light baths and other means of forcing the skin action may help the dropsy. Once more, however, it must be borne in mind that these measures are not corrective of the underlying fault—they merely remove its effects.

It's a Bachelor's Privilege

"Why doesn't old Van get married?"

"No one wants him, I guess. A nasty disposition like his is a bachelor's privilege—women won't stand for it!"

Van Doren knew that himself. What he didn't know was how to change it. Certainly he'd tried hard enough to correct that chronic sour temper of his . . . with cathartics that wracked his system—health foods that took weeks to act . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

TO HONOR SOLDIER DEAD IN MANY EXERCISES

SEC'Y DAVIS SPEAKER AT 2 SERVICES

Pittsburgh's heroic dead will be fittingly honored tomorrow by military, civic, religious and other organizations as the community prepares to observe Memorial Day.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will take part in two services. In the morning he will visit Woodlawn Cemetery, Wilkinsburg, under the auspices of the War Veterans' Council and in the afternoon he will speak at the unveiling of a tablet to soldiers and sailors at Carrick, under the auspices of the Carrick Mothers' Club.

Members of Duquesne Post No. 259, Gen. Alexander Hays Post No. 3, Post No. 41 of the G. A. R., with the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Sons of Union Veterans will assemble at the Court House steps, Grant street, at 9:30 o'clock, and proceed to Allegheny and St. Mary's Cemeteries, where services will be held at the Soldiers' Plots and at the grave of Gen. Alexander Hays.

N. S. EXERCISES

Posts 88 and 162, G. A. R.; American Legion, World War Veterans, Camps 33, 98 and 198, Sons of Veterans, and Spanish War Veterans will gather in Federal street, North Side, at 8:30 o'clock and visit Uniondale and Troy Hill cemeteries.

Under the auspices of the Gen. Alexander Hays Post No. 3 and Abe Patterson Post No. 88, G. A. R., assisted by American Legion posts, Soldiers of the Spanish-American War and Sons of Veterans, elaborate services will be conducted at Sewickley Cemetery in the afternoon. Pittsburgh veterans and others will entrain at the Pennsylvania Station at 1:20 o'clock and at the Fort Wayne Station at 1:30 o'clock. Robert S. Cain, past department commander, United Spanish War Veterans, will speak.

The Gen. George A. Custer Post No. 38, G. A. R., will have charge of the services in Sharpsburg and Etna, with special programs in Etna Cemetery and Greenwood Cemetery, Sharpsburg. The services will be preceded by a parade of veterans and civic organizations.

TO VISIT BETHEL

South Hills Post No. 156, American Legion, has arranged for special exercises at Bethel Cemetery, to be participated in by South Hills veterans.

A memorial to the more than 900 dead removed from the Bingham Street Methodist Episcopal Church graveyard and buried in the South Side Cemetery will be dedicated tomorrow. E. A. Geary Post, G. A. R., will have charge of the usual Memorial Day services in the cemetery.

Bridgeville will turn out en masse to observe Memorial Day, a parade through the district preceding the exercises at Melrose Cemetery. Churches, schools, American Legion and auxiliary, Gold Star Mothers, Boy Scouts, fraternal organizations and ex-service men of all wars are invited to take part. The parade forms at Washington avenue and Murray street at 9:45 o'clock. Judge Sylvester J. Snee of the Allegheny County Court will speak.

TO STREW FLOWERS

At all cemeteries throughout the district the usual services of decorating veterans' graves with flowers and flags, will be conducted tomorrow by veterans' associations and Boy Scout groups.

In Legion Park, Brighton road and Davis avenue, the Womans Community Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward will direct services at 11 o'clock. George R. Rudolf, past vice commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, G. A. R., will place a wreath on the monument in the park. Commander Oscar I. Harter will make the address.

The McPherson Women's Relief Corps of the G. A. R. will hold services for the soldier and sailor dead. Rev. James R. Cox of St. Patrick's Church will deliver the address and Capt. Thomas S. Voss, commandant of Rodgers' Field, Aspinwall, will pilot an airplane from which will be dropped roses in commemoration of the dead veterans.

Tonight all officers of the Volunteers of America will meet in the Volunteer headquarters, North Side, to take part in the annual Memorial services. Maj. and Mrs. Richard Ives will direct the services. Members of the G. A. R., Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion are invited to attend. S. E. Collins, chaplain of the Allegheny Post, American Legion, will deliver the address.

Veterans of Foreign Wars of the downtown, Bloomfield, Lawrenceville and Garfield districts will honor their "buddies" killed in the World War and buried in Allegheny and St. Mary's Cemeteries, with services under the direction of John I. Bingham, state commander of the organization. Assembling at Fortieth and Butler streets at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, the veterans, in uniform, will march to the cemeteries. The Rev. James R. Cox of Old St. Patrick's, the Rev. H. Vernon Baker, Capt. Robert G. Woodside and William G. Stone will take part in the exercises.

The Civic Association of Spring Hill will conduct Memorial Day services at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at Schenkel's corner opposite the fire engine house, Malate Post No. 12, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will participate.

FLOUR DELEGATES VISIT STEEL MILLS

Following the adjournment of the annual convention of the National Federated Flour Clubs at the William Penn Hotel today, the delegates visited the Homestead plant of the Carnegie Steel Company where luncheon was served. The convention opened yesterday morning. A. P. Cole, of Pittsburgh, is president. D. T. Felix presided at a banquet held at the William Penn last night.

HELD IN DEATH OF GIRL

James Weis, 24 of 30 Bascom street, was held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter today by the coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of Mildred Clark, 17, of 322 Brownsville road, who died of injuries suffered while riding in an automobile driven by Weir on April 22. Weir testified that his car overturned after it had been struck by another machine and that he and three others were injured. Testimony brought out that Weir and another girl left the scene of the accident in a taxicab while Miss Clark and Louis Mary, of 305 Walter avenue, both seriously hurt, were sent to the Allegheny General Hospital.

SLAYER OF SONS UP FOR LIFE

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 29.—(AP.)—On a plea of guilty of murdering his two young sons, George Allen Chisholm placed himself upon the mercy of the court yesterday and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The 35-year-old Canadian war veteran maintained he was suffering from wounds received in France, affecting his mentality and Judge Crumpacker, in levying the life term, instead of the death penalty sought by the state, said:

"No man could do as Chisholm did and be normal."

PHILADELPHIAN HEADS INSURANCE FEDERATION

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 29.—William H. Kingsley, Philadelphia insurance man, yesterday was elected president of the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania, at the closing session of the annual convention, which opened here last week. Allentown was selected as the 1929 convention city.

Son in Trouble, Mother Bikes 2,500 Miles

TORONTO, Ont., May 29.—(AP.)—A mother who rode more than 2,500 miles by motorcycle from her farm near Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, because she had heard that her 22-year-old son was in trouble here, planned today to convey him back home astride a seat over the rear mud guard.

Mrs. Peter Storm left Saskatoon a week ago and arrived Saturday at Hamilton, where she had to abandon the motorcycle because of tire trouble. Her son left the farm last winter to work on a railroad.

She said of her ride: "Any mother would have done the same thing.'

WED 22 DAYS, HUSBAND SAYS

Less than a month of married bliss was the lot of Edward L. Sample, 1006 James street, according to his suit for divorce filed against Mrs. Helen Sample, South West, Pa., yesterday. He says they were married September 9, 1926, and that she deserted him October 1.

Mrs. Julia M. Altenbough, 4613 Liberty avenue, sued Joseph J. Altenbough, 438 Pearl street, charging cruelty.

William Lee Brown, 11 Petrosky street, sued Mrs. Geneva Brown, 5 Doyle court, charing indignities.

BURNED, POURING OIL ON FIRE, WOMAN DIES

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 29.—Burned while attempting to force a stove fire with coal oil in her home Sunday, Mrs. Susie M. Robinson, 37, mother of six children, died yesterday in Shenango Valley Hospital. She was moved to the hospital from her home in Pulaski township.

SENTENCE 2 IN JAIL SMUGGLING

Two more defendants in the jail dope-smuggling case were sentenced in Federal Court by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. Thomas Ware was sent to Atlanta Pententiary for 18 months and Ruth Schreiner, two years to a government institution to be named later. The woman's husband, William Schreiner, was sentenced last week to three years in Atlanta. All were convicted of violations of the narcotic laws.

GASOLINE BLAST FATAL TO MERIDAN (W.VA.) MAN

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., May 29.—Burned when a can of gasoline exploded Sunday, Joseph Newman, 39, of Meridan, W. Va., died yesterday in a local hospital. He is believed to have mistaken the gasoline for oil while attempting to start a fire in a stove.

PITTSBURGH MOTORISTS HELD AT GREENSBURG

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 29.—Glenn B. Parker, 38, of 1019 Allegheny avenue, and H. H. Thompson, 44, of 516 Arch street, Pittsburgh, were held for court on charges of driving an auto while intoxicated. They were caught, according to state police, after they had crashed into an auto of Robert Brinkley, of Greensburg, and then attempted to escape through crowded streets.

BREWERY, STILL, AGENTS' PREY

Search is being made today by Federal prohibition agents for the person said to have been conducting a wildcat brewery in a garage at 4074 Liberty avenue. The agents reported confiscating 1,800 gallons of beer mash, three 600-gallon vats and 75 empty cans of varying sizes, valued altogether at $3,500.

One hundred and fifty gallons of moonshine, a 100-gallon still, 40 barrels of mash, 600 pounds of sugar and an eight-burner gas stove were seized, the agents announced, in a raid at 1278 Blackadore street. Frank Kubert was reported taken into custody.

WORKER KILLED WHEN BURIED UNDER ASHES

ALTOONA, Pa., May 29.—Robert W. Grove, 52, of Greenwood, Pa., a suburb, was smothered to death when buried under a pile of cinders here yesterday. He slipped into a hole and was buried under the cinders being unloaded from a car. He was dead when removed 15 minutes later.

There is a story that George Washington, one hungry morning in camp, ate two whole chickens for his breakfast.

Undoubtedly, Spring Chicken Maryland!

A plump, tender young chicken split in half and seasoned; dressed with flour; dipped in well-beaten new-laid eggs; breaded with dry bread crumbs; then fried in clear butter until golden-brown and done.

After that, there's nothing to do but to drain off the butter and serve that golden-brown bird à la Pennsylvania. But such service!

HALF of the fried chicken is set in a smooth cream sauce' a slice of the choicest bacon, sizzling hot, is laid over the breast of the chicken; a tasty corn fritter, in which the corn is well mixed with milk and eggs, is placed at one end of the platter; at the other end, jealously eyeing the corn fritter, is a well-browned potato croquette, well-seasoned, made with yolks of eggs, rolled in flour, dipped in well-beaten egg, breaded, fried in deep fat, and drained before it is given its place on the platter.

It's a dish that will create a delightful memory for all in their teens, that will awaken as pleasant memories in all who are grown-ups.

Spring Chicken Maryland is a leader this week on the menus of the diners of all Pennsylvania trains.

Try it. You'll find it a fine example of the skilled cookery of the highly-trained Pennsylvania chefs.

AUTO SPEEDERS READY

NOTED DRIVERS ENTERED AT BUTLER

BUTLER, PA., May 29.—With the biggest and fastest field of speed kings ever assembled for a century classic in this city now registered here and the track pronounced in tip-top shape, everything is in readiness for the 100-mile automobile race at the fair grounds tomorrow —Decoration Day—afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock daylight time.

All entrants have paid particular attention to the speed of the steel steeds of their rivals. Railbirds are united in the viewpoint that some of the pilots have not been permitting their cars to show their full power and swiftness, but are tooling their mounts about in a deceptive manner in order to mislead their most feared rivals.

Drivers are elated over the splendid condition of the course, extending many laudatory words relative to its dustlessness. During their tuning-up spins they have sought for soft spots, but as yet none has come forward with a protest about the finding of any in the speed circle that the victor must cover 200 times to win.

Eddie Dreibhold and Herbert Fechter, two of the best known racing kings from the Steel City, have won wide popularity with the onlookers because of their intrepidity in swinging in and out of the turns at a tremendous speed in preparation for the 100-mile gasoline derby arranged to give the populace a holiday.

FAVORITES IN RACES

EDDIE DREIBHOLD

Among the most popular of the entrants in the Butler century-classic, to be run tomorrow, is Eddie Dreibhold, who declares his mount in excellent condition for the race.

JOHNNY CLEVENGER

Race fans who will follow the sport at Bridgeville during the holiday run tomorrow are enthusiastic in their predictions that Johnny Clevenger will set a hard pace for other contestants.

BRIDGEVILLE HOLDS TEST HEATS

With their cars tuned to perfection, 21 of the tristate district's leading automobile racers will attempt to qualify for the 12 coveted places in the Bridgeville Speedway's Memorial Day classic this this afternoon at Bridgeville.

The 12 fastest cars in the qualifying trials this afternoon will meet in the 50-mile race tomorrow afternoon at Bridgeville, the four leaders in this event to compete in the closing race of 25 miles.

The first 25-mile race on Memorial Day will be for drivers who failed to qualify. Besides entries from the tristate district several stars from Detroit have entered the Bridgeville classic.

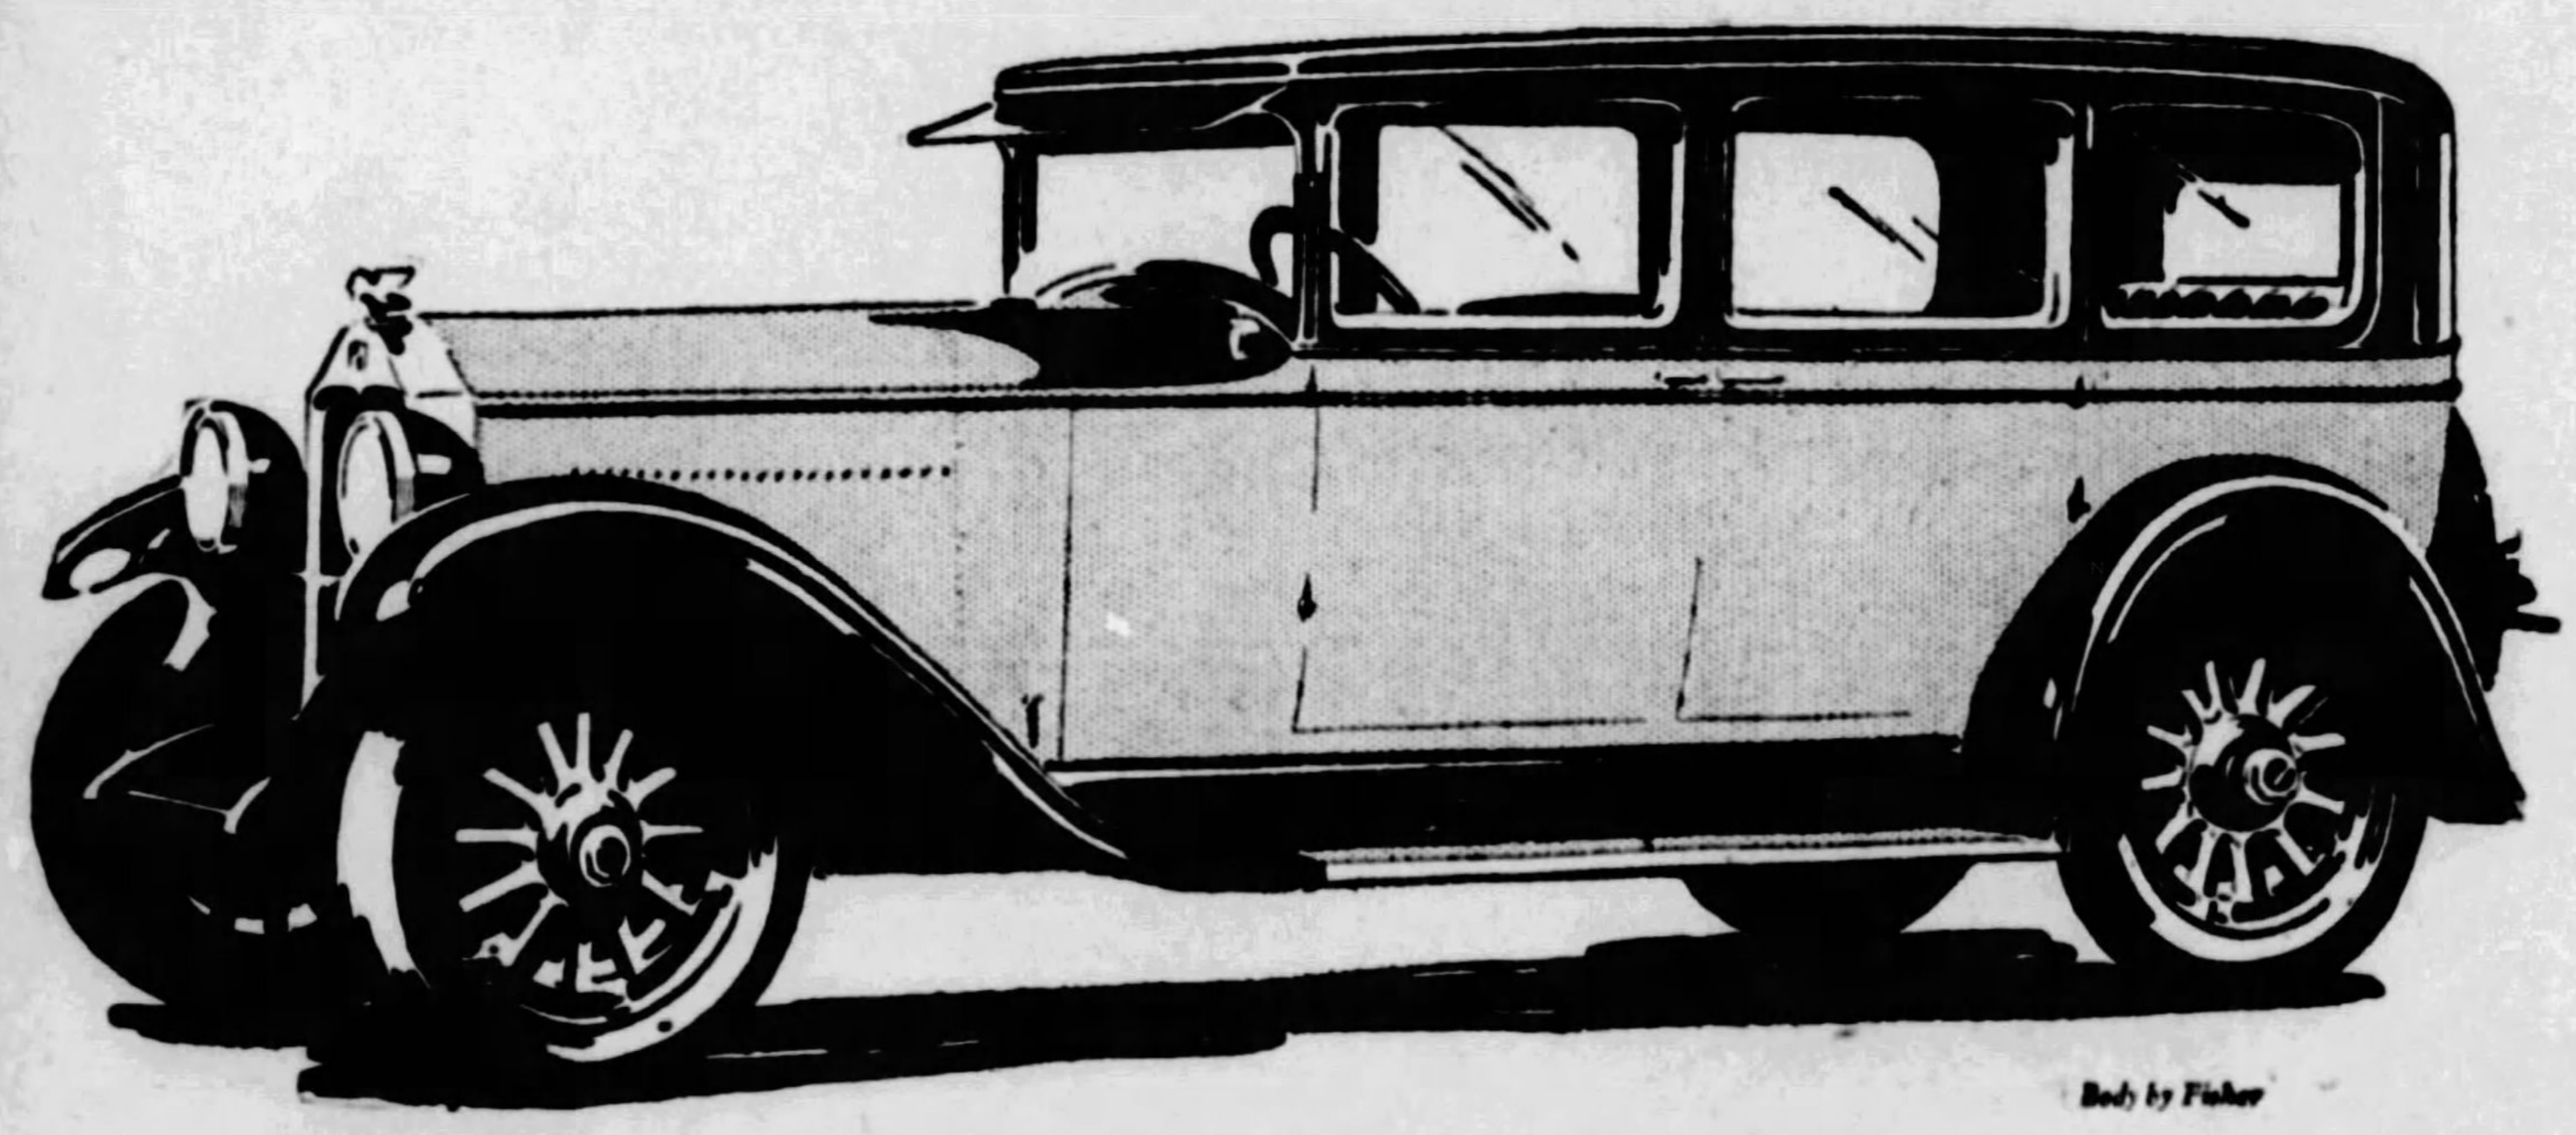
ASK COUNCIL'S STAND ON SUNDAY SWIMMING

Does Council want to operate the Northside smimming pools on Sundays? This was the question asked by Director of Public Works Edward C. Lang in a communication yesterday.

Lang, stating that he is in favor of operating the pools on Sundays, said he wanted to know the attitude of Council to make arrangements for guards and other employes.

VALVE-IN-HEAD Buick MOTOR CARS
*4 GREAT PROOFS OF BUICK SUPERIORITY

No. 4 Every 40 seconds—of every working day somebody buys a BUICK—Year after year it wins twice as many buyers as any other fine car



Body by Fisher

Buy your Buick with the knowledge that the overwhelming majority of America's fine car buyers are making the same wise selection and enjoying the same wonderful satisfaction.

This most brilliant of fine cars enjoys two-to-one leadership in its field and has maintained its leadership, not for a week or a month, but year in and year out since the early days of the industry.

The minute you see Buick you'll know one reason for its popularity —it excels in beauty. The minute you drive it you'll discover a further reason—it excels in vibrationless performance. And when you compare values, you'll have the full story—for nowhere is there a car so fine and dependable at a price so remarkably low.

The judgment of America is mighty good judgment to bank on. And America, by a two-to-one vote, tells you to buy a Buick.

All Buick models have Lovejoy Hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear, as standard equipment

No. 1—Buick's world-famous Valve-in-Head Engine delivers more power for its size than any other automotive power plant.

No. 2—Five years of service is only a starting point for Buick. Extra-rugged construction makes it the most durable of cars.

No. 3—Only Buick has a sealed-chassis and triple-sealed engine providing protected performance under all road and weather conditions.

SEDANS $1195 to $1995 , COUPES $1195 to $1850 , SPORT MODELS $1195 to $1525

PITTSBURGHERS AT AUTO RACES

SEE MARMON, STUTZ AS BEST BETS

By H. W. DIETRICH,
Automobile Editor.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—If cheering and moral support can have any effect on an automobile race, the Marmon and Stutz entries will lead the field in the 500-mile holiday classic at the Speedway here tomorrow.

One of the largest contingents of Pittsburghers ever to gather here are interested spectators in the preparations for this race. Many of these Pittsburghers are enthusiastic in their belief that the Marmon team under the captaincy of the veteran, Earl Cooper, and the Stutz entries of the late Frank Lockhart, one of which will be handled by Tony Gulotta, one-time mechanic of Altoona, Pa., will be among the leaders.

The large field of front-wheel drive cars are the topics of much discussion about the big 2½-mile track. The belief is strong that these entries will establish new records for time about the track.

That new records will go on record at the close of the race tomorrow is the predictions of these Pittsburghers, among whom are H. H. Blumenthal, of the Marmon Company of Pittsburgh, and George A. Hoeveler, of the Hoeveler-Stutz Company of this city. The fact that two of the contestants have broken the track-lap record of slightly more than 120 miles an hour during practice runs have encouraged these predictions of new speed records.

The contest tomorrow will be three distinct races within a race. There will be the conflict for victory at the end of the 500 miles. There also will be the usual drive for each lap of the race with the leader in each 2½-mile circuit receiving $100 as a special prize. Then there will be the newly-developed conflict between the front and rear-wheel drive cars.

The lines between the front and rear wheel drive pilots is as finely drawn as party lines in politics. Never, even in the days of team piloting has there been such rivalry. Among other things that give indications of intense rivalry tomorrow is the fact that the front wheel drive cars have proved to be among the fastest cars on the track.

Practically all preparations for the race, which will without doubt attract the largest crowd in the history of the Speedway, now under the direction of the famous Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, have been completed. The track has been scrubbed till all traces of oil and grease, the result of weeks of practice runs, have been removed from the long brick speedway, leaving the circuit in lightning-like condition.

SOUDERS FACES OPPORTUNITY

Peter De Paolo, 1927 A. A. A. speedway champion, who was injured Saturday, and George Souders, Purdue University undergraduate, who last year flashed into fame by winning the Memorial Day race at Indianapolis, are the only two entries for the international sweepstakes, who have an opportunity to equal the record of being "two-time" winner of this event.

The contest board announced the following list of those who have won at Indianapolis since the first race was held in 1911:

1911, Harroun, Marmon, 74.59.
1912, Dawson, National, 78.7.
1913, Goux, Peugeot, 76.92.
1914, Thomas, Delage, 82.47.
1915, R. De Palma, Mercedes, 89.94.
*1916, Resta, Peugeot, 83.26.
1917 (No race.)
1918, (No race.)
1919, Wilcox, Peugeot, 88.06.
1920, Chevrolet, Monroe, 88.50.
1921, Tommy Milton, Frontenac, 89.62.
1922, Jimmy Murphy, Murphy Special, 94.48.
1923, Tommy Milton, H. C. S. Special, 90.95.
1924, L. Corum and Joe Boyer, Dusenberg Special, 98.23.
1925, Peter De Paolo, Dusenberg Special, 101.13.
1926, Lockhart, Miller Special, 95.885.
1927, George Souders, Dusenberg, 97.544.
*Three-hundred-mile race.

MARMONS READY FOR RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—With last-minute preparations completed, the race team of Marmon Specials, captained by that silent veteran, Earl Cooper, awaits the zero hour of the start of the sixteenth international 500-mile race at Indianapolis Motor Speedway tomorrow.

Three cars, representing the advanced engineering ideas of the Marmon crew which won the initial 500-mile race in 1911 with Ray Harroun at the wheel, will be piloted by Peter Kreis, Knoxville, Tenn., speeder who has seen racing service not only at Indianapolis but in European contests; Johnny Seymour, champion motorcycle rider who is forsaking the two wheelers, and Russell Snowberger, who has had experience on dirt tracks.

All three drivers have passed the rigid physical examination to which drivers are subjected before they are okeyed as contestants in the big contest. Cooper announced that he would not drive in the race, but it was noted that he took the physical examination, passed it and is eligible to drive in the race. It is not unlikely, his intimates say, that in any emergency he will jump into one of the cars and take it for one of those long, fast successful rides for which he has become famous in his many years of competition.

It was again explained by the Marmon racing crew that the Marmon Specials bear no relation to the Marmon car of today. Rather they are engineering experiments, embodying many advanced ideas which they hope will prove beneficial in designing and building the passenger car of tomorrow.

INDIANAPOLIS RACE TRACK AND PACE SETTER

The big two and one-half-mile brick track at the Indianapolis Speedway, which has been scrubbed and made ready for the 500-mile race to be held there tomorrow. Joe Dawson, speedway racer of other days, will pace the start of the race tomorrow in a Marmon 78 roadster.

MOUNTS SUMMIT 60 MI. AN HOUR

Studebaker, a few days ago, sent Ab Jenkins to this city to learn how fast its cars were on Pittsburgh hills. Tests were conducted on South Negley avenue, Tokio street and at Uniontown, the results of which were "a revelation to me," stated Col. F. L. Dennis of the Studebaker Sales Company of Pittsburgh, distributor here.

Taking a five-passenger Commander club sedan from the stock of the Studebaker Sales Company, and with a party of newspaper men as observers, Jenkins made his first test on South Negley avenue. From a standing start on Fifth avenue, 200 feet from Negley avenue, in high gear, the car was driven up the 16 per cent grade of South Negley avenue, the speedometer reading 28 miles at the top of the grade. This run was made with the driver and one passenger. With the driver and three passengers the car topped the hill, in high gear, at 20 miles an hour. With six passengers, weighing 940 pounds, the car topped the hill in high gear at 15 miles an hour. From a standing start in high gear, on the car rails at the foot of the hill, the car was driven up the grade in high.

The next test was made on Tokio street, a 19¼ per cent grade, where the car, carrying the driver and one passenger, topped the hill in high gear at 30 miles an hour. The car was then successfully driven to the top of the grade in high gear, carrying six passengers. On Heberton hill, four passengers were carried over the grade at 50 miles an hour in high gear.

These test runs were made at Uniontown: From a standing start in high gear at Turkeys Nest, one passenger and the driver were carried over the top of the Summit Mountain in high gear, with the speedometer reading 60 miles. Carrying five passengers, from the watering trough, the car cleared the grade at 54 miles an hour. Carrying 14 passengers, weighing 2,296 pounds, the car, from a standing start in high gear, was driven up and over the grade at 31 miles an hour in high gear. These tests were participated in by Mayor Luther Crawford, of Uniontown.

The speedometer of the car used in the test was checked by Motorcycle Patrolman L. Keebler, who reported it correct.

Is acceleration a major consideration? . . . 5 to 25 miles in 7¼ seconds—10 to 45 miles in 13½ seconds—tell the unparalleled story of Victory pick-up.

Are you interested in economy? . . . 21 miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour is average gas consumption for this famous Six.

A hill climber? . . . Ask Montana, Colorado, Pennsylvania! More power per pound is the answer. A body with only 8 major parts—lighter by 175 pounds—yet sturdier!

A smooth traveller? . . . Dash over railroad tracks—over old cobble pavements—and you'll marvel! For The Victory Six is different. No body sills—no body overhang—chassis the full width of the body—a lower center of gravity. Sidesway, bouncing, rear wheel chatter magically absent.

Roomy? . . . Head room equal to any—superior to most—in its class. Wider seats—more leg room. Big!

And a beauty! Rakish and trim in line, richly upholstered, beautifully lacquered in smart hues—tomorrow's style with Dodge dependability.

A car that you should try out—now—yourself at the wheel.

57 YEARS

HERE IN THE HEART OF THE HILLS LIES THE GREATEST CONCENTRATION OF INDUSTRIAL POWER ON THE FACE OF THE GLOBE.

HERE AT THE FEET OF TWO EPIC RIVERS SITS PITTSBURGH, VULCAN TO MANKIND.

GROWTH! From 1758 when the city was founded, to this 29th day of May, 1928, America has marched from precarious infancy to mighty manhood, its strength and energy, its institutions and its civilization the marvel of all nations.

No one can foretell the future of this city of Steel, but where foundations are laid on the bottomless rock, where faith is the mortar, and brain and sinew the power . . . there can be but one direction and that forward.

In this city Kaufmann's had humble beginnings. Built on the boyish faith of two brothers, with a capital of $1,500, the store took root in a small shop-room in Carson Street, South Side. The story of their enterprise, their enthusiasm, their victory over what seemed insurmountable obstacles is the story of Pittsburgh. It has been told many times, and it is not our purpose to retell it here. The lesson, however, clings 'round these walls, it hovers over our daily tasks, inspires each one of us here at Fifth and Smithfield, follows us when we span the seas, and is the heart-beat of our members in foreign lands . . . a wraith of spirit as intangible as air, but strong as bonds of steel . . . the spirit of Kaufmann's, of Pittsburgh.

This store then, in this city of Steel, has but begun to grow. Where the years will lead no one can say, only that it will be forward. We pause at this time to renew our avowal of boundless belief in Pittsburgh, the future of her institutions and her ideals, and in those unchanged and unchanging principles of fairness and simple integrity which are the bases of this business.

BASKET PICNIC -:- Carnegie People Gay With School Pupils -:- KENNYWOOD PARK

GAY

Carnegie borough people joined with their school children for a gay outing at Kennywood Park. Here, Jackie Kress and Frank Shay saw something. What difference what, it excited them!

THEY LIKE IT

Children, of course, found the amusement devices to their liking. Flora May Wellings and Fanny Schwartz found this one more to their liking than any other they tried—and they tried them, you can believe, all.

'RAIN, RAIN, GO AWAY...!

DAMPER

Rain is a damper—on almost anything but Carnegie High School girls, they insist themselves. These girls are Laura Whitney, Matilda Miller, Irene Klem, Hilda Kramer, Catherine Resek, Anna Moore and Alice McFarland. It didn't, of course, rain very much. Three special trains carried the picnickers to the park. About 3,500 in all attended the outing, it was estimated.

BUGGY RIDIN'

Milton Persky and his sister, Jennie, are buggy ridin' here. And you couldn't have told them they weren't buggy ridin'. Baseball between two picked teams and various amateur sports added to the day's program.

PHOTOS BY SUN-TELE STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER.

JEAN MOCK

Jean Mock, as is her wont, had a jolly time. Her aunt here is only a companion to Jean. And now that the picnic is over, summer is here in Carnegie. But they'll have to go back to school in the fall.

MUSSOLINI & THE LIFE STORY of THE MAN OF DESTINY

Patriot Expelled From Switzerland as Undesirable

As a Radical Agitator He Masters Jaures in Debate And Attracts Police

What Has Gone Before

The boyhood of the man destined to be the post-war savior of Italy was tempestuous. He was full of animation but given to day dreaming of a daring kind. He was led into self-exile as a protest against the hated routine of teaching. In Switzerland his experiences were unpleasant. First he worked as a bricklayer's assistant. Then he became a vagabond. Finally he was arrested and found himself in a cell with a dirty vagrant.

His Battle for the Lost Provinces

By VITTORIO DE FIORI

CHAPTER V.

IN GENEVA, Mussolini came in contact with men of letters and politics who quickly grew to admire his intellgence, ambition, and tenacity. He began to write for various Swiss and Italian publications and to lecture on Socialism and international politics. His fluent, persuasive oratory struck a responsive chord not only in the laboring masses, but even in the local bourgeoise and intelelctuals. The Swiss authorities began to notice him and keep their eyes on him.

BENITO MUSSOLINI

His ideas concerning universal democracy, probably inspired by the writings of Pareto, date back to this time.

"Equality and democracy," said Mussolini in one of his most brilliant lectures, "are humanity's greatest illusions. They are ideals which, if they were put into practice, would destroy interest, beauty, and individuality in life."

It was also at this period of his life that he came into contact with the philosophies of Nietzsche and Sorel, both of whom played a very definite role in his spiritual formation.

While Mussolini was in Switzerland, the great French Socialist, Jaures, came to Geneva to hold a lecture on "Christ." The lecture-hall was filled to overflowing, and Mussolini, mingling with the throng of laborers, impatiently awaited the appearance of the famous orator. Poorly dressed, with a sullen face and burning eyes, he attracted the attention of his neighbors, who thought him a violent Anarchist and eyed him with suspicion.

Shortly after Jaures had begun his lecture, Mussolini commenced to give visible and audible signs of his dissent.

"Put him out!" the crowd began to shout indignantly.

But the voice of the stranger rose above the tumult, and taking advantage of a momentary lull in the commotion, he cried out:

"I want to speak, too! I have the right to say what I think!"

For an instant the wrath of the audience seemed on the point of being translated into terms of action, but Jaures himself called for order, assuring his unknown opponent that he would be allowed full freedom of debate as soon as the lecture was over.

When Jaures had finished his lecture, Mussolini was invited to have his say. In the midst of a sepulchral silence, he advanced briskly to the platform, not at all daunted by the evident hostility of the audience or the personality of the great man with whom he did himself the honor of disagreeing. With the easy grace of an experienced orator he faced the crowd.

His words came forth clear and persuasive, permeated with such a stringent logic that Jaures himself, after Mussolini had finished, warmly clasped his hand, congratulating him on his wonderful debate, while the audience enthusiastically applauded.

But one fine day the Swiss police, fearing that the young exponent of radical theories might prove a menace to the peace of the tranquil republic, ordered his deportation from Swiss territory.

When Mussolini heard of the severe decision rendered against him by the federal authorities, he fled to Lausanne, whence he wrote to his friend, Dr. A. Wyss, then a Socialist representative from Geneva:

"I have just read in the Genevois that you intend to present a protest to the Federal Council concerning my expulsion, which was decreed by the commissioner of police. In order that you may be better enabled to do this, I shall present you with a brief autobiography.

"I came to Switzerland at the age of 19. I worked and earned an honest living in Lausanne. I went back to Italy to see my mother, and then with my friend Donatini, a political refugee, I fixed my residence in

LINDY HOPS TO BLAZE AIR PATH

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., May 29.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off at 6:25 o'clock this morning in his monoplane for Columbus, O., on the first leg of a flight to the Pacific coast to map an aerial route for the Trans-continental Transport, Inc., of which he is chairman of the technical committee.

Col. Lindbergh was accompanied on the flight by three companions, all of whom declined to reveal their names. One of them, however, was recognized by newspapermen as Col. Henry Breckinridge, Lindbergh's attorney.

Excellent flying weather prevailed, and the takeoff was made without incident.

C. M. Keyes, president of the new air-rail coast-to-coast system, announced that Col. Lindberg would make stops at Columbus, St. Louis, Wichita, Kan., and Clovis, New Mexico; tentative airports for the service.

The Trans-continental Air Transport, Inc., plans a 48-hour service from coast to coast, using airplanes during the daylight hours and trains at night.

COLUMBUS, O., May 29.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Norton Field here at 9:57 o'clock this morning on the first leg of a flight to the Pacific coast in his new capacity of chairman of the Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc. He took off from Curtiss Field, N. Y., at 6:25 a. m., eastern daylight time.

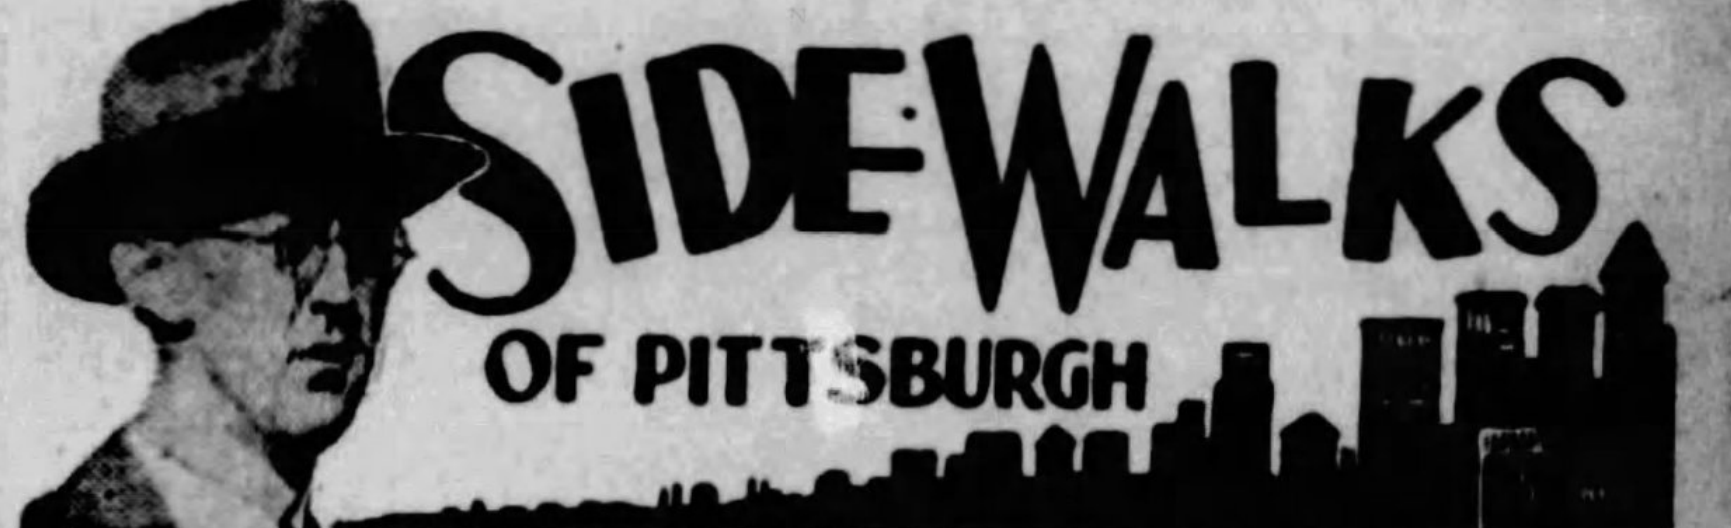
MARATHON BAN DEFEATED

The effort of Councilman Robert Garland to stop marathon dances in Pittsburgh failed when his bill prohibiting such endurance contests was defeated, 5 to 4, by Council.

As a result, one and possibly two new attempts to establish world marathon dance "records" in Pittsburgh will be started within the next month, according to reports in the City-County building yesterday.

Two weeks ago, when Garland's anti-marathon bill was voted upon, the result was 4 to 4, Councilman W. English being absent. English yesterday broke the tie.

Council voted as follows: For the Garland bill—Alderdice, Anderson, Garland and McArdle. Against the bill—Herron, Little, Malone, English and Winters.

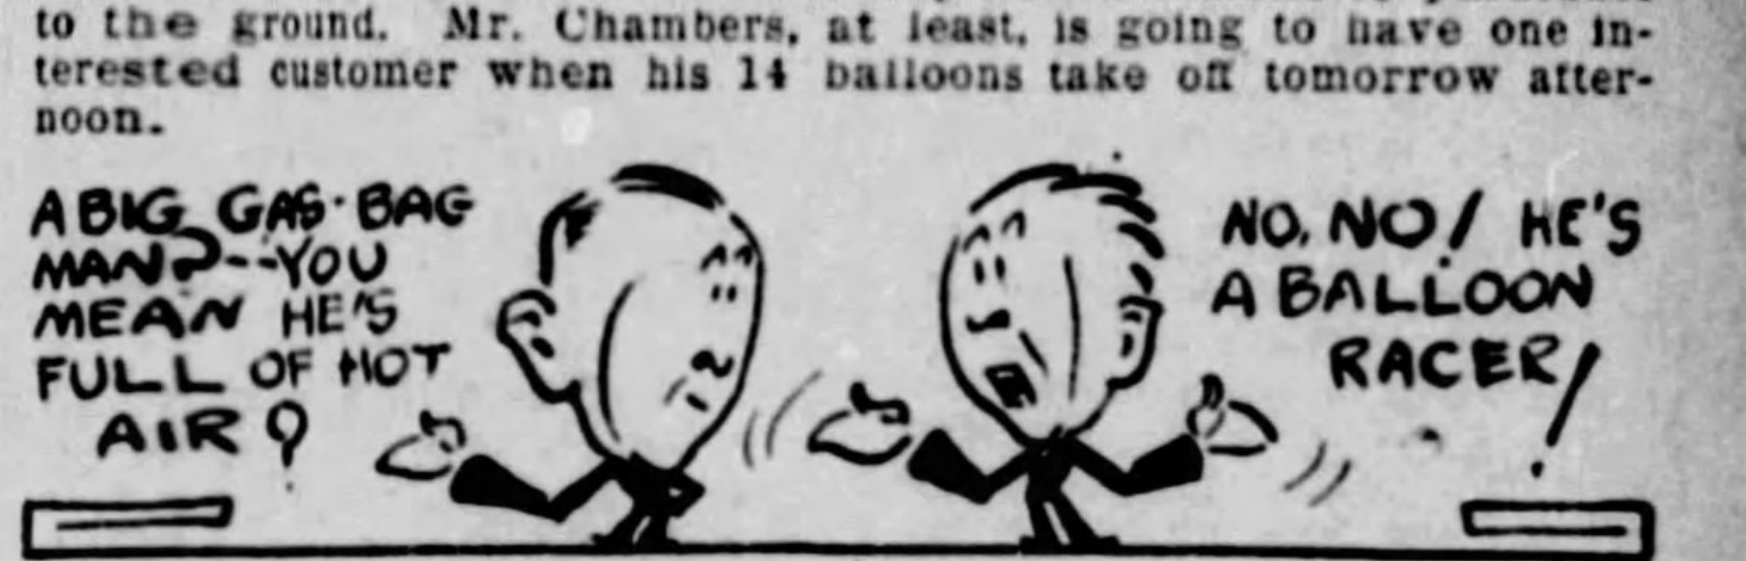


SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

WALTER CHAMBERS, interested in promoting the balloon race which will start tomorrow afternoon from Bettis Field, McKeesport, reports that the crowd will exceed anything in the history of balloon racing. The idea that the big gas and bag men take off the ground and place themselves, practically, at the mercy of the winds, captures the imagination of the public.

The races magnify many times the thrill that so many of us got in boyhood, when in conjunction with the circus, the daring and intrepid man in tights—and a well waxed black mustache—took off in a balloon from which he recklessly hurled himself to parachute to the ground. Mr. Chambers, at least, is going to have one interested customer when his 14 balloons take off tomorrow afternoon.



A BIG GAS-BAG MAN?--YOU MEAN HE'S FULL OF HOT AIR?
NO, NO! HE'S A BALLOON RACER!

A contributor who signs himself Lordy Derby was prompted by the recent recalling of Eddie Bald's bicycle exploits to write: "Why didn't you ask Cannon Bald to tell you something about some of those old timers doing centuries and the like—and about some of his contemporaries. Ask him about Mike Dernberger. I remember I pooh-poohed the idea of automobile races, such as they'd have between old flivvers on the Fourth of July. Nothing to that, said I, no human contest like in a bicycle race. Just a couple of engines running around the track. What with foot-racing and bicycle races the old human leg could cause some excitement in those days."

AND another man contributes to the same subject: "I remember when Eddie Bald and Red Badger were among the first Ford agents in town. Note, I didn't say salesmen. Henry sent two machines to Bald and Badger to sell, but the boys couldn't sell them and at last they gave them away. I also remember when Eddie Bait was an actor. There was a swell show called 'The Vanderbilt Cup,' featuring Elsie Janis. It was the story of an automobile race. Bald was an auto driver in the play—and man, was he heroic in those days? I'll say."

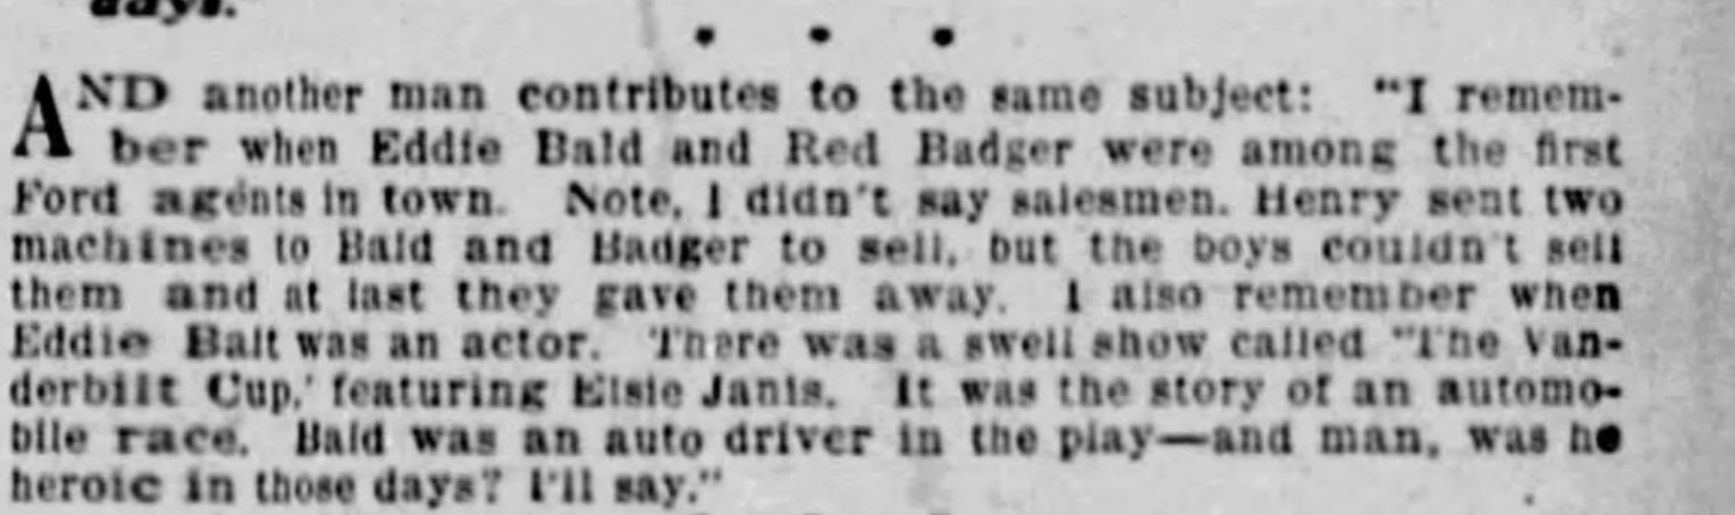
Another contributor, in a letter, grows sentimental about the baseball pitchers who toil unnoticed in the bull-pen. They are what are known as relief men, supposed to be ready to rescue a comrade in distress. They do have a hard job,



HUH?
I SURE DO FEEL SORRY FOR YOU FELLOWS!

but we never got worked up about them, for in the days when we used to cry if the home boys lost a game we observed with chagrin that a relief pitcher, after warming up all afternoon, once in the box usually began his work by walking the first man up and otherwise making the situation a little more difficult. In fact, if we remember that far back, we believe at one time we advocated deporting all relief pitchers. It was on a day when the hated New Yorkers soundly trounced our boys.

THE coming horse show at the Allegheny Country Club in Sewickley calls attention to the popularity of riding and hunting in the Pittsburgh district. There are four hunt clubs in this section now—the Westmoreland, the Sewickley, the Rolling Rock and the Pittsburgh. The last is the baby of the group. It is cutting its first year's teeth, or tooth.

The coming show at Sewickley is one of the big ones scheduled throughout the country. It is now on the spring horse show circuit, which includes Devon, Cleveland and Chicago.

Horseback-riding, one of the best exercises imaginable, is prancing into popularity. Five years ago a local stable that supplied horses to riders had only five horses. The same stable now supplies 50 horses a day to customers.

IF WE looked good in a stock collar and one of those big derbies we'd go in for it, too, just to be able to say to brother-firemen: "That was a tricky mount I had today—deuced tricky, no end. The little beast near spilled me at the first wicket."

TWO STOLEN IDOLS

MYSTERY! THRILLS! ADVENTURE! LOVE!!!

by FRANK L PACKARD

Bob Tries to Prevent the Murder of the 'Holy Man' By the Chinaman

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley, once a dashing sea-faring adventurer, is picked up in a fragile craft by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Mute evidence on the body testifies to the fact that the man died in a struggle. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives the various articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reason to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy, has returned after thirty years to seek vengeance. The Idols are stolen and Young Bob starts out to recover them. Hidden in the hold of the ship he overhears five Chinamen plotting. There is great danger of the boat going on the reefs and Bob is afraid.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

NO ONE paid any attention to him either, as he made a thorough search of the deck—but his search here was as fruitless as it had been on the forward deck. Not a trace of a Chinaman was to be found. Where were they? They certainly had not jumped overboard, and they must be somewhere on the ship.

There were the upper decks, of course, the main deck and the boat deck, but they would not have dared—He was running quickly again — making for the companionway to the main deck. Why not? He had not thought of that before. How did he know who this "man with the torn garment" might be? Not unnaturally, perhaps, he had taken it for granted that the description referred to some one that the Chinamen had discovered amongst the native passengers; but, after all, why should he have placed any such limitations upon it? True, it seemed preposterous to link up anybody else with them, especially as no one else remained except the first-class passengers — preposterous that it should be the fat man from Java, or the innocuous little old gentleman of 70—but it was not impossible. Unexplainable? Yes! But so were those two white gods that had been found among his murdered uncle's effects, and which these same Chinamen here had journeyed to Patua to steal. The ramifications of those two little pieces of carved ivory already had spread out very far indeed. It was more than probable, from what had transpired in the storeroom, that "the man with the torn garment" was mixed up in the affair. What was the secret of those idols? What was it that endowed them with an apparently priceless value? Where did they come from? Why shouldn't this fat man from Java, or the timid little old gentleman of 70, for instance, be involved in the same mysterious quest that was apparently so far-reaching in its proportions? In one sense, the more preposterous it might appear on the surface that such men could have anything to do with it, the more likely it was that one of them was in it up to the neck!

There was no one in sight as Bob Kingsley gained the level of the main deck. His own cabin and those of the two other male passengers were on the port side, and he went forward in that direction. He paused, listening, at the doors of his fellow passengers. There was no sound from within, and no light in either cabin. He went around to the starboard side. The deck here was equally deserted—but here he halted instinctively to stare out over the rail to leeward. And for a minute, and for still another, a sort of grim fascination holding him, he stood there, his legs braced wide apart against the violent motion of the ship.

The Monotah's chances were surely and swiftly diminishing. The white line of spume was perilously close aboard. It seemed almost as though he could hear the angry roar of it as the seas broke endlessly and flung high their spray in a pale, misty film against the darkness. And the trend of the reef now seemed to be sharply to seaward—as though it were reaching out with malicious and determined purpose to block even the feeble efforts that the ship was making to escape her doom, and, by narrowing down to the vanishing point the scant stretch of clear water that still remained, trap her and despoil her utterly.

The situation was desperate. There was not one chance in a thousand now that the Monotah could claw to windward past that jutting point of reef. She was sullen, lifeless, hulk-like, unresponsive to the rags of sail. Captain Karler was to be commended, of course, for not alarming his passengers until it was absolutely necessary—but there was such a thing as delaying too long. The native passengers were already alarmed—intuitively. But the passengers in their cabins here! Especially Verna Lyle!

He took a few steps along the deck—and stopped. There was a light showing through the closed shutter of her stateroom—he saw her shadow move across it. Perhaps Captain Karler had already sent word along. The other two passengers quite likely might be up on the boat deck now. In any case Verna Lyle was already awake.

CHAPTER XVII.

THERE was still the boat deck. It seemed a grotesquely futile thing now to give any further consideration to the five Chinamen and their intended victim! What did it matter whether a man's life went out by means of a knife thrust or by being mauled and pounded to death on the Baalu Reef? No; his logic was rather at fault there. Even if the Monotah struck, it did not mean that all on board were necessarily lost. The "man with the torn garment" was entitled to his chance too! too!

Well, the boat deck, then!

He retraced his steps forward along the main deck, and began to mount the starboard ladder. It was not inclosed, and suddenly, halfway up, he halted and stared down on the deck below. Something shadowy seemed to have passed by quite close to the ladder—or was it merely imagination? It was gone now. No! There it was again! He could see it quite distinctly now—a figure in native dress that appeared to be creeping stealthily along toward the row of cabin doors a little farther aft. The "holy man"—the East Indian fakir! He was sure of it—there was no mistake. And then, as though it had embodied itself out of the air, another figure came into sight, a figure whose arm was uplifted in ugly suggestiveness, a figure that ran swiftly and silently after the "holy man"—the figure of a Chinaman.

Bob Kingsley was in action now. With a shout of warning to the East Indian, he leaped to the deck, and raced toward the two figures. He knew now who the "man with the torn garment" was—but he knew too late. As the East Indian turned at the warning shout, the Chinaman was upon him, the uplifted arm striking downward with a blow that was lightning swift and that seemed to bury itself in the "holy man's" side.

A cry rang out—inarticulate. The Chinaman raised his arm for a second blow, but Bob Kingsley was between the two now. Snarling, and with a fury that made of him almost a madman for the moment, his hand shot out and wrenched the knife from the Chinaman's grip. But the next few seconds were a blur. As he drove a clenched fist at the Chinaman's face, the East Indian sagged heavily against him and the blow went wild. He staggered, thrown slightly off his balance as the "holy man's" weight came against him and a sudden roll of the ship to port threw him violently, with the East Indian clinging to him, against a cabin door.

The door seemed to open of its own accord. He was conscious that the Chinaman was scurrying away along the deck; and then, with the "holy man" beneath him he pitched forward and sprawled upon the floor of a lighted cabin. The knife spun from his hand and fell upon the berth a yard away; and, as a second passed, he noticed that its blade was an ugly color against the white sheet—that the East Indian did not move, and that there was a red blotch spreading over the man's none too clean clothing. And then Bob Kingsley became aware that his own hand was wet—quite red. He lurched to his feet, and brushed his hand across his eyes. Yes, of course, it was Verna Lyle's cabin. The whole thing had taken place just outside her door. She was standing there now a few feet away from him, staring at him with horror-stricken eyes out of a face that was whiter than any face he had ever seen.

It might have been an unreasonable impulse one which in a cooler and more contained moment Bob Kingsley might have denied; but it was an impulse born out of a merciless fury that surged suddenly upon him, and he yielded to it instantly. Without a word to the girl who stood there facing him across the cabin, he turned, sprang through the door, and ran at top speed toward the forward end of the deck. This was the direction in which the Chinaman had fled. It had only been a matter of a few seconds. The man wouldn't get away if he could help it! Bob Kingsley, not for the first time in his tempestuous life, was seeing red.

The Perturbed Mr. Jackson Begs That Madge Grant Him a Great Favor

YOUNG Mr. Jackson's hand which had been gripping the steering wheel of his parked car slowly relaxed at my assurance that Eleanor Lincoln had confided to no one her former acquaintanceship with him. But that he was still uneasy, apprehensive of speculation concerning the girl was plainly to be seen. He turned troubled eyes upon my face and the words of his next query were as staccato as the discharge of a machine gun.

"You are sure that you alone noticed her—perturbation when she saw Fedor and me?"

"I did not say that," I returned, "but of one thing you may be sure. No one is concerned enough about the matter to be curious, and neither you nor Miss Lincoln will be annoyed with questions or conjectures."

With a sudden, swift, graceful gesture he lifted my hand to his lips then laid it down again.

"You are so—kind—" he said, evidently groping for the right word. Then he lifted his head and looked steadily at me.

"I owe you my confidence," he said, "but I cannot tell you who I am or who Miss Lincoln is without her permission. But I will tell you this much. We are old friends. I have known her since we were little children. And—we are not Americans—but perhaps you have guessed that?"

He smiled merrily at me, and I smiled back at him.

"I have had a fleeting conjecture or two to that effect," I admitted.

"And our names aren't Lincoln and Jackson," he went on, "although—Eleanor—" he hesitated over the name and I guessed that it was not the one given in baptism to the beautiful young chatelaine of The Larches—"Eleanor would kill me if she knew I had told you this."

"You may be sure no one else will hear it until you give me permission to tell it," I assured him, mentally vowing to keep the promise even where Lillian was concerned.

"I know that," he said quietly, "and in my turn let me assure you that there is nothing discreditable about the change in our names. It is all the result of a foolish, romantic girl's whim, and heaven only knows where it will end."

I told myself that while I was sure of the truth of young Mr. Jackson's assertion as far as he, himself, was concerned, I was not so certain that Miss Lincoln's disguise of her identity held nothing discreditable about it. Most vivid in my memory were two occasions when she had been terribly frightened by messages and signals from the two ruffians who had rented the woodland shack upon the farm next to ours—men who could have no possible connection with a girl of her class, unless they knew something concerning her which gave them a hold upon her.

But this open-faced, steady-eyed lad—for he was little more—knew nothing of that. I would have staked much upon it and the knowledge made me emphasize the assurance I gave him.

"I am sure it will end happily," I told him. "But you have not yet told me how I can aid you. Won't you believe that I will be glad to do anything in my power for you?"

"I would believe anything you told me," he said with a warmth of gratitude which was embarrassing. "But I am ashamed to ask of you the very great service I desire."

"Please name it, at least," I urged.

"It is this," he said hesitatingly, "that while you are instructing Miss Lincoln in the history of the drama you will make every effort to discourage her from appearing upon the public stage."

How to make better STRAWBERRY JAM with one minute's boiling

Certo "short-boil" method saves the fresh flavor and bright color of your fruit—makes 10 glasses of jam from 2 quarts of berries—insures success every time.

NO OTHER FRUIT, perhaps, suffers so much from the old method of long cooking as the delicate, delicious strawberry.

You need never again stand over the kettle watching your strawberries darken, their fragrant fresh flavor drift away in steam, while you "boil them down" for jam.

For with Certo you can make perfect strawberry jam with only one minute's boiling!

Certo is the natural jellifying substance in fruit which causes it to jell. Because nature has distributed this substance so unequally in the different fruits—giving very few of them enough to jellify all of their juice and causing all of them to lose it as they ripen—you have always had to go on cooking and cooking your fruit in the effort to reduce it to the point where it would jell.

Now we have extracted this jellifying substance from fruit, refined, concentrated, and bottled it, all ready for you to use with any fruit. With Certo no long cooking is necessary. It provides enough jellifying substance at the start to jell all the fruit juice.

Famous cooking expert recommends Certo

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cookery; and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says: "I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because:—It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better—No flavor boiled away. Better color—Not darkened by long boiling. No worry—Never fails to set. It's economical — Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

Get Certo from your grocer. In the recipe book which comes under the label of each bottle you will find nearly 100 simple recipes for making better looking, better tasting jams and jellies from all the other berries and fruits in their season.

"Never-fail" recipe for crushed Strawberry Jam or Blackberry Jam

4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries
7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ cup Certo.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure crushed berries into a large kettle, add sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax. (This recipe as well as recipes for sliced and whole fruit strawberry jam are in the book of recipes which comes with each bottle of Certo.)

When Fat Departs

new beauty comes, new youth, new health

Excess fat is a blight to beauty, to health, to longevity and youth. Any man or woman who fails to correct it limits the joys of life.

But get the results in the right way. Not by abnormal exercise or diet, for such extremes are dangerous. Combat the cause. Modern science has found that it often lies in a gland deficiency—in a gland which assists nutrition. And physicians the world over now treat obesity by supplying that lack.

When this discovery was made, a great American laboratory embodied that help in Marmola prescription tablets. They have now been used for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Users have told others, until the use has grown to nearly 5,000,000 tablets a month.

All can see the results in every circle. Excess fat is disappearing fast. Almost everyone has friends who will say that the reason is Marmola.

There is no secret about it. Marmola employs just what the best physicians employ to correct this abnormal condition. The complete formula appears in every box. And a book explains the reasons for each good effect. This to prove that the loss in weight is natural and helpful.

Do not change habits in a radical way. Simply take four Marmola tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. The way is easy, pleasant, scientific, real.

Start today, for your own sake, and watch the results. Learn what others have learned in the 20 years of Marmola. Your whole life may be changed by this test.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1.00 a box. Any druggist who is out will order from his jobber.

Emily's Mother Refuses The Pension That Rossiter Offers

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Emily Day and her lively sister, Kitten, are daughters of a worker in the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is devoted to her and she is astonished at his popularity with some of the rich girls who snub her. Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, takes an interest in her and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. At a party in the Rossiter home Emily grows jealous of Marilee Grainger, who is supposed to be engaged to Kent. She wanders into the moonlight. Kent follows her, kisses her and calls her beautiful. She gets a job with Mrs. Haiden. Her father dies and Rossiter offers help which her mother declines.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

HIS window looked out on that corner of the garden and he would move with his pillows almost on the sill, calling down to her as she put the bulbs in the ground and later as she loosened the soil about the little plants.

He watched the leaves unfold, always looking ahead to the time when he should go out and work among them. But the buds came finally and he could no longer move to lie with his head on the window-sill.

"Tomorrow, maybe," he would say. "Well, tell me, Emily, are them double pink ones doin' good? Took a sight of pains with 'em last year.

"And the yella ones with the brown spots—them comin' out? Sorta hard, not seein' 'em."

She would answer, "Yes, father; all doing fine. Why, every bud has turned this way. Just as if they were lonesome like. Supposing I bring you in one or two? They'd come out in water."

But he wouldn't have the buds broken off.

And the green morning came when she told him they were all in blossom. "Red and gold and pink—oh, it's just as if an angel had been painting the garden, dear. Never so lovely. And all waiting for you—"

He was like a child on Christmas eve. "I want to see them, Emmy. Some ways I ain't feelin' so good lately; maybe it'll be the last time. You'll help me do this; you'll help your ol' father, Emmy?"

Tears kept running down her cheeks and splashing her hands. But she called Agnes and together they moved him very gently and slipped the pillows under his head. He gazed a long time upon the blended colors mellowed by the morning sun and it seemed to the two who watched that the glow was reflected in his face.

He said, "Nice, ain't they, Aggie? oD a fella good. Get better now—right along—"

But the shadow was very blue about his lips and little drops stood on his forehead. Agnes whispered, "Quick, Em—the doctor—"

Even as she turned he called in a voice oddly blurred: "Emmy—good girl—life ahead. Not my mistakes—"

Then bewilderment crossed his eyes and he lay still.

Curiously enough it was Marty Nolan who came into the Day home as soon as word went out that Emily's father had died and took upon himself the score of things that must be done at such a time.

Agnes gave way to weariness and the long strain of caring for her husband and was put to bed in a darkened room with Mrs. Brent to sit beside her, offering what comfort one woman may give another. This left Emily burdened with responsibility and she turned to Marty's gruff efficiency hardly knowing what she did.

It was Frances Haiden who made the funeral arrangements, but Marty who carried them out. It was Marty who answered the doorbell and telephone, who ran errands and moved the furniture in the living room to make place for the casket that was brought there. Once, being unable to sleep, and going to the porch for a breath of air as dawn was coming, Emily found him sitting on the steps, cigaret aglow in the faint light.

"I'll never be able to thank you," she said.

"Don't need to, Em. 'Spose I make a cup of coffee? Kinda cold so early in the morning."

They sat at the kitchen table and drank coffee together without a word.

And when the family and friends of one who had been Steven Day gathered in the living room, it was Marty who kept beside her, hanging to her arm, seeming to force some of his strength into her.

Life had become a vague, misty thing in which objects stood out with grotesque clarity. Agnes, all in sable veils, between Mrs. Brent and Mrs. Briggs. Kitten, with her bright hair someway challenging her black. Wentworth Rossiter coming in sorrowfully. A group of workmen, some of those who had followed her father on the march of protest from Great View to Lyall, sitting together.

The solemn grandeur of the funeral service: "I am the Resurrection and the Life. If a man believe in me though he be dead he shall live again—"

That pierced the numbness that had held her, went thundering into her thoughts. Life—death—ah, no death! Separation—change—yes. But no end. Nothing to fear out in the gray where he had gone.

She could cry now. She would remember what he had told her at the last. "Not my mistakes—" He saw then where he had been wrong and wished her to take a broader view. Easy to do that for him; go on where he left off.

Yet she was to be swayed and filled with doubt; she was to wonder, indeed, if Steven Day had been mistaken or if, were he still alive, he would go on seeing himself the downtrodden victim.

This began on the day after the funeral when Rossiter came to see Agnes.

"I needn't tell you," he said, "how sorry I am. He was one of our oldest employes. We have a system of pensioning those who have been with us over a number of years. He'd have been eligible soon and we feel now that his family should benefit. You'll let us do this for you?"

But Agnes turned her gray face, regarding him with eyes in which there was no friendliness. "We'll take nothing from you, Mr. Rossiter."

"You can't mean that? You didn't understand, perhaps; we'd have done this for him in any case and now we wish to help."

"We'll not want your help. No, thank you, Mr. Rossiter." And she stood up, glancing toward the door.

He said, only, "I'm sorry," and went away.

And when Emily protested, Agnes flared with a small show of spirit. "You'd have me do this thing, Emily? A price on your father's life? Yes, don't forget that. They killed him. He'd be alive today if they hadn't ground him so. Sending him out to that work on the road—murder, that was—"

"But they didn't send him out, Muz. He went himself. Oh, you know that. Why, they wanted him back; Mr. Rossiter came here, told him there was a better place for him. You tried to get him to go. How can you say such things?"

But Mrs. Day clung to her illusion with the terrible stubbornness of the meek. She no longer saw her husband as a malcontent who had frustrated himself and her at every turn. Death had made a martyr of him—given him a dignity that never was his in life. And she visioned a social and capitalistic system, represented by Wentworth Rossiter, as his slayer.

Emily understood the absurdity of this. But as time went along and she found how futile argument was, Agnes' firm belief began to make an impression upon her.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY PLANS MEMORIAL SERVICES

Memorial services will be observed tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the County Board, Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the grave of Miss Margaret Melia, organizer of the auxiliary 25 years ago. County President James Kelly, of the A. O. H.; Mrs. Mary T. Horan, national president, Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., and County President Mrs. Mary Toal, will participate in the exercises.

'CUT-OUT FIENDS' TO BE NABBED

Public Safety Director James M. Clark has been directed by Council to issue "peremptory orders" to arrest all violators of the automobile laws who cause "unnecessary, unseemly and diabolical noises due to the use of cut-outs." Councilman Robert Garland yesterday presented a resolution demanding that such violators be arrested. It passed unanimously.

"If there are no good results in a week, we'll issue peremptory orders for Clark to appear before us and make an explanation," said Garland.

The Garland resolution gave Council John S. Herron an opportunity to renew his drive against screeching brakes on taxicabs. Months ago his ordinance intended to stop that nuisance failed when taxicab companies agreed to correct conditions themselves.

"I voted against the Herron ordinance at that time because I thought it was too drastic," explained Robert J. Alderice. "I believe I would vote for it now."

Councilmen charged that Pittsburgh firemen and motorcycle policemen with their cut-outs and sirens cause a large share of the unneccessary noise. An opinion was asked concerning the advisibility and expense of equipping the police motorcycles with mufflers.

TWO HURT AS CYCLE SKIDS UNDER AUTO

When their motorcycle skidded under an automobile on the Lincoln highway near East McKeesport last night, two Edgewood boys suffered fractured legs. Harold Brown, 17, of 150 Race street, Edgewood, fractured his right hip and Elmer Hackenberry, 21, of 132 Oakview avenue, Edgewood fractured his right leg when their motorcycle skidded under the machine of E. O. McKelvey, of 7157 Mt. Vernon street, Pittsburgh. Both are in the McKeesport Hospital.

ITALY TERMED ONLY TENTH FASCIST

"There are more Americans in this country in favor of Mussolini and Fascism than there are Italians in Italy in favor of the dictator and his policies," declared Roger N. Baldwin, director of American Civil Liberties Union, in an address before the Hungry Club at the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday.

"I would say 90 per cent of the people of Italy are against Fascism," Mr. Baldwin added.

"Who are for it? The landlord class, the bankers and industrialists, the higher church officials, the aristocrats and, strangely, the doctors.

"Who are against Fascism? The peasant and workers, the intelligents, the lawyers, trades people and most of the priests and bishops.

"In Italy it is one man and the police system against an overwhelming majority. In Russia, under Soviet rule, it is the dictatorship of the whole political party and the police, with only a few against it.

"Russia is enjoying more liberties of more sorts than ever before in its history, and more of some sorts than any place in the world. The great mass of peasants feel they have a large share in the control of wages and conditions.

"The hand of the tyrant lies heavy on Italy, and under countless of the black shirts are Reds who may some day take off the black."

Mr. Baldwin, who taught sociology at Washington University, St. Louis, and was at one time executive officer of the St. Louis Juvenile Court, organized the National Civil Liberties Bureau.

Last year he visited all of the Central European countries where dictatorship reigned, except Spain.

"And I returned to America," he said, "feeling that the basic struggle was right at our own door, as America, potentially, is the greatest menace to world peace. We support, financially, all reactionary dictatorships in the world, and are getting a first mortgage on the lives and property of the universe.

"And right here in Western Pennsylvania is an example of that blindness of the employer to the consequences of their own position in refusing to bargain, collectively, with the workers."

DUQUESNE WIFE TAKES POISON

Mrs. Myrtle Holden, 18, of 302 South Fourth street, Duquesne, is a patient in McKeesport Hospital, suffering from bichloride of mercury poisoning. According to a police report, she swallowed the poison following a quarrel with her husband.

MAN SHOT DURING FIGHT NEAR DEATH

"Doc" Wilson, 30, a Negro, of 4 Gray avenue, McKees Rocks, suffering from four bullet wounds, is reported in a critical condition at the Mercy Hospital as the result of a shooting in McKees Rocks last night. His alleged assailant, Merrick Blizzard, 35, a Negro, of 327 Island avenue, was turned over to county detectives today.

Mussolini's Life Story

Annemasse, on the other side of the French border, where we planned to establish an international review of Socialistic culture.

"On March 1, 1904, I came to Geneva with the intention of registering at the university. They will tell you that I am an anarchist. That is a lie. During these last few years I have written and lectured a good deal, contributing out of my own pocket to the support of the New York Proletario, the Lugano Avvenire del Lavoratore and the Milan Avanguardio. I defy the police to discover a single anarchistic line in any of my writings. Both in Switzerland and in Italy, I have always been looked upon as a Socialist. At our Zurich convention I presented a motion which, though revolutionary, cannot in any way be interpreted as anarchistic.

"During the 40 days I was in Geneva, I spent most of my time in the University library. The police report about me is a pack of unmitigated lies. I was deported without even being granted time to return the keys to my room, pack my belongings or consult my lawyers.

"The authorities told my lawyers that I had gone back to Annemasse. The truth is that I was compelled to board a train for Chiasso in order to be deported to Italy.

"My expulsion is a disgrace to a republic that wishes to preserve the traditions of Swiss liberty. A similar proceeding is unworthy even of a monarchy.

"I am now in Lausanne, where I hope I shall be left undisturbed. The commissioner of police will have some difficulty in justifying his action."

CHAPTER VI.

As Irredentist

IN 1908 Mussolini moved to Austria and was for a short time editor of L'Avvenire di Trento. Then he became associate editor of Il Popolo, a daily owned and published by Cesare Battisti, who used the social issue as a means of keeping alive the Italian spirit in the inhabitants of the Trentino, then still under Austrian rule.

Today the name of Cesare Battisti is famous and revered. He was the last of the martyrs to the cause of Italian independence and unity; fighting in the Italian ranks against Austria during the World War, although an Austrian subject and a deputy to the Vienna Parliament, he was taken prisoner and hanged by the minions of his country's oppressors.

Cesare Battisti and Benito Mussolini, imbued with a common spirit of lofty patriotism, had common ideals and aspirations. Their deeply Italian souls vibrated harmoniously in a spiritual unison that was later to burst forth in their common assertion of Italy's national rights.

Mussolini admitted his friend's tenacious work, and Battisti held Mussolini's journalistic genius in high esteem. Mussolini received no remuneration for his editorial work; he lived on the 150 monthly crowns that he obtained as secretary of the Trent Chamber of Labor. He sometimes eked out this meager salary by imparting French lessons to people who gave no exterior sign of being morons. He invariably refused to teach morons for any remuneration.

During his connection with Il Popolo, Battisti gave Mussolini ample liberty to pursue his studies. Someone made an attempt to remind Mussolini that he was secretary of the chamber of labor as well as editor, but he was properly snubbed. Mussolini, as a matter of fact, had little love for the Socialist organization of the Trentino, which had its headquarters in Vienna, and was very much in sympathy with the independent Czech Socialist movement. Consequently, Mussolini's activities in Trent were, for the most part, purely journalistic. The Clericals, whom he selected as his favorite opponents, still have rueful recollections of his brilliant editorials. When they nicknamed him "the bad boy" he wrote back:

"My dear Austrians, you must remember that you do not offend me in the least by calling me a bad boy, because Italy's bad boys are direct descendants of Balilla."

This thrust, reminding the pro-Austrian Clericals of the rout inflicted upon the Austrian troops in Genoa by the population led by a young boy, infuriated them beyond all measure.

But Mussolini's journalistic triumph wass hort-lived. His opponents, seizing the opportunity offered by a campaign that he was waging against them over the matter of Irredentism, in the course of which he had daringly asserted Italy's right to the unredeemed provinces, concluding with the prophetic statement: "Italy's border does not end at Ala!" had him arrested.

For a time he was kept in jail. Then he was released, but only on condition that he should leave Austrian territory and never set his foot back upon it.

TRAFFIC POLICEMAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO

While directing traffic on the ramp connecting the Point and Manchester bridges, this morning, Cornerman Daniel McGreevy was knocked to the street by an automobile. He was removed to the Mercy Hospital suffering from severe bruises and lacerations. Arthur Garfine, of Columbus, O., driver of the car, was arrested charged with reckless driving.

CHECK NO GOOD, WIFE LOSES HAT

"Gim'me a nice $3 hat for my wife's birthday, and here's a check for $12.50," said a male customer to Miss Rosina Cole, manager of a woman's shop, 6264 Frankstown avenue, late yesterday.

"I'm an officer around here, you needn't worry about the check," reassured the stranger flipping back the lapel of his coat and revealing badge.

Miss Cole's intuition scented fraud. She sent a girl to look for an officer while she detained her customer. He, too, became suspuicious and hurried to the front door. Miss Cole blocked the way battled the man, but was thrust aside and the customer ran. He was captured after a chase by pedestrians.

In Frankstown Avenue Police Station today the prisoner gave his names as Charles McCarthy, 50, of 1011 Braddish street, and admitted he had passed several bad checks on the North Side and in East End. He was held over by Magistrate W. J. Soost.

LENA DALEY SEEN IN ACADEMY SHOW

"Bare Facts," a new burlesque is the show in the Academy, and it brings back Lena Daley, who sings, dances and displays showy costumes. Joe Yule, Billy Tanner, Jack Ryan appear in travesties. The voice of Betty Davis and Cecelia Sheldon contribute to the success of the musical program "Fine Feathers," gives the feminine members of the company opportunity to display rich costume effects. There also is a serious dramatic bit. Margie Bartel offers a new dance specialty. The Academy closes Saturday to re-open early in August.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A FLASH-BACK

By EUDORA R. RICHARDSON

HAMILTON COOPER'S vacation was over. In 10 minutes Helen would meet him at the station as happy to have him back as she had been willing to see him go on the trip back to his boyhood's home. For two weeks Hamilton had experienced all the fresh sensations of adolescence. Now it seemed that the years were again about to rush over him with their deadening weight. A few hours before, he had been 19, capable of romantic thrills; now he was 37 again.

Helen, an inexorable 35, stood at the gate—Helen still slim in a printed silk of green and white, a little green hat pulled down over her short hair.

"Oh Ham, it is good to have you back," she said eagerly enough. "The children are waiting in the car."

Hamilton bestowed a chaste kiss on lips much cooler than those he had left in the city at the other end of the rails. He had almost forgotten that there were children—Junior, 14, 10-year-old Nell, and the baby, chubby and exacting 4½. He took the wheel and drove home almost in silence.

The house was just as he knew it would be—the afternoon sunlight streaming through French windows, pansies in dishes, roses in low bowls, Helen's touch everywhere, aesthetic, conventional. Dinner by dim candle-light that mellowed Helen's old plate and quaint china—and then an evening alone with Helen in the garden mid the heavy fragrance of late roses!

Helen slipped along the Windsor bench until her shoulder touched Hamilton's. She snuggled a cool hand inside his unresponsive palm.

"Now tell about it, dear," she said. "Which old sweetheart sent you mooning into the past."

Hamilton started. How could Helen guess like that?

"Nonsense," he spluttered. "They're all middle-aged now."

Helen turned his face until his eyes met hers in the moonlight.

"Don't lie to me," she commanded. "It was Elsie."

Hamilton Cooper, thirty-seven and successful, shook with the first sobs that had wracked him since he had heard of Elsie's elopement 18 years ago.

"It will help you to talk," Helen said consolingly. "What is she like."

"Not young any more," Hamilton faltered. "She's had a tough time—four children and divorced—but she's making a brave fight, managing a book store and sending the oldest boy to college."

"Still pretty?"

"No, lines in her face—straight hair stringy. I don't know why I should feel this way. You and I have been happy, Helen."

"Were you ever engaged to Elsie?" Helen asked. "You've told me so little about her that I always thought there must be more."

"There wasn't anything at all. We were at high school together. I think I never even held her hand. When she ran away with the other fellow, I rushed into an affair without thinking much about her."

"Thwarted emotion thrown into the sub-conscious," Helen murmured. "And now you are sorry for her, Ham?"

"What fellow with a heart wouldn't be? She married a drunken sot who beat her. But she was plucky, Helen."

"Did you see her often during those two weeks?"

"Yes, chandestinely, disgracefully," Hamilton confessed. "Rides at night—lunches snatched at out-of-the-way places. Her children mustn't guess."

"Youthful romance stolen from a past you thought you had lost," Helen murmured. "Now what are you going to do?"

"Get over it, of course. There are you and the children and my position in society to be considered. Oh, Helen, it's ghastly."

Then Hamilton realized that Helen's arms were closing about him and that he was sobbing on her shoulder.

The next day there came a note from Elsie—a little scrawl that told him of an impending operation. She would not write again, she said. Her life was in the shadow path, but she must not take happiness at another woman's expense. Hamilton wrote in fevered distress. Somebody must keep him posted. He couldn't endure not knowing how it was with her.

No answer came as the weeks dragged on. Life seemed to close over Hamilton like a grave. After that first night in the garden, Helen did not mention Elsie. It seemed sometimes that he would burst unless he could find an outlet for the pent-up misery within him. Finally he wrote to Elsie's daughter. The answer added despair to distress. Elsie was still unconscious, critically ill. Then he told Helen, who took his outburst calmly. Perhaps it would be well for him to go to Elsie, she suggested; but Hamilton could bring himself to take no such step.

Another day he came home to find that Helen had left. The house was a tomb without her. Yet he knew that he had no right to blame her. Late that night Helen telegraphed that she was with Elsie, who was better. Hamilton plunged into emotions that tore him conflictingly.

One evening a week later Helen met him at the door.

"She's here—on the sofa in the living room," she announced. "She has been emotionally starved. We must see that she is fed, Hamilton."

Then Helen left him go to Elsie. The woman, pale and ill, tore at his heart. In that frail body it seemed that his own youth was encased. He laid his cheek against her hand and closed his eyes. He was a boy again, and Elsie and he were at high school with life before them.

As the days passed, however, the old emotion grew harder and harder to recall. Elsie mid the familiar setting of the home that was the very foundation of Hamilton's life—Elsie two years older than Helen and vastly more scarred—Elsie's daughter coming to see her! Yet in the evenings when Helen left him to sit alone with Elsie youth would rush back with aching poignancy.

At last when they sat together in the garden one night—Helen and Elsie, and Hamilton—Helen spoke of the relationship, the existence of which had not been hinted before.

"I've decided to let you two have each other," she said. "I am going to Paris for a divorce."

The words fell foolishly into Hamilton's consciousness. Elsie was the first to speak.

"Youth can't hold us," she said. "You two have made your lives—together. Alone either of you would be in alien soil with roots that would not take hold. Besides, Hamilton and I are not in love. It's youth we were in love with—and that's gone. Hamilton has his work and I have mine. Hamilton has you, Helen. Now I'm going in and let you two talk things over. Tomorrow I am leaving—but I'll come again. Between us there has been cemented a friendship more enduring than love."

She smiled as she left—the peaceful smile of thirty-seven.

With an impetuosity worthy of adolesence, Hamilton caught Helen to him.

"Nothing is more enduring than love," he said. "Helen, you're mine—mine—and I love you as I did 15 years ago."

As his lips pressed hers, Helen believed for a glorious moment that her husband spoke the truth.

AUTO DITCHED, FOUR HURT

An entire family is in Homestead Hospital, the result of an auto crash in Homestead Park last night near their home.

Russell Gerhold, 27; his wife, 25, and their two children, George, 5, and Betty, 3, were cut and bruised when their auto was ditched and wrecked near their home. Mrs. Gerhold also sustained a broken right leg.

Gerhold told township police that he was forced from the road by the car of Joseph Brady, of Hometead. Both Brady and Gerhold were charged with reckless driving.

ADDITIONAL STAGE AND SCREEN NEWS

Voice of Steel Is Stanley Winner

John Steel, tenor, in a repertoire of popular numbers, saves the bill in the Stanley this week. Without him and the Stanley orchestra there would be little for Phil Spitalny to do or to talk about. However, Steel and Steel's songs, judging by yesterday's audiences, are just what Stanley patrons want and they called him back again and again. Spitalny, in honor of George M. Cohan, has evolved a song and dance frolic which gives opportunity for specialties by Vivienne Glen, Jay Sieler, Charlie Wilkins, Manoff and Gifford and the Grete-Bourman dancers. The picture, "The Port of Missing Girls," with its title that suggests the scenes of the oldtime melodrama, is not that kind of a play, lacking in action and "blood and thunder" situations supplying the thrilling episodes that used to make "forsaken girl" drama one of tenseness and tear-shedding. It is a story of parental restraint and well interpreted by Malcolm McGregor and Barbara Bedford with a large cast.

DIPLOMAS ARE GIVEN 36 BRIDGEVILLE PUPILS

Dr. Jesse M. White of the psychology department at the University of Pittsburgh was the principal speaker last night at the graduation exercises of Bridgeville High School, held in the Lincoln School auditorium. Thirty-six seniors were awarded diplomas. Senior class night exercises also was held and the Bridgeville Post of the American Legion presented four medals to eighth grade pupils for Americanization work.

MISS VALLI ESCAPES IN OLYMPIC PICTURE

Virgina Valli is featured in "The Escape," the screen feature in the Olympic. The story is about the life of a girl who is determined to escape sordid environment of a night club. The Vitaphone presentations include "Overtones," a novelty playlet showing two women as they really are and then as they appear to others; "In the Mines," an act presenting a quartet of harmony singers, and a group of Cossacks in muscal selections.

If you were asked, "Who are the greatest 12 living men," what 12 would you name? Make your list and compare it with that to be published in Sunday's Sun-Tele.

OSCAR, VIOLIN ALDINE HIT

Oscar Loraine, a violinist with a comedy complex, is the best bet on the Aldine stage this week. Oscar burlesques the classics and tells a few stories. His grand finale proves to be a rather informal affair with Oscar climbing down from the stage and passing out pretzels and some foamy liquid—but with few takers. All the while, Edith Bohlman, peppy little songstress—who also does quite well in an act of her own—stands in the box above and displays vocal ability. The act is rewarded with laughs and applause. Pepito, Spanish clown, entertains with unique pantomime and some clever impersonations. He can moo like a cow, cry like a baby, roar like a lion and cackle like a chicken. Rainbow Revelry, one of those miniature revues, is quite attractive. It opens with a chorus of dancing girls, who wield brooms and sing about "Sweep, Sweep." The act also features a youthful dance team that gives interesting exhibitions. LaFleur and Portia, billed as "the human tops," open the vaudeville bill. The photoplay attraction is "Alias the Deacon," based on the stage play. Jean Hersholt is starred. A singing organlogue and news pictures are on the bill.

MUSICAL ACT HEADS BILL IN SHERIDAN

The Sheridan Square bill is headed by "The Musical Conservatory" with a cast including Dan Holt, Dale and Adair and the Hazel Churchill Orchestra. There offerings include old time southern tunes and tap dancers. On the screen is Virginia Valli and William Russel in "The Escape," adapted from Paul Armstrong's play. Harry Robinson and company appear in a comedy skit. Frank Farron offers comedy chatter and songs. Starr and Rollo, in "Chain-A-Skate," present a skating and acrobatic novelty. Paul and Al Blum in an exhibition of dexterity, an organlogue and additional screen features complete the bill.

SHOT DURING QUARREL, VICTIM WILL RECOVER

Physicians of the Presbyterian Hospital this morning said that John Fox of 824 Pennsylvania avenue, North Side, shot in the abdomen, apparently would recover. Robert Kelly of Charles street, suspected by police of having fired the bullet during an argument, was held by North Side police. The shooting occurred at Irwin and Taylor avenues.

SANDLOT BASEBALL

by TOM BIRKS

ATTENTION of sandlotters will turn to the County League games scheduled for this evening. Dormont, leading the pack in the County League race, will have Homewood as its opponent at the South Hills grounds, and this game should be a hummer. The other session will find Beltzhoover meeting Bellevue at the North Boros park and this also should pack in the crowds.

SHOULD Dormont win both of its games from Homewood this week the first half championship would be in the bag. With only four clubs in the loop, one far out in the lead will settle things pretty quick. However, Homewood feels that its hitting strength should be strong enough to cop this first game. Carroll will probably pitch for the Falconer outfit with Steele on the hill for Homewood.

IT SEEMS as if Bellevue will have to depend upon Art Shaw to bring home the bacon against Beltzhoover. The McKinley Park crowd is playing heads up ball and will be "in there" fighting. Bellevue has gotten away to anything but a good start, and any club with poor pitching always looks bad.

Bellevue fans are hoping that Hilty will soon be available for action.

THE Alm Club will play the Mt. Washington C. M. C. this evening at Olympia Park, and then play two games with the East Liberty club, tomorrow, the afternoon game at Brookline and the evening game at Mellon Field.

TOMORROW is Decoration Day and while a number of sandlot followers will wend their way to the home of the Pittsburgh Pirates, quite a number will watch their favorite sandlot outfit in action and the program shows quite a number of interesting games.

PROBABLY the most interesting set of frays in the district is the double bill carded at Bellevue, where the North Boro club meets the House of David nine in two games. Whether the long-haired boys are as good as in seasons past remains to be seen, but they will at least draw a big crowd as part of the community celebration.

ANOTHER bill that looks good is the dual battle at Beltzhoover, where St. Johns of the City League meets the County League cracks. McGrady feels that with Titz, a Beltzhoover boy, on the mound the Strip club can at least break even.

HOMEWOOD Grays will play three games which seems like a marathon race for the average sandlotter. The Posey machine thrives on lots of play and with Canton at Braddock for two games there should be plenty of action. The evening session will find the Posey team at Forbes Field meeting Homewood County leaguers.

Zinn, who beat the Grays twice last season, is scheduled to work this game against Joe Williams.

Geneva, 12; Bethany, 2; Westminster, 1; Waynesburg, 1.

By JESS CARVER.

CONFIDENT of escaping being trodden under by the thundering and dangerous hoofs of the Green Bisons of Bethany College, Geneva College's Covenanters are prepared for a gallant defense of their tri-state conference track and field championship at the annual Conference meet at Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, tomorrow afternoon.

The Conference track banner has been in Geneva's possession since the organization of the circuit, and has been successfully and brilliantly defended on four separate occasions. Tomorrow the Genevians will enter the meet again favored to retain the laurels, but by a much narrower margin than has been the case in past years, when stars of the sheen of Butler, Hubbard, Kenst and McKnight gave the Gold and White overwhelming victories.

Bo McMillin.

The meet is the final collegiate event of the year in the section, and is a worthy event with which to ring down the curtain on as glorious a college sport year as this territory has ever experienced. It is fitting and proper that the meet should be the first at which every member of the Conference will be represented by a formal team. Geneva, Bethany, Theil, Waynesburg, Westminster and Duquesne will all have squads on hand for the competition.

BISONS DANGEROUS

Bethany will be the team Geneva will be forced to outscore. Westminster and Duquesne have sure point winners and will count heavily—cutting down the advantage that Geneva would hold over the Bisons in a dual meet. The Bethany team appears to be the second strongest in the Conference, with Westminster next and the Dukes and Theil third and fourth.

Geneva will count on expert strength in the hurdles and field events and the relay for its biggest total of points. Cullen may be depended upon to take the shot put. Friedman will in all probability win the javelin, and possibly set a new record. Merriman will be the big threat in the discus. Ward and Lathom are fair enough broad jumpers—though they will have a tartar to beat in Virgil Elliott of Bethany. Cullen again steps to the fore in the hammer ratings.

Lathom should win the low hurdles with ease, though he will find Delshunti of Westminster a dangerous opponent in the high timbers—besides having Elliott to outstep. Lathom broke the district record in the low hurdles this year in a dual meet with Grove City. He appears to be the best man in the section in the event.

The dashes, always the feature events of the meet, will have Snellenbach of Duquesne, Tarr and Fasick of Bethany, Hartwell of Westminster and Ewing and Lloyd of Geneva fighting for the honors—with the Duke star and Tarr favored to split the first places. It will be difficult to beat Wertz of Westminster in the 880-yard run and mile, though Lockley of Geneva can make good time in both events.

The Dukes have a distance runner who will be certain to take important points. He won the two-mile event in a dual meet with Geneva last week in 10:38, after having finished in the money in both the 880 and mile races.

The outcome of the meet depends to a great extent on the number of points that may be divided between Theil, Waynesburg and the Dukes. Westminster and Bethany are certain to push the defending champions hard—though neither team has enough power to outclass the Covenanters in a dual meet.

And, of course, someone may break a leg or an arm at the last moment.

The meet will be the last in which a Geneva team will be under the guidance of Bo McMillin, who is to leave Geneva after a very successful reign to take over the coaching job at the Kansas Agricultural College, Pittsburg, Kan.

DOC GORDON PASSERS TO BANQUET TONIGHT

Members of the Doc Gordon Club, former Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. basketball champions, will hold their seventh annual banquet tonight in the Plaza restaurant.

MARATHON SATURDAY

A marathon race to be run over a 15-mile course will be staged by the Twenty-seventh Ward Athletic Club of the North Side Saturday afternoon. The race will start and finish at the clubhouse and will be through North Side and Bellevue. The club will hold its first open-air amateur boxing show on its grounds Monday night. Six good bouts have been arranged and a banner crowd is expected to attend.

TOM BENNETT, O'HARA COP TOURNEY

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER

Peter O'Hara, Westmoreland Country Club, and Tom Bennett, veteran pro of Youghiogheny, captured the first tournament of the season of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association, held over the beautiful links of the Stanton Heights Golf Club yesterday. The competition was a four-ball best ball affair, and the O'Hara-Bennett combination turned in a best ball of 136 for the 3 holes, being out in 66 and back in 70. A. J. Chapman of Wheeling and Dave McKay of the Pittsburgh Field Club were second with 137.

It was a most successful tournament, despite the fact that rain fell intermittently, and the field was rather small. The summary:

Pete O'Hara & Tom Bennett..	66	70—136
A. J. Chapman & Dave McKay	67	70—137
Fred Baroni & Al McBride....	73	67—140

DAVIES BEATEN IN TITLE BOUT

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—(AP.)—Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia boxer, won the flyweight championship of Pennsylvania last night by defeating Willie Davies of Charleroi, Pa., in a 10-round bout. In sanctioning the bout the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission said the winner would be recognized as the state champion. Wolgast weighed 110 pounds, Davies 111.

Wolgast, who held the decision over Davies in three former battles, won almost as he pleased. The first round was even, but after that the local lad stung Davies repeatedly with a straight left to the face and pelted his mid-section with both hands.

Davies had but little defense and after the fifth round resorted to clinching frequently. Wolgast, by virtue of his victory, was awarded a silver hat. Davies fought under the handicap of a twisted left ankle from the second round on and at the finish of the bout the ankle was swollen to twice its normal size.

Matty White, Philadelphia, won the decision over Benny Tressido of New York in the 10-round semi-final.

CHILLY SAUCE

BY CHILLY DOYLE

EIGHT full games ahead of the tattered and torn Athletics, the Yankees threaten to make a runaway out of the American League race, just as they did last summer. Connie Mack's players are supposed to be the principal Pretenders in the junior league, but after losing five out of six games to the Yanks the A's probably feel somewhat embarrassed as they perform before their Philly friends.

Babe Ruth and his merry maulers were razzed to the echo in the spring training period, it being quite the thing for any club to give the champs of the sport a drubbing. But when the curtain went up the Yanks began to take the issue quite seriously. That was more than six weeks ago and in the interim the leaders have been beaten just seven times. In other words the Yanks are taking about one trimming a week.

IT COST other American League clubs tens of thousands of dollars last year to have the Yanks sailing along in a manner as to make the race a one-team affair. And now they are off on another tear, and you can bet that the players will leave no stone unturned to get out in front as far as possible. All of which is a tribute to the conduct of the sport. There is no thought of money returns when clubs act in this manner.

Right here in our own circuit those Reds seem to be rarin' to go. Where they are going, nobody knows, but you can mark it down that the club is hustling. The Reds won four out of five from the Pirates and then took four in a row from the Cards and Cubs on hostile grounds. Doubtless they are getting the "breaks," but it seems that Lady Luck travels along with a winner.

PETER DONOHUE'S first victory of the season was most impressive, his pitching being a happy augury for the Rhinelanders. Jack Hendricks bosses a cast of high-priced baseball stars, some of whom took a reduction in wages as a result of the poor showing of the Reds last season. The team failed artistically and financially. If they stay in the elite set this year they are bound to make money for their owners.

Meantime the Dodgers are carrying on in a troublesome manner. The Robins are not an impressive lot on paper, but for that matter neither are the Cubs or Reds, but the three clubs mentioned sport clever pitchers and it surely does take some pitching to insure victories.

DROVE AWAY HIS RHEUMATIC PAINS

North Side Painter Uses Famous Ten Herbs With Amazing Results.

Glowing reports, in great numbers, are being received from men and women in this city and surrounding towns and countryside who have given the famous natural medicine, Ten Herbs, a fair trial and have thereby been freed of all their health troubles. Statements have been made by persons of all stations in life, all praising Ten Herbs, because of their deliverance from suffering caused by sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys, or bowels. Some of these men and women are so enthusiastic about Ten Herbs, and so grateful for the benefits it has bestowed on them, that they volunteer to tell the public about the unusual merits of this great herbal medicine.

"Ten Herbs gave me amazing results—it drove all rheumatic pains and stiffness out of my body," was the statement of Mr. A. J. Gilbert, painter, living at 1932 Morris Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this popular preparation. "For five weeks I was confined in a hospital with inflammatory rheumatism; and, after being discharged, my condition became worse. I was getting weaker all the time, and could hardly walk.

"On the advice of friends, I began using Ten Herbs. It gave me complete relief from rheumatism, and increased my strength. My appetite has improved, and food digests better than it used to. My kidneys have been put in fine condition, and, in every way, I am feeling like a new man. It gives me pleasure to recommend Ten Herbs to the public."

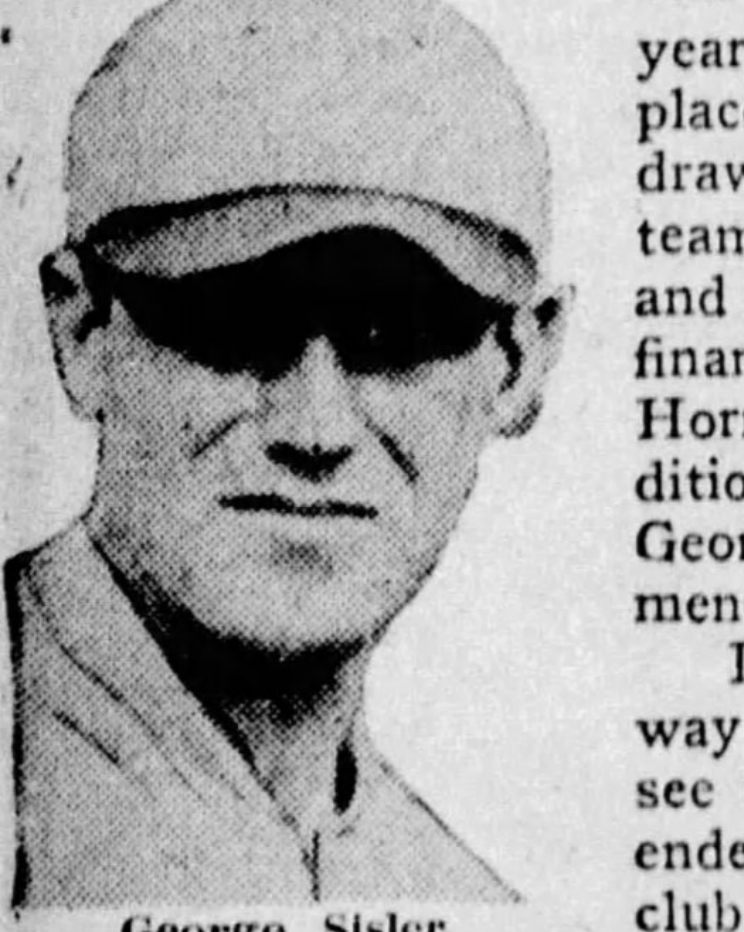
LOUGHRAN, LATZO END TRAINING

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

When Seventh-Place Club Takes on Salaries Like Those of Hornsby and Sisler, Fans Are Tempted to Ask, "Who's Paying Freight?"--Ill Luck Sticks to Trail of Bucs.



George Sisler.

IF you are fond of mathematical puzzles or problems in finance, just sit down and try to figure out how a major league baseball club that has been able to finish out of the second division only once in the last 11 years, and that is occupying seventh place in the 1928 pennant race and drawing only as well as a seventh-place team could be expected to draw in a cold and rainy spring, could first take on the financial burden of a salary like Rogers Hornsby's and then assume the additional liability of a contract like George Sisler's without suffering a tremendous loss.

It's quite a perplexing question, any way you look at it. It was not easy to see in the first place how a near tail-ender like the Boston National League club could assume without a big loss a salary of the size that Hornsby is supposed to draw down.

And now, on top of that, the officials of the Braves pay the waiver price of $7,500 for Sisler and must also assume under baseball law the salary of $15,000 that he was receiving in Washington.

HOW do they do it? Hornsby's salary has been reported at from $40,000 upward. That was all the bunk. He was not receiving anything like $40,000 when the season opened, and is not receiving that much now, it is safe to say, even after getting a boost in pay for "yielding to persuasion and consenting to accept" Jack Slattery's job.

The Braves will have to pay more than $10,000 of Sisler's $15,000 salary for the year, if they keep him, added to the $7,500 they paid to get him.

Jimmy Robertson.

THEN there are to be figured in all of the salaries of the other members of the team, players, coaches and scouts, amounting to more than $150,000. Besides, the club, which does not own the ground on which its playing field is located, has to pay in the neighborhood of $80,000 and rent and taxes, and last, but not least it costs close to $200,000 to run a big league team for six months, counting training trip, railroad travel, hotels, ticket sellers, ticket takers, ushers and others working at the park. A seventh-place club could hardly take in those sums. Opponents of syndicate baseball who have long suspected that the relations between the Boston and New York clubs were anything but strained, are again inclined to ask: "How can it be done, or who's paying the freight behind the scenes."

PITTSBURGH baseball fans are not of the kind that offers or likes alibis, but even outsiders must admit that the failure of the Pirates to play up to form this season is due largely to the fact that they have been the targets for all the adverse baseball fates.

Just add these up: Eleven cases of grip or flu; Kremer's sore foot; Hill's injured spine; Smith's bad leg which may be another month in mending thoroughly; the ailing arm that has kept Meadows from appearing in a single game this season; the sickness and injury of John Miljus, and now, to crown all the other misfortune, the breaking of a bone in the third finger of Grantham's right hand, depriving the local club of the services

TITLE GO TO HEAD HOLIDAY CARD

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP.)—Not since John L. Sullivan, mighty man of Boston, barnstormed through the country years ago and bounced heavyweights nightly on canvasses spread in theaters, halls and even side-shows, has a fistic champion undertaken the schedule that lies ahead of Tommy Loughran, industrious king of the light-heavyweights.

Tommy will pack his crown into Ebbets Field tomorrow night and expose it for 15 rounds to the best shots of Pete Latzo, overgrown Scranton miner who once held the welterweight championship. If successful against Pudgy Pete, Loughran is due to battle again for Humbert J. Fugazy, on June 13, defending his title against rugged Leo Lomski over the 15-round route. The following night, Tex Rickard has Loughran down for a similar engagement against Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo.

Both the champion and Latzo wound up their training with light workouts yesterday. Neither expect to encounter any difficulty in making the weight, 175 pounds at 2 p. m., in the offices of the boxing commission tomorrow. The champion has been installed a heavy favorite to retain his crown and there are few who concede the ex-welterweight champion much of a chance with the clever light-heavyweight king.

Unless the New York State Athletic Commission untracks itself from a mess of rules and by-laws governing the situation, Tommy must fight two 15-round title fights on successive nights. After accepting Fugazy's dates and contracts for Loughran's first two bouts, the solemn solons recognize

Gunn walked all the way and won a bet of $75,000 for his millionaire father, who wagered that his offspring would finish the grind. It is said that the elder Gunn came to the financial assistance of Promoter Pyle when there was danger of the gigantic enterprise collapsing because of a lack of funds.

RED GRANGE AND C.C. PYLE - IT WAS THEIR RACE

SATISFIED

Promoter Pyle had as his partner in staging the bunion derby the famous Red Grange of Illinois football fame, the first of the string of celebrities to be exploited by him. Both made a lot of money out of football and the movies and they have been associated in a business way ever since. They expressed themselves as well pleased with the result of their venture as they shook hands at the finish and will pay off the pool of $48,500 in prizes to the leading runners at the conclusion of a 24-hour marathon race in Madison Square Garden next Saturday night.

TRAYNOR, GRANTHAM AND ADAMS OUT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

DESPITE a broken finger just acquired by George Grantham it seems that Donie Bush will be able to put a team on the field this afternoon to contest with the Redbirds of St. Louis. The gradual return to health of Capt. Pie Traynor brought some sunshine to Bush and his team, and little Sparky Adams apparently is almost ready to go back to work on the infield. Neither, however, will be in the battle today.

Traynor is still weak, but if his will prevailed he would be at his third-base post in the opening game of the series with the Cardinals. Grantham is out for an indefinite period so the boss of the team will continue Joe Harris at first base. Grantham sustained his finger injury in Sunday's game in Chicago.

The regular firstbaseman moved over to the hot corner in the Sunday game. A thrown ball caused a stinging sensation in one of the fingers of his right hand and the digit swelled up and became more troublesome after the team reached home. An X-ray photo late yestrday disclosed a broken bone.

GRIMES TO HURL

Burleigh Grimes is on the docket as the Pirate pitcher for the initial fray with the Redbirds. Grimes is one of the few of the first-string pitchers who has been ready to go to the mound when called upon, but others are improved and soon may be able to take their turn. Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cards is expected to send Jess Haines to the rubber.

The Bushwhackers are confronted with six hard fights ere they begin their first Eastern invasion next Sunday. The Redbirds will remain in town for three days, two battles being on the card for the annual

by HARRY KECK SPORTS EDITOR

HOW many of you folks can remember 'way back when bicycle racing was an intercollegiate sport, not to mention the ruling passion of the day?

Like a warm breath from the past comes to hand a recollection of those halcyon days of the late '90s of the last century, conjured up by the record-breaking activities of R. M. Smith, Wash-Jeff hurdler, who shattered his college's record for the 220-yard low hurdles in the Big Four meet held in the Pitt Stadium a week ago. His time was 25-2-5 seconds.

Young Smith comes naturally by his record-breaking ability, for his dad before him was a champion. The elder Smith is Dr. Howard R. Smith, a dentist of Washington, Pa., who, on June 1, 1897, set two bicycling records that still stand in the Tri-state intercollegiate meet held on Schenley Oval. He won the quarter-mile sprint in 22 seconds and pedaled the two-mile race in 5 minutes 5 seconds. Dr. Smith was graduated from Wash-Jeff with the class of 1899 and from Pitt in 1903. His son, the hurdler, is a Junior at Wash-Jeff.

"THIS marathon dance business is a pipe compared with running in C. C. Pyle's cross-country derby," orated Bill Busch, Millvale's celebrated coast-to-coast runner, yesterday as he breezed into the office after having ambled around in the Homestead dance last week from midnight Sunday to 1 a. m., the following Sunday and shared first prize with a flock of other survivors when the thing was called off.

"Were you tired when it was all over?" I asked him.

"Not very," he replied. "I went outside and raced some fellow 200 yards for a $2 bet and beat him."

"How long did you sleep after the grind?"

"Five hours."

"What?"

"Sure. I hit the hay at 4 a. m., Sunday, and got up at 9."

"Why didn't you stay in the hay?"

"I didn't feel like it. I wanted

HAGEN DUBBED POOR SPORT BY IRISH

NEW CASTLE, IRELAND, May 29.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen is in bad in Great Britain again. At least as far as Ireland is concerned he is about as popular as he was in England two years after he was quoted as criticising the British pros for being too lazy to practice.

Walter Hagen.

The Golfing Union of Ireland is up in arms because of the sudden withdrawal from the Irish open championship on the grounds that he is too tired from his continental tour to do himself justice in the Irish title event.

In a statement to the Associated Press, Alan Kidd, secretary of the Union, charged that Hagen had broken faith with them and had violated an agreement to play in the Irish open provided that an exhibition was arranged for him in Dublin last Saturday.

Immediately after his match Hagen left Ireland and telegraphed Kidd that it would be impossible for him to compete in the Irish open.

Hagen proposed to contribute all the funds he received from his exhibition in Dublin to any Irish charity the committee might select, but the committee decided not to accept Hagen's money because they considered his action unsportsmanlike.

"Hagen not only has injured his name as a sportsman here, but indirectly has hurt the good name of all Americans," Kidd said to the Associated Press. "Hagen seems to forget that he not only represents himself but his country as well when he comes abroad and when he makes an agreement to appear in the Irish open championship and all arrangements are made, including the draw with a partner for him, then cancels his entry, we resent it."

The Irish championship committee has made elaborate plans for the entertainment of the players, and the affront which Hagen has made to Irish hospitality by his withdrawal from the tournament is considered a breach of good faith which officials say is not likely to be forgotten.

The British and Irish professionals who are entered in the event do not seem to share the feeling of the officials about Hagen.

School Nines Clash

WITH the City Scholastic League baseball title as the prize, two crack high school nines, Schenley and Langley, will open their third annual series at Forbes Field this evening.

As has been the case for the past two years, the Bellefielders and Tunnelites have captured top honors in their respective sections, Schenley winning out in Section One and Langley in Section Two. Last year the Schenley team, behind capable hurling on the part of Bernie (Lefty) Buczek, came from behind to win two out of four games and clinch the championship. Lang-

Speedway Trials Today

BOASTING one of the best entry lists ever compiled for an automobile race in this vicinity, the Keystone Recreation Corporation, sponsoring the Memorial Day races at the famous Bridgeville Speedway tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock, will hold its qualifying trials at its half-mile board track this afternoon.

Twenty-one noted drivers, including the best in the tri-state district, as well as two stars from Detroit, will vie for the 12 coveted positions in the main event of 50 miles. Two other races are on the program, both scheduled to go 25 miles. The first will be for drivers who failed to qualify and the second for the four leaders in the 50-mile race.

Following is the list of stars and their cars who will compete in the qualifying trials this afternoon: Jack Casey, Pittsburgh, Frontenac; Joe Baker, Pittsburgh, Frontenac; Billy Lindau, Pittsburgh, Junior Special; Herman Kress, Pittsburgh, Coffelder Special; George Lackinger, McKees Rocks, Lackinger Special; A. J. Marshall, Frontenac; Kenneth Chrispin, Washington, Frontenac; Carl Klingensmith, Akron, Frontenac; Joe Catone, Youngstown, Frontenac; Bill Chittum, Columbus, Rajo Special; P. G. Warner, Braddock, Frontenac; Floyd Travis, Lowellville, Frontenac; Fred Miller, Pittsburgh, Frontenac; C. A. Wall, Washington, Chevrolet; Johnny Clevenger, Weston, Knight Special; Al Theiser, Detroit, Frontenac; J. Pickering, St. Clairsville, Frontenac; Ray Campbell, Detroit, Frontenac; R. McKenzie, Oakmont, B. & G. Special, and William Pieffer, Ambridge, Mystery B.

Unlike the dirt track races, Bridgeville has the facilities to go through with its program regardless of the weather conditions. Boasting the only half-mile board track in this section of the tri-state district, fans attending the Bridgeville races are assured of watching the speed events free from dust and other annoyances.

Interest in the Memorial Day program at Bridgeville is high throughout the tri-state district, more than 12,000 watching the various drivers going through their workouts at the track last Sunday afternoon and evening. Henry Coslow, director and manager of the Bridgeville Speedway, is confident that tomorrow's program will draw a record-breaking turnout of fans.

BUTLER TO STAGE RACE

BUTLER, Pa., May 29.—This city is awaiting with anticipatory eagerness its inaugural 100-mile automobile race of the season at the fairgrounds tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock Pittsburgh daylight savings time and 2 o'clock Butler time.

Among the many entrants who will enter the qualifications at 10 o'clock sharp tomorrow morning are: Herbert Fechter, Eddie Dreibhold and Harry "Bud" Heffner, Lafe Stahlman and A. M. Linganfelter, both of Brookville, Pa.; Art Stewart and Jimmy Altman, both of Greensburg; Lou Hornetta and Jack Reid, New Kensington speedsters; Billy Bowman of Altoona; Virgil Kynett, A. L. Hartman and Jack McFadden, Warren, O., drivers and many others who are well known to the followers of the speed sport in this district.

MON CITY AWAITS START

The finest field of drivers that ever competed in a local race meet is entered in the Monongahela speedway races tomorrow. There will be 18 starters, including Mike Hickson, regarded as the champion of the half-mile dirt track; Jean Mandeloff, Chicago, winner of the long distances held last season at New Kensington and Butler; Joe Spath, a three-time winner at Monongahela last year, and Buck Ramsey, local favorite.

"What did you do after you arose?"

"Ate breakfast and went back to Homestead and looked up my partner in the dance and hung around the town the rest of the day."

"Are you tired now?"

"Not a bit of it. I could have danced another week—and that was my first appearance on any dance floor."

"What are your plans for the future?"

"Well, I expect to be in the Madison Square Garden dance in New York starting June 10, and I want to go to New York, anyway, to see Pyle and give him my regards and tell him I've discovered a softer racket than his."

ON all hands comes the query: "What's wrong with the Pirates?"

After thinking it over, I have come to the conclusion that the main difficulty is that they are not winning consistently. If that doesn't answer the question, write your own ticket.

Cars Given Final Tests

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29.—Everything is ready for the annual 500-mile automobile race to be staged here tomorrow. Preparation for the grind today is confined to the garages where the final tear-down and rebuilding of the tiny motors is in progress, with a few trial and qaulifying runs to be made on the track. Thirty-two are expected to start the grind.

Four more will be given the chance to qualify today, though they must make the test before noon, for after that time, no cars, with the possible exception of DePaolo's, will be permitted on the track. Four cars met the qualifying test yesterday, bringing the total certain to start up to the 28 figure.

W. D. Edenburn of Detroit, a representative of the American Automobile Association contest board and in charge of the local race, said Peter De Paolo's smashed-up car would be given a chance to qualify at 5 o'clock the morning of the race, provided it could be repaired before that time. Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis probably will be the driver. De Paolo, who was injured last Saturday when the car turned over, was still confined to a hospital, but was reported progressing rapidly.

FOUR CARS QUALIFY

Earl Devore of Los Angeles, Clarence Belt, L. L. Corum and Charles (Dutch) Bauman, all of Indianapolis, qualified cars yesterday. Devore, with an average speed of 109.810 miles an hour, provided the most speed. A cheer went up when Belt put over his car at a speed of 96.72 miles an hour, for he had been trying for two years to go get enough power to qualify it.

Automobile parts are scattered all over many of the garages as mechanics carefully inspected and scoured each moving part before fastening it back in its proper place. Wheel balance, carburetor adjustments and in some instances a final brief run over the course was the order of things in some camps where they had speeded up their final tasks.

The 2½-mile brick course will be scrubbed today of the oil that has made the sharp turns doubly hazardous in the last few days and after noon not a car will be permitted on it until the race starts, with the possible exception of De Paolo's entry.

The annual meeting of drivers, at which time they will be given final instructions, will be held late this afternoon.

The race as usual wil start at 10 o'clock, central standard time.

NOTES of the BOXERS

Cuddy DeMarco boxes Joe Reno at Wilmington, Del., tonight.

Young Rudy meets Joe Trippe of Rochester, N. Y., in the eight-ound semi-final to a bout between Jack Gross and Mike Conroy, heavyweights, at Idora Park, Youngstown, tonight.

Dave Shade boxes Hymie Garfunkle at Kansas City tonight.

Ace Hudkins will have just one tuning up fight before his championship meeting with Mickey Walker, the middleweight maestro, in Chicago June 21. The encounter will be held at Lincoln, Neb., Monday night against an opponent not yet named. Following the match, Hudkins will go to Chicago to complete his training.

of the leading hitter of the National League and a man who has been playing great ball in all departments.

THE Bucs have turned in some poor ball, it is true, but don't overlook the handicaps under which they have been trying to put up a fight.

Where would the Bucs be at this time if Donie Bush had not "David Harumed" John McGraw into trading Burleigh Grimes to Pittsburgh for Vic Aldridge?

PENN STATE is pointing with just pride to one of the few college athletes in capacity that ever won four letters in a single college year. Steve Hamas, hailing from East Rutherford, N. J., rounded out the feat recently when he captured the shot-put in a meet with Syracuse University, and grabbed enough points to win his letter in track.

Pete Donohue

Hamas is the first athlete in Penn State's history to win four letters in a year. Carl Forkum, '05, won the "S" in four sports but not in a single year. Hamas won in football, basketball, boxing and track. Boxing is not a major sport at Penn State, but Hamas was given the extra major "S" for winning the intercollegiate heavyweight championship.

ONLY three athletes ever won four letters in major college sports in Pittsburgh—two at Pitt and one at Carnegie Tech. None of them did it in one year.

Jimmy DeHart was first, winning the Panther insignia in football in 1914, '15, '16, '19, baseball in 1915, '16, '17, track in '16, '17, and basketball in 1917. DeHart won three letters in one year, 1917, but lost his chance for a football award that year because he enlisted for the World War.

John J. (Speedo) Laughran was next at Pitt—football in 1919, baseball in 1921, basketball in 1919-20 and track in 1922.

Only one athlete ever won four letters at Carnegie Tech, he being Jimmy Robertson, whose brilliant athletic deeds still are fresh in Tartan memory. Robertson won football letters in 1921-22-23-24, in baseball in 1922, track in 1923 and basketball in 1924.

IF the Boston Nationals bought George Sisler only for advertising purposes, figuring that his name would draw at the National League gates, the advertising is not likely to last very long unless George does better work than he did for Washington. In 45 times at bat for the Senators he made only nine hits for an average of but .200. Sisler and Hornsby at one time were rivals on different teams in St. Louis for what Mound City fans were pleased to term, "the title of the world's greatest ball player." Now they are in the same lineup, but at a time when Sisler appears to be on his last legs, judging from the fact that Boston was the only club in the two big leagues to claim him.

Burleigh Grimes.

LAST year Pete Donohue of the Cincinnati pitching staff had an off season, during which he won only six games and lost 16. It is reported that his salary was cut in consequence. He was a spring holdout but finally signed. The agreement reached must have included some "show us" stuff, for yesterday Pete stepped out for his first start of the season and downed the cocky Cubs with only one run and five hits.

SEEMINGLY, Peter is out to show some persons connected with the Cincinnati club that they blundered. Chicago is usually a tough club for him, too. Last season he beat the Cubs only once in four arguments.

Japs, U. S. to Meet In Zone Final

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP.)—Japan and the United States will fight it out for the right to meet the winners of the European zone Davis Cup competition.

The Japanese gained the final bracket in the American zone yesterday by eliminating Canada, three matches to one, at Montreal, 24 hours after the United States had beaten China in the other semi-final, 5 to 0.

The two survivors clash at Chicago, June 1, 2 and 3 with the Americans favorites to advance to the inter-zone finals at Paris later this summer. The winner of the inter-zone finals gains the right to attempt to wrest the Davis Cup from France and her Musketeers, La Coste, Borotra and Brugnon.

If the Americans dispose of the Japanse at Chicago, they probably will meet Italy in the inter-zone finals. The Italians, through their defeat of Australia and Rumania, have shown more tennis than the other seven European zone nations still in the running—India, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and New Zealand.

LIST RECORD ENTRY

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29.—One of the greatest entries ever received for a Grand Circuit meeting is that announced for the Indiana State Fair, September 3-8. A total of 564 horses were named in eight early closing events, an average of slightly better than 70 a race.

Buczek will be on the hill for Schenley again this evening, and the little southpaw will be opposed by the equally brilliant Patsy Ragazzo, rated one of the best school hurlers in the section. Both were the kingpins in the successes of their teams during the regular season.

Schenley will throw a veteran nine into the action against Langley in an effort to win the rubber series. A new man will be found behind the plate in Ochs, and Moran will be playing his first championship series in right field.

The Langley team will also be composed of veterans for the most part.

BRUCE'S HOMER WINS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 29.—(AP.)—A home run by Bruce Caldwell into the bleachers in the tenth inning enabled Yale to pin a 3 to 2 defeat on Keio University of Tokio, Japan, yesterday. Hemazaki allowed the Blue five hits in nine innings but was taken out at the start of the tenth.

65 TO START IN MARATHON

The big feature of the Memorial Day celebration in Greater Pittsburgh, so far as track and field sports are concerned, will be the big annual meet at Kennywood Park, preceded by a modified marathon run from Downtown Pittsburgh.

The marathon run has attracted an unusually large number of starters, no fewer than 65 lads having entered the distance run, which will get under way promptly at noon at the Boulevard of the Allies and Short street.

As soon as this race is finished at the park, the meet will start on the athletic field, with a host of the best college and club men in this district in line. The meet is in the hands of competent officials, and will be run off without any unnecessary delays. The entry list for the marathon, with the runners' numbers, follows:

1, Regis Carroll; 2, Rufus Tankins; 3, Charles W. Thomas; 4, Roxey De Marco; 6, Urban Hoffman; 8, Rudolph De Broke; 9, H. J. Tris Given Second Place

By ALAN J. GOULD.
Associated Press Sports Editor

BOSTON, May 29.—Bill Carrigan, the iron gray haired, keen-eyed chieftain of the Boston Red Sox, doesn't live on a baseball past, even though he might be accorded some privileges in that respect as the manager of world championship teams here in 1915 and 1916.

Bill has young ideas and a young team, for the most part, that he is fast developing into a combination to be reckoned with in the American League.

Nevertheless Carrigan, in the midst of this reconstruction program, may be persuaded to turn back the pages a little to tell you that Ty Cobb was probably the greatest all-around player he ever knew, with Tris Speaker a close rival; that Nap Lajoie, the famous Frenchman of the old Cleveland club, was the greatest natural batter, and that Babe Ruth, who came to the big show under Carrigan, was as great a left-handed pitcher before the war as he is an all-around star now.

SIZES UP STARS

"Cobb probably ranks as the best of them all in general ability, but Speaker was not far behind," Carrigan asserts in sizing up the two famous outfielders now with the Athletics, both of whom, incidentally, were in their prime in Carrigan's days as manager-backstop of the old Red Sox.

"Ty had a little edge at bat, perhaps, but not much. He also was a better base runner, but Spoke was greater on defense. I don't think there has been any outfielder in the game who outshone Tris in this respect, although he had a pair of great teammates in Hooper and Lewis on our old team.

"Ty was always a bigger gate attraction than Tris. He was more of a firebrand on the field. Spoke was the sort who went about his business quietly."

"I never saw Ed Delehanty and I can't pass any opinion on Rogers Hornsby," Carrigan went on. "But I would rank Lajoie as the greatest all-around batsman I have ever seen; certainly the greatest right-hander. Ruth, of course, is the greatest long-distance hitter, without an argument, but Lajoie also could hit 'em far as well as often.

"Most people nowadays do not realize that Ruth, before converted into an outfielder, was as great a left-hander as there was in the business back in 1915-16. He had speed, control, everything. But his pitching fell off when they began alternating him between the outfield and box.

"Pitchers? Who has ever surpassed the record of old Cy Young? There have been a lot of great ones but Cy, over a long stretch of time, was a wonder. There were Mathewson, Johnson and others.

"We had a great staff with the Red Sox in 1915-16 with Ruth, Shore, Leonard, Foster and Mays."

RETICENT OVER BEST

Carrigan can't be drawn into the debate that Connie Mack, John McGraw and Wilbert Robinson engaged in last season as to whether the present-day Yankees, with their slugging power, eclipse the great teams of other days, such as the Baltimore Orioles, the Chicago Cubs, the old Athletics or Red Sox.

"How can you stop a team with that hitting?" Bill laconically asks. "The Yankees don't need great pitching."

Neither will Carrigan dwell upon his achievements in lifting the Red Sox out of the depths in less than a season and a half.

"When the boys are out there hitting and the pitchers are going good, they will win. They make the manager. The manager doesn't make the team."

Carrigan's attention was called to the development of such young pitching talent as Ruffing, MacFayden, Big Ed Morris, but he replied:

LIFETIME JOB

"They were coming along, anyway. I just happened to be here when they got going."

But there is another side to the situation in the confidence exhibited in their manager by the players and by the club president, Bob Quinn.

"Carrigan," declares Quinn, "can manage the Red Sox as long as he wants to. When we called him back a lot of folks said Bill would be handicapped by being out of the game 10 years. But that had nothing to do with the main thing—Carrigan's ability as a leader. That is born in him. The players know it and they give him their best."

PIRATES

Decoration Day festivities tomorrow.

A single game on Thursday will send the Cardinals on their way, rejoicing or otherwise, the home boys hoping it will be the latter feeling, as the Pirates surely can use a few victories at this particular time. The departure of the Cardinals will see the Cubs back for two contests. Games with the Bears will be played on Friday and Saturday and then the home fans will not see any more of the Oaklanders until they return from their Eastern tour.

The speed of the Pirates will be correspondingly lessened while George Grantham is out of the game. Moreover, Adam Comorosky, another speed merchant, has been in a batting slump so that Bush might make a change in the left-field job any time. But if the club strikes its normal hitting stride with the pitchers doing their stuff like they did last season the various rivals would have a lot to do to keep the Buccos from winning regularly.

Be that as it may the Pirates are not discouraged. The rest period of yesterday apparently did not do the team any harm; they should be "out there" with a lot of fight today.

LOUGHRAN

an option Rickard held on the champion's services and allowed him to name June 14 for the Slattery match.

Although the commission suggested that Fugazy postpone the Lomski-Loughran battle, the original batting order still stands. Loughran maintains that he has no contract with Rickard for a match against Slattery or anyone else on June 14. The commission will reconsider the situation today.

SET GRID DATE

MADISON, Wis., May 29.—(AP.)—The University of Wisconsin football team will play Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., October 19, 1929, in the game which will dedicate the new stadium there, the athletic department announced today.

Mitchell Gets Release From Philly Club

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—(AP.)—Clarence Mitchell, veteran lefthand pitcher of the Philadelphia National League Club, has been given his unconditional release.

Mitchell has been with the Phillies since 1923, coming from Brooklyn in a trade for George Smith, pitcher. He said he had asked for his release before this season began, as he had an offer to manage a minor league club and wanted to accept it, but his request was refused.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

NUMEROUS Memorial Day programs will be featured on the air tonight and tomorrow. President Coolidge will be the speaker at special memorial exercises to be broadcast from the Gettysburg battlefield at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. A. E. Wagner, of Gettysburg, will read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Gov. Fisher will be the presiding officer. This program will be broadcast through the Blue and Red networks. KDKA and WCAE will be in the hookup.

At 12 noon tomorrow WEAF and a number of other Red Network stations will broadcast a program from the Soldiers and Sailors Club. Elsie Janis, Gladys Sears and Sue Harvard, all of whom were with the A. E. F., are scheduled to take part. Joyce Kilmer's poem, "I Have a Rendezvous With Death," will be given with a musical accompaniment.

Another air feature tomorrow will be a description of the last hour of the 500-mile motor race at the Indianapolis Speedway. Graham McNamee will be at the microphone in this offering, which will be presented over the Red Network, including WCAE, beginning approximately at 4:10 p. m. Thirty-three motor cars are entered in this, the sixteenth annual international motor race.

A local Memorial Day feature will be the broadcast, through WCAE at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening, of a program under the direction of the Allegheny county committee of the American Legion. Patriotic music and addresses will be offered.

There are many other interesting radio events scheduled for tonight and for tomorrow, Memorial Day. These will be found in the tabulated radio schedules that follow.

STANFORD-ARMY GAME ON XMAS PLANNED

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP.) — Secretary Davis has authorized a football game between the West Point Cadets and the Leland Stanford University at Christmas time on the Pacific coast, if Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the military academy, finds arrangements desirable to contract for such a game.

The exact date for the game is to be decided upon by authorities of the two schools. Secretary Davis said he had investigated the effect of the long trip upon the academic work of the cadets and found that by making the journey during the regular Christmas vacation, the team would be away from West Point only two and one-half school days.

Senator Johnson of California was among the many who urged the intersectional contest.

STOCKS-BONDS-GRAIN-PROVISIONS-LIVESTOCK

Forbes

Finds Speculating Novices Have Become Very Shrewd.

By B. C. FORBES.

ARE most of the novices who have been drawn to the stock market wiser than generally supposed—and much wiser than those who used to dabble in stocks and end by being mercilessly fleeced?

Accurate, comprehensive information about who have been buying stocks, the kind of stocks they have been buying, the amount of margin they have put up, the proportion of stock bought outright, etc., would make possible the formation of more accurate judgment as to what may happen in coming months.

AN unusually interesting contribution on this timely subject has been received from a reader who has taken the pains to interview a large number and wide variety of small buyers of stock in the present market. Let him speak for himself:

"Do not confuse the present general public with that of quite some years past. I have been surprised to know what a considerable number of novices have learned about pure speculation. For instance, my secretary, and her friends, and their friends are some.

"Getting interested in learning what these newcomers are doing in Wall street, I told my secretary I would like to meet some of her friends who trade in stocks, and I had that opportunity. I next told her friends, and I have met about 150 of what we call Wall street novices during the past six months. They were all willing to talk freely with me, because they know I have Wall street connections and trade myself.

"Besides the aforementioned people, I have acquaintances of my own, novices, who buy and sell stocks. Then, too, I have relatives.

"I AM forced to conclude that the 'general public' in the market is not the same type, in the main, as was the 'public' of my younger days. In nearly all former bull markets there were thousands and thousands of trades made on the same basis or similar to the following:

"A customer would buy 100 shares of stock on a 10-point margin or five points. On a sudden break there would be a huge loss at once to thousands of holders of stocks because of slim margins, and because relatively few stocks were bought outright.

"Allow me to sum up my conclusions regarding the new generation of novices. My secretary, for instance, has been buying and selling wisely, always holding to income-paying stocks. I found quite a number of these novices doing the same thing. They go to their banks for advice.

"Many of them have speculated on margin mostly in low-priced stocks. The present public knows the value of stop-orders, I find. I have asked everyone of these people, young women as well as men, what would happen to them if the market should suddenly slump. Those trading on margin said: 'Let her come; sooner the better, for we will get in at lower prices.' Very few bought stocks selling over $80.

"NOW, do not let us fool ourselves into thinking that this big 'public' is not far more wary of being tied up in stocks than any public of bygone days.

"I found that many had taken profits and bought things—lots, houses even; clothes, paid debts, and had stored money away for a fine time the coming vacation; several had bought autos. Some had bought bonds for investment and a goodly number had purchased good preferred stocks, because, they said, the profits looked good to them and the bonds and preferred stocks would be good collateral if they could buy low-priced stocks on good reactions later.

"I agree with you, we will get atop to this market. Will that top be higher or lower than what we have seen? There is quite a large number of low-priced stocks which will advance from time to time and will not sell much lower.

"When the break comes, we may find that it is not in the main the general public that is caught, but those who can buy and sell thousand-share lots in medium and high-priced stocks. I think we can fairly judge the rank and file of novices in Wall Street by those I have talked with.

"THE manager of a brokerage firm told me last week that he had never known so many customers to take away profits, to draw profits from the house and not return them in any form.

"When the break comes, unless we have a calamity following it, I apprehend it will not run into anywhere near what we term panicky conditions. I am looking for higher prices in many stocks. I cannot see it any other way. We little realize what a huge amount of money is waiting right now for a good reaction.

"This is a huge country. It possesses the right to have a huge stock market. It can stand huge loans relating to securities. It makes me proud to know that all this financial proposition is as big as it is in every particular. Why, it's only developing.

"Leave the market alone, and it will adjust itself. Enough has already been done to curb loans. Force upon the public that it is intended to topple this market over, and some morning a huge majority of the people will send in selling orders that will require three days to execute, and on top of this there will be the immense bear selling waiting—seven sellers to every buyer."

The facts given are illuminating. The opinions you can take or leave.

MOTOR SHARES LEAD STOCKS HIGHER

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP.)—Heavy buying of the motor shares, based in part on expectations of favorable second quarter earnings statements, turned the course of stock prices upward today after an early period of irregularity. Early declines of 1 to 5 points in many issues were cut down, or wiped out, and more than two score issues were marked up 1 to nearly 15 points. Trading was fairly heavy for a pre-holiday session, sales crossing the 2,000,000 share mark before the end of the third hour.

Wall Street apparently had recovered from the shock of a 6½ per cent call money rate yesterday, the highest in seven years. Call loans renewed today at 6 per cent and there appeared to be a plentiful supply of funds available at that figure. There was no calling of loans during the morning, indicating that the banks were in a position to meet the heavy holiday and month-end demand for funds.

The day's business news was rather mixed in character. Signing of the tax bill by President Coolidge was widely commented upon as a bullish factor, although the cut in the corporation tax was not as large as many had hoped for earlier in the year. The weekly steel trade reviews reported a further slackening in demands and output. But prices held fairly steady.

Dodge Brothers preferred, which has been yielding nearly 10 per cent at recent levels, ran up 13¼ points to a new peak at 83, while the common advanced about 3 points. Talk of a large increase in sales and vague merger rumors involving Ford and other companies accompanied the advance. Chrysler extended its gain to 7 points by touching a new peak at 87⅞. Studebaker, General Motors, Hudson, Hupp and Mack Trucks advanced 2½ to 3½ points.

International Harvester, Frank G. Shattuck, Radio and Curtiss Aeroplane sold 6 to 8 points higher and Wright Aeronautical, Kroger Stores, May Department Stores, Allied Chemical, American Smelting, Postum, Otis Elevator, Greene Cananea Copper and New York State Railways preferred were among the many issues to advance 2 points or more. International Paper ran up more than 3 points, despite the cut of $3 a ton in the price of news print for 1929 delivery.

A 9-point jump in Texas & Pacific revived interest in the rail group after early declines of 2 points or so had been recorded by Rock Island, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Railway.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 29.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 2 to 6 points, as if influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables, but soon steadied on covering and buying promoted by apprehension of unfavorable weather conditions in the South and private reports of cold rains in some sections.

October contracts rallied from 20.66c to 20.83c, with the general list working about 5 to 13 points net higher, but the advance was checked by pre-holiday realizing and the market showed reactions of a few points.

A private report placed the indicated increase in acreage at 7 per cent and the condition of the crop as of May 18 at 70 per cent compared with 72.4 at the same time last year.

Liverpool cables reported local and continental liquidation in the market there, with rallies from early low prices promoted by covering on reports of rains in the Atlantic states.

The market eased back nearly to yesterday's closing quotations during the forenoon under a renewal of pre-holiday realizing. The volume of business tapered off, but the decline brought some covering. At midday the market was quiet and steady with prices about net unchanged to 5 points higher.

EMPLOYMENT FEE LAW IS DECLARED ILLEGAL

WASHINGTON, May 29.—State laws regulating fees charged by employment agencies were set aside by the Supreme Court yesterday in a case from Newark, N. J., brought by Rupert Ribnik. Justice Stone dissented. In 21 states employment bureau fees are regulated. The New Jersey law was attacked as unconstitutional on the ground that it was beyond the powers of a state to enforce laws which had the effect of regulating charges whether they be fees charged for professional service or wages for labor.

NO CHARGE for this CONVENIENCE

WHEN you have your reservations and your passport in readiness for your trip abroad, all you need to insure a journey free from financial inconvenience, is a supply of Mellon Travelers Cheques.

The convenience of this method of carrying expense money is obvious—you do not need to depend on banks or banking hours, or upon finding someone who will cash your personal check. These cheques are readily converted into cash, at a moment's notice, and may be used as payment for purchases wherever money is exchanged.

Mellon Travelers Cheques are sold at par—for $100 you get $100 worth of cheques. There is no extra charge. You may obtain them in convenient denominations of $10 to $200, put up in a compact bill fold.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Stocks Well Supported.

The market received excellent support today following the nervous reaction accompanying the rise in call money to 6½ per cent yesterday. High grade industrials found takers on all small dips and the presence of this support soon turned the market upward. Gains ranging from 2 to 10 points from yesterday's bottoms were noted by mid-day, and there was a feeling of confidence noted in many directions. Bulls on International Harvester took the opportunity to force their favorite up to around the previous high for the year and in many other issues the attempts of the bears to cover short sales found the available supply limited. However, the money bogey still hovered over the market, and it was apparent that the quick-trigger traders were ready at all time to "run out." The opinion seems to be that money will ease back after the month-end and June 15 settlements are out of the way, and it is this supposition apparently that makes the average trader hesitant about throwing his stocks overboard. It is estimated that dividend and interest payments as the month end will amount to over $400,000,000.

Call Money Plentiful.

From indications in money market it was assumed the greater part of the pressure for funds had been felt yesterday. Money was in good supply and light demand at the 6 per cent renewal figure. Time money was quiet with a firm tone at the 5½ per cent rate. Current high rate of this immediate movement. It was reported that Secretary Mellon has not yet drawn up his plans for the regular mid-year refinancing of the Treasury Department. So far he is not certain whether the program will provide for conversion of the Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, it was learned.

Chrysler Opens at New High.

There was a sensational opening in Chrysler Motor this morning when 25,000 shares of the stock changed hands in one trade at 84, a new high record and an overnight gain of 3¼ points. It was said the New York Stock Exchange house which had bought 50,000 shares of the stock in the two preceding sessions was again on the buying side. Stock market interests credited with the recent bulge in Studebaker were said to be operating in Chrysler, but there was nothing definite as to the purpose of the accumulation.

Dodge Preferred Spurts.

Dodge Motor preferred enjoyed the strongest market witnessed in the shares for many months, rising sharply in response to buying orders which came in early and forced the price up about seven points. The common reflected the advance in the preferred, but its move was comparatively narrow. Pool operations were credited with lifting the preferred and it was said that rumors of a merger of Dodge with one of the other large producers were unfounded. Street gossip placed a price tag of 85 on Dodge preferred as the objective of the move. Interests connected with the rise pointed to the earnings as warranting a higher figure for the preferred.

Markets Rest Tomorrow.

Banks, stock exchanges and the principal commodity markets will be closed tomorrow in observance of Decoration Day. The suspension will provide a measure of relief for the over-worked brokerage houses, which have been swamped by the tremendous markets since March 1. Whether the stock exchange authorities will order the market closed next Saturday remains to be seen, but the general opinion is that they will again suspend trading for the short week-end session. Already there have been six Saturday closings since Easter, and it is felt in many quarters that the dark Saturday policy will remain in effect for the summer at least.

Report Postum "Shopping."

The management of Postum Cereal, Inc., is said to be angling for other food companies to add to its organization. Three companies mentioned in these rumors are Standard Milling, Adolf Goebel and Maxwell House Coffee. For some time past Postum has been acquiring additional units and thereby utilizing its sales force to sell more products with a well-rounded-out line.

Sees Lower Market Range.

Hornblower & Weeks say: "Subject to minor rallies, we look for a lower range of prices this week. Yesterday's market would seem to indicate that stocks are in greater supply on rallies than has recently been the case. While we believe the market will be treated with its usual continent of special issues, which will either hold or move against the irregular or reactionary tendencies in the main body of stocks, nevertheless, the immediate situation would seem to call for a continuation of a conservative trading policy.

Rubber Trading Limit Cut.

Reduction of the trading limit from 8 to 5 cents on all futures contracts, effective June 1, is announced by the New York Rubber Exchange. President F. R. Henderson explained that the present limit of 8 cents or 800 points, is regarded as unnecessarily large in view of the fact that rubber prices have been brought to the 20 cents a pound level and have achieved relative stability.

New Metal-Cable Combine.

Another metal and cable consolidation, something along the lines of the General Cable merger last year, was announced today in the formation of the National Electric Products Corporation, a new concern through which the National Metal Moulding Company of this city, will take over the American Cooper Products Corporation of Bayway, N. J., and the British-American Metals Company of Plainfield, N. J. Through its subsidiaries the new corporation will hold a majority interest in the stock of the Habirshaw Cable and Wire Corporation, which has plants at Yonkers, N. Y., and Bridgeville, Conn. National Electric Products Corporation has an authorized capital of 300,000 shares no par value common and $5,000,000 of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock. The preferred stock is not to be issued at this time and the common shares will be used only in exchange for the shares of the companies making up the group. The companies entering the combine are non-competitive manufacturers of electrical transmission apparatus whose products are described broadly as covering the entire field. The board of directors of the new corporation will be composed of W. C. Robinson, chairman; O. F. Felix, C. F. Holdship, A. L. Robinson, H. H. Robinson and I. A. Bennett, all of Pittsburgh, and Wylie Brown, A. Jerome, H. C. Carpenter and C. J. Gleason, all of New York. Officers of the new corporation include: President, Wylie Brown; vice president, I. A. Bennett and H. H. Robinson.

Anaconda Loses Patent Suit.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals of San Francisco has decided the suit of G. C. Carson against the Anaconda Copper Company, involving smelting furnace patent claims, in favor of Carson, according to reports from San Francisco today. The decision reverses a previous decision handed down by a Montana court. In its order, the San Francisco court held that the Anaconda Company actually did violate the rights of the furnace inventor and ordered the case back to the federal courts for adjudication and accounting. Suits brought by the inventor are estimated to total close to $20,000,000. Similar verdicts in Carson's favor have been handed down against American Smelting and Refining Company and others.

PRICE CHANGES FRACTIONAL

Volume of trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange showed further moderate contraction today, although prices held firm and quotations in the forenoon session were practically unchanged from last night's closings.

Arkansas Gas was rather active at the opening when several hundred shares changed hands at 3 for the common and 7 for the preferred, both unchanged. The stocks have been resting at these levels since the sudden flurry last Friday when they were both advanced fractionally on the largest turnover in either issue since the new shares were admitted to the list.

Miscellaneous manufacturing issues were also narrow. Standard Sanitary entered the trading at 39, off a fraction from the previous close, while Central Steel Products held its recent gain and sold at the best level so far recorded. The shares were listed only last week and have since scored a gain of more than 3 points. Armstrong Cork was unchanged at 61½.

In the afternoon session Arkansas Gas bulged through to a new high, fractionally above 3. Lone Star Gas held at 51 on the early trades, but slipped under that figure later in the day; there was no heavy pressure on the stock, however. Late fluctuations in the miscellaneous group were confined to fractions generally.

In the bank section Colonial Trust dropped back 3 points to 302 on a sale of 25 shares, while Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., sold in small lots at 200, unchanged.

The following information has been summarized by Mr. J. H. Hillman, Jr., President of Pennsylvania Bankshares & Securities Corporation, from his letter dated May 28, 1928, copies of which may be obtained upon request, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

BUSINESS

Pennsylvania Bankshares & Securities Corporation has been organized to invest in securities of institutions engaged in the banking, insurance and surety business and to buy, sell, underwrite and deal in such securities and in other securities, both corporate and governmental.

INVESTMENTS

All of the company's preferred and common stocks presently to be outstanding are to be issued in connection with the acquisition by the company of securities, which have a present market value of approximately $5,225,000, and to provide the company with $100,000 cash.

The principal initial investments of the company, which have a present market value of approximately $4,275,000, will be in the capital stocks of the following Pittsburgh banks:

First National Bank at Pittsburgh
Peoples Savings and Trust Company of Pittsburgh
The Bank of Pittsburgh, National Association
Pittsburgh Trust Company
The Colonial Trust Company
The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh

In addition, the company will own, in the first instance, capital stocks with a present market value of approximately $950,000, of which about $113,000 represents investments in other institutions in Pittsburgh and approximately $837,000 represents investments in banks in New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Buffalo. The pro forma balance sheet of the company, after giving effect to the issuance of its capital stock as above outlined, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., shows net tangible assets of $5,279,525, or approximately $88 for each share of preferred stock presently to be issued.

INCOME

The annual income to be received by the company, based on current dividend rates on the stocks which the company is initially to own, will be more than sufficient, after estimated operating expenses, to meet the annual dividend requirement on this issue of preferred stock.

During the last ten years, dividends have been paid regularly on the capital stocks of all the institutions (or predecessor institutions) in which the company will have its initial investments. Many of these institutions have increased their dividend rates from time to time during this period, in certain instances stock dividends have been paid and in several cases subscription rights given.

We offer this preferred stock, with common stock subscription warrants attached, for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of legal proceedings by counsel. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about June 7, 1928, in the form of temporary stock certificates of the company or interim receipts of Dillon, Read & Co.

Price $49.50 a share and accrued dividend. Yield 5.05%

STEEL OUTPUT RECEDES

NEW YORK, May 29.—The Iron Age on Thursday will say:

With new business light and unfilled tonnage declining, steel production has given further ground. A low rate of demand from the railroads and the oil industry and a gradual decline in business from motor car builders have been offset to some extent by the requirements of miscellaneous users. Specifying remains in fair volume. Leading makers of plates, shapes and bars have opened their books for third quarter at 1.90 cents Pittsburgh, an advance of $1 a ton. Further weakness has appeared in pig iron. Foundry iron in the Valley has declined 25 cents a ton, and Cleveland producers reach out into competitive districts at the expense of prices. Southern producers are again quoting $16, base, Birmingham, following recent sales at $15.50.

Steel mill operations are still on a high plane. The average of Steel Corporation subsidiaries is estimated at 82 per cent, compared with 84 to 85 per cent a week ago. The Greater Pittsburgh area remains on a 75 per cent basis, but Chicago mills have curtailed their operations, which now average 92 per cent.

The price situation among steel products, despite recent weakness in some lines, has its encouraging side. The ruling Pittsburgh base price of plates, shapes and bars is now 1.85 cents on both specifications and spot business, an advance of $2 a ton or more over the low point reached in the fourth quarter of last year.

The Iron Age composite price for pig iron is $17.39 a ton, against $17.24 last week. The finished steel composite remains for the fourth week at 2.348 cents a pound.

OFFER SHARES IN INVESTMENT TRUST HERE

Formation of an investment trust dominated by strong Pittsburgh and New York banking interests and headed by J. H. Hillman, Jr., chairman of the Peoples Savings and Trust Company, is announced today in connection with the offering by Dillon, Read & Co. of $3,000,000 of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the Pennsylvania Bankshares and Securities Corporation. The shares, which carry common stock subscription warrants, are priced at $49.50 and accrued dividend, to yield 5.05 per cent. Warrants entitle holders to buy common on a share-for-share basis at $20 a share to June 1, 1931, and $22.50 thereafter to June 1, 1933.

The corporation will have an initial outstanding capitalization of 200,000 shares of common stock in addition to $3,000,000 of preferred, all of which will be issued in connection with the acquisition of securities having a present market value of approximately $5,225,000.

The principal initial investments of the company, having a present market value of more than $4,275,000, will be in capital stocks of the following Pittsburgh banks: First National Bank, Peoples Savings and Trust Company, Bank of Pittsburgh, National Association, Pittsburgh Trust Company, Colonial Trust Company, and Union Trust Company. Additional investments of approximately $950,000 will be made in securities of other institutions in Pittsburgh, New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Buffalo.

Associated with Mr. Hillman on the board of directors will be F. F. Brooks, vice president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh; Percy H. Johnston, president of the Chemical National Bank of New York; Charles S. McCain, president of National Park Bank, New York; John O. Miller, president of East End Savings and Trust Company, Pittsburgh; A. C. Robinson, president of Peoples Savings and Trust Company, Pittsburgh; A. B. Sheets, secretary and treasurer of the new corporation, and Robert Wardrop, chairman of First National Bank at Pittsburgh.

THE SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 29.—There was no change in the raw sugar situation today. Cuban holders were offering at 4.52c, while some nearby duty free sugars could be had at 4.46c, but no sales were reported. The raw sugar futures market was quiet and trading was mostly in the form of evening-up for the holiday. The undertone, however, was steady and prices at midday were net unchanged to 2 points higher. European interests were credited with selling, but there was enough covering and trade buying to absorb the offerings. The undertone was steady with prices fluctuating 1 to 2 points.

The market for refined was unchanged at 6.05@6.10c for fine granulated. A fair withdrawal demand was reported, but new business was light.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of my dear husband, Joseph Law, who died one year ago today, May 29, 1927.

Many times our thoughts have wandered,
To a grave not far away,
Where we laid our dearly loved one
Just one year ago today;
A bit of grief, a shock severe
To us to part with one so dear.
Sadly missed by his wife.

In loving memory of Mrs. Laura Zahn Wagner, who died one year ago today, May 30, 1927.

What would we give to clasp her hand,
Her happy face to see,
To hear her voice, and see her smile,
That meant so much to me.
Sadly missed by her husband and children.

NO. 293.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,500,000.00) and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: Paying the City's share of the cost, damage and expense (including engineering expenses) of improving the streets of the City generally, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

WHEREAS—The corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh, by Ordinance duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on March 7, 1928, and duly recorded and published as required by law, signified their desire that the indebtedness of said City be increased in the sum of One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,500,000.00) for the purposes, among others, described in the following Ordinance, and provided that the question of increasing the indebtedness in said amount for said purposes be submitted to a vote of the electors of said City at a special election held on April 24, 1928; and

WHEREAS—After due legal notice, said election was held and conducted as required by law, and a majority of the electors who voted at said election voted in favor of said increase of indebtedness, and the vote was duly counted by the Court of Quarter Sessions as required by law, and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions made a record thereof and a certified copy of such record under seal, showing the result, was furnished as required by law, to the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the same has been placed of record upon the minutes thereof; Now, Therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,500,000.00) to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: Paying the City's share of the cost, damage and expense (including engineering expenses) of improving the streets of the City generally, including as may be required in the case of each street, repaving, repairing, reconstructing, widening, changing the grade, vacating, extending, grading and regrading, curbing and recurbing, laying and relaying the sidewalks, laying and relaying the sewers, drains and water lines, constructing and reconstructing retaining walls, street foundations and surfaces (including any and all such improvements as may be incidentally necessary to interesting and adjacent streets).

SECTION 2. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,500,000.00) be issued for the purposes aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in denominations of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or multiples thereof; shall be dated as of the first day of May, 1928, and shall be payable in Twenty (20) equal annual installments of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars ($75,000.00) each, one of which shall mature on the first day of May in each of the years 1929 to 1948, inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of Four and One-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the State of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 42 (Contingent Fund). Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with a facsimile signature of the City Controller. In case of the absence or disability of any of such officials, the bonds shall be signed by the city official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place. Each of said bonds shall be known and designated as STREET IMPROVEMENT BOND, 1928.

SECTION 3. That said bonds shall be sold by the Mayor and the City Controller at not less than par and accrued interest, after giving such notice of sale as may be required by law.

SECTION 4. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now by law liable, or hereafter to be made liable, to assessment for taxation for City purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after said debt shall have been increased or incurred, namely the year 1929, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the City, and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to Five Per Centum (5%) of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said City for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenue of said City an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

SECTION 5. That all bonds issued by the authority of this Ordinance and the Acts of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all rights, privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said City are hereby pledged.

SECTION 6. That the form of coupon bonds issued in pursuance of this Ordinance shall be substantially as follows:

NO. 294.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of Two Million One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($2,100,000.00) and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: paying the City's share of the cost, damage and expense (including engineering expenses) of opening and improving new streets, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

WHEREAS—The corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh, by ordinance duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on March 7, 1928, and duly recorded and published as required by law, signified their desire that the indebtedness of said City be increased in the sum of Four Million Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($4,200,000.00) for the purposes, among others, described in the following ordinance, and provided that the question of increasing the indebtedness in said amount for said purposes be submitted to a vote of the electors of said City at a special election held on April 24, 1928; and

WHEREAS—After due legal notice, said election was held and conducted as required by law, and a majority of the electors who voted at said election voted in favor of said increase of indebtedness, and the vote was duly counted by the Court of Quarter Sessions as required by law, and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions made a record thereof and a certified copy of such record under seal, showing the result, was furnished as required by law, to the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the same has been placed of record upon the minutes thereof; and

WHEREAS—The City of Pittsburgh has commenced or is about to commence, work on a portion of the improvements so authorized, and desires to obtain the funds necessary therefor and to issue at this time part of the bonds so authorized at said special election; Now, therefore,

SECTION 1 Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of Two Million One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($2,100,000.00) to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: paying the City's share of the cost, damage and expense (including engineering expenses) of opening and improving new streets, including as may be required in case of each street, vacating, extending, widening, establishing and changing the grades, grading and regrading, curbing and recurbing, laying and relaying the sidewalks, laying and relaying the sewers, drains and water lines, constructing and reconstructing retaining walls, street foundations and surfaces (including any and all such improvements as may be incidentally necessary to intersecting and adjacent streets).

SECTION 2. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of Two Million One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($2,100,000.00) be issued for the purposes aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in denominations of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or multiples thereof; shall be dated as of the first day of May, 1928, and shall be payable in Thirty (30) equal annual installments of Seventy Thousand Dollars ($70,000.00) each, one of which shall mature on the first day of May in each of the years 1929 to 1958 inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of Four and One-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the State of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 42 (Contingent Fund). Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with a facsimile signature of the City Controller. In case of the absence or disability of any of such officials, the bonds shall be signed by the city official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place. Each of said bonds shall be known and designated as STREET BOND, 1928.

SECTION 3. That said bonds shall be sold by the Mayor and the City Controller, at not less than par and accrued interest, after giving such notice of sale as may be required by law.

SECTION 4. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now by law liable, or hereafter to be made liable, to assessment for taxation for City purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after said debt shall have been increased and incurred, namely the year 1929, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the City, and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to Three and One-Third per centum (3 1/3%) of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said City for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenue of said City an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

SECTION 5. That all bonds issued by the authority of this ordinance and the Acts of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said City are hereby pledged.

SECTION 6. That the form of coupon bonds issued in pursuance of this Ordinance shall be substantially as follows:

NO. 295.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of One Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($150,000.00) and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in the said amount to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: paying the cost and expense (including architectural and engineering expenses) of constructing, repairing and improving old and new roadways and buildings, including comfort stations, in and otherwise developing and improving the parks of the City, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

WHEREAS—The corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh, by Ordinance duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on March 7, 1928, and duly recorded and published as required by law, signified their desire that the indebtedness of said City be increased in the sum of One Hundred Fifty Thousand ($150,000.00) for the purposes, among others, described in the following ordinance, and provided that the question of increasing the indebtedness in said amount for said purposes be submitted to a vote of the electors of said City at a special election held on April 24, 1928; and

WHEREAS—After due legal notice, said election was held and conducted as required by law, and a majority of the electors who voted at said election voted in favor of said increase of indebtedness, and the vote was duly counted by the Court of Quarter Sessions as required by law, and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions made a record thereof and a certified copy of such record under seal, showing the result, was furnished as required by law, to the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the same has been placed of record upon the minutes thereof; Now, Therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of One Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($150,000.00) to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: paying the cost and expense (including architectural and engineering expenses) of constructing, repairing and improving old and new roadways and buildings, including comfort stations, in and otherwise developing and improving the parks of the City.

SECTION 2. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of One Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($150,000.00) be issued for the purposes aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in denominations of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or multiples thereof; shall be dated as of the first day of May, 1928, and shall be payable in Twenty (20) equal annual installments of Seven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($7,500.00) each, one of which shall mature on the first day of May in each of the years 1929 to 1948 inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of Four and One-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the State of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 42 (Contingent Fund). Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with a facsimile signature of the City Controller. In case of the absence or disability of any of such officials, the bonds shall be signed by the city official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place. Each of said bonds shall be known and designated as PARK BOND 1928.

SECTION 3. That said bonds shall be sold by the Mayor and the City Controller, at not less than par and accrued interest, after giving such notice of sale as may be required by law.

SECTION 4. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now by law liable, or hereafter to be made liable, to assessment for taxation for City purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after said debt shall have been increased or incurred, namely the year 1929, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the City, and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to Five per centum (5%) of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said City for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenue of said City an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

SECTION 5. That all bonds issued by the authority of this ordinance and the Acts of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all the rights privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said City are hereby pledged.

SECTION 6. That the form of coupon bonds issued in pursuance of this Ordinance shall be substantially as follows:

NO. 297.

AN ORDINANCE — Authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($300,000.00) and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: paying the cost, damage and expense (including architectural and engineering expenses) of acquiring of lands or buildings for playgrounds, playfields, gymnasiums, swimming pools, public baths, or indoor recreation centers, and for the improvement and equipment thereof, and for the improvement and equipment for such purposes of lands and buildings now owned by the City, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

WHEREAS—The corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh, by Ordinance duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on March 7, 1928, and duly recorded and published as required by law, signified their desire that the indebtedness of said City be increased in the sum of Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($300,000.00) for the purposes, among others, described in the following ordinance, and provided that the question of increasing the indebtedness in said amount for said purposes be submitted to a vote of the electors of said City at a special election held on April 24, 1928; and

WHEREAS—After due legal notice, said election was held and conducted as required by law, and a majority of the electors who voted at said election voted in favor of said increase of indebtedness, and the vote was duly counted by the Court of Quarter Sessions as required by law, and the Clerk of Quarter Sessions made a record thereof and a certified copy of such record under seal, showing the result, was furnished as required by law, to the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the same has been placed on record upon the minutes thereof; Now, Therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($300,000.00) to provide funds for the following purposes, viz: paying the cost, damage and expense (including architectural and engineering expenses) for the acquiring of lands or buildings for playgrounds, playfields, gymnasiums, swimming pools, public baths, or indoor recreation centers, and for the improvement and equipment thereof, and for the improvement and equipment for such purposes of lands and buildings now owned by the City.

SECTION 2. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($300,000.00) be issued for the purposes aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in denominations of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or multiples thereof; shall be dated as of the first day of May, 1928, and shall be payable in Twenty (20) equal annual installments of Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000.00) each, one of which shall mature on the first day of May in each of the years 1929 to 1948 inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of Four and One-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the State of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 42 (Contingent Fund). Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with a facsimile signature of the City Controller. In case of the absence or disability of any such officials, the bonds shall be signed by the city official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place. Each of said bonds shall be known and designated as PLAYGROUND BOND 1928.

SECTION 3. That said bonds shall be sold by the Mayor and the City Controller, at not less than par and accrued interest, after giving such notice of sale as may be required by law.

SECTION 4. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now by law liable, or hereafter to be made liable, to assessment for taxation for City purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after said debt shall have been increased or incurred, namely the year 1929, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the City, and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to Five per centum (5%) of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said City for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenue of said City an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

SECTION 5. That all bonds issued by the authority of this ordinance and the Acts of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said City are hereby pledged.

SECTION 6. That the form of coupon bonds issued in pursuance of this Ordinance shall be substantially as follows:

NO. 299.

AN ORDINANCE — Authorizing and directing the issue and sale of Funding Bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of Six Hundred Thirty Thousand Dollars ($630,000.00) for the purpose of funding existing unfunded indebtedness of the City, consisting of contractors' claims, claims for damages arising from the opening, widening and improving of streets and the construction of sewers, and other floating indebtedness, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

WHEREAS—The City Controller has submitted to Council a detailed statement under date of May 14, 1928, of the floating indebtedness of the City, in the sum of Six Hundred Thirty Thousand Dollars ($630,000.00) over and above the funds on hand available for the liquidation thereof; and

WHEREAS—It is desirable to issue bonds for the purpose of funding this indebtedness; Now, Therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh be issued in the aggregate principal amount of Six Hundred Thirty Thousand Dollars ($630,000.00) for the purpose of funding the aforesaid unfunded indebtedness of the City, consisting of contractors' claims, claims for damages arising from the opening, widening and improving of streets and the construction of sewers, and other floating indebtedness, including outstanding certificates of indebtedness of the former Township of Union, now part of the Twentieth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh.

SECTION 2. That said bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of Six Hundred Thirty Thousand Dollars ($630,000.00) be issued for the purposes aforesaid, the proceeds arising from the sale of said bonds shall be applied to the discharge of the floating indebtedness of the City set forth in the report of the Controller above mentioned and to no other purpose whatsoever. Said bonds shall be in denominations of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or multiples thereof; shall be dated as of the first day of May, 1928, and shall be payable in Thirty equal annual installments of Twenty-one Thousand Dollars ($21,000.00) each, one of which shall mature on the first day of May in each of the years 1928 to 1958 inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of Four and One-quarter per centum (4-¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of May and November in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 42 (Contingent Fund). Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with a facsimile signature of the City Controller.

In case of the absence or disability of any of such officials, the bonds shall be signed by the city official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place. Each of said bonds shall be known and designated as

FUNDING BOND, 1928.

SECTION 3. That said bonds shall be sold by the Mayor and the City Controller, at not less than par and accrued interest, after giving such notice of sale as may be required by law.

SECTION 4. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now by law liable, or hereafter to be made liable, to assessment for taxation for City purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after said debt shall have been increased or incurred, namely the year 1929, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the City, and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to Three and One-third per centum (3-1-3%) of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said City for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenue of said City an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

SECTION 5. That all bonds issued by the authority of this ordinance and the Acts of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said City are hereby pledged.

SECTION 6. That the form of coupon bonds issued in pursuance of this Ordinance shall be substantially as follows:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.
CITY OF PITTSBURGH.
FUNDING BOND, 1928.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS That the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation created by and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is indebted to the bearer in the sum of ...... Dollars ($......), lawful money of the United States of America, which sum the said City of Pittsburgh promises to pay to the said bearer at the office of the City Treasurer of said City on the first day of May, A. D. 19...., with interest thereon from the date hereof at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually to the bearer of the annexed coupons at the time and place therein specified without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. And for the true and faithful payment of the principal of this bond and the semi-annual interest thereon, as aforesaid, the faith, honor, credit and property of the said City of Pittsburgh are hereby pledged.

Any one or more of the coupon bonds of the series of which this is one may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering the said coupon bond or bonds not then due at the office of the City Controller of said City.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT

Can the Power Lobby Adjourn the Senate?

TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE:

By an overwhelming vote Friday the House passed the Boulder Dam bill.

Every Senator knows the bill will pass the Senate by an overwhelming majority if it is brought to a vote.

Friday the Senate beat the Muscle Shoals filibuster. It can break the Boulder Dam blockade if it will.

In fact, Boulder Dam can be defeated in only one way—by a vote to adjourn. Every Senator who votes to adjourn goes on record as voting against Boulder Dam.

He goes on record as voting in the interests of a power lobby which has had $400,000 at work to defeat this legislation.

The Federal Trade Commission has only begun its revision of the state propaganda organizations of the power trust. Before November the whole story will be out.

In November it will be no political asset for Senators to be on record as having adjourned to please the power lobby in May, leaving Boulder Dam and other vital legislation hanging in the air.

We believe the Senate of the United States has too much courage, too much independence and too much political discernment to take its orders from the most unscrupulous, the most corrupt and the most corrupting lobby of this generation.

Decoration Day Is Time For Remembering Service

Memorial Day tomorrow.

A day or memories and of remembering—remembering the brave men who fought gallantly for their country, and the braver women who wept and waited and kept the home fires burning.

It is Decoration Day—a day for the strewing of flowers on the graves of those whose departure meant little to the great world, but much—oh, so much—to the little group left behind. Decoration Day belongs to the soldier—he began it—but all have adopted it. The grave of the child who never heard of war is given its posies as well as the last resting place of the great general and the humble private.

So the veteran of the Civil War, whom we especially honor and remember tomorrow, has given us something that is a perpetuity—a day for laudable sentiment and memories. We all react differently on Memorial Day. Those past 50 remember other Memorial Days for the great processions of the blue-clad army of Civil War veterans, men in the prime of life, marching to the cemetery to decorate the graves of their departed comrades. Those past 50 look back over the years and see that great army in blue gradually diminishing, young men growing old, and now all they see is a mere remnant, but the most inspiring sight in the world.

Memorial Day tomorrow. A day of memories and remembering. A day not only for strewing flowers but for remembering what those men who are gone and those are now old did for us. A day for remembering, too, what other soldiers did for us. A day for remembering our own departed dear ones.

Vote Machine Indorsed; Now Give It Big Majority

Indorsement of the voting machine amendment of the state constitution by the city and county committees of the Republican Party was a laudable action. It provides addition of organized political strength to the efforts of civic and commercial bodies, virtually uniting all leading organized interests in behalf of the proposed important change in the basic laws of our state.

This union of opinion removes much of the possibility of the voter becoming befuddled by opposing arguments as to the desirability of machine voting. Yet the citizen should not forget the amendment, which does not provide that voting machines SHALL be used, only that they MAY be used, is not assured of adoption unless a majority vote for it. If everybody forgets about the matter just because it appears to have universal approval in Allegheny county the amendment might be in danger. There are 67 counties in Pennsylvania—ours is only one.

So let everybody who votes keep in mind the biggest thing that has come before us in many years. From now until election day do not forget it. Give it a majority at least equal to that of the plurality of the leading candidate for president. As a matter of real fact, it is much more important to the average citizen than the presidency because it provides a way to safeguard the vote for the president and all other officers.

Prosperity

Employment Increases, Wages Up, Living Down

Unemployment is decreasing, according to the figures of such an excellent authority as the National Industrial Conference Board, which receives monthly reports from about 2,000 manufacturing plants.

The lowest ebb of employment for the year 1927 was in November. Since then, the number of employed has increased one per cent and the number of hours worked has increased three and a half per cent.

There is still more good news in the figures of earnings of industrial workers. In January, 1926, their average weekly earnings had a purchasing power 27 per cent higher than in 1914. In January, 1928, their purchasing power was 33 per cent higher than before the war.

That is, the earnings of the masses continue to increase and their cost of living continues to go down, which is the most important indication of national prosperity.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Other Suns

AN OLD gentleman in New York writes to say that recently when the solar system was talked about in company, and when he asked: "How about the rest of the suns in the heavens?" the others, "young flappers of high school graduates who are thoroughly convinced, in their own minds, there is nothing further to learn," giggled and asked him "where he got that stuff from." He desires to know "whether he has advanced something and made a fool of himself," in affirming that other suns, some much larger than ours, are observable, with their systems.

I should be tempted to think that the "flappers of high school graduates" were guying the old gentleman if I had not myself frequently seen evidence of the profound ignorance of simple astronomical facts shown by graduates of even more pretentious educational institutions than high schools. If neither the common schools, nor the high schools, nor the colleges give any information to the pupils in general about the universe that surrounds us, how are they ever to know that other suns than ours exist? What is to save them from being as stupidly ignorant concerning their greater surroundings as are the savage inhabitants of a remote island in the ocean?

We do not merely dwell upon the earth; we dwell in the midst of the universe. We belong to both, and in the highest sense to the universe. And that, too, without any reference to the question of personal immortality.

The sky is filled with other suns, far and near, relatively great and relatively small, in widely different stages of development, yet all possessing the general characteristics of solar bodies. Our sun is simply an example of one of the stages through which such bodies pass in the course of their history. There are to be seen in the sky many "stars" (which is the general name for distant suns), which are in a stage quite like that of the sun. There are many others which are in different stages, some more some less advanced than our sun in the order of physical evolution.

The difference between suns are, in their nature, hardly greater than those between human beings; they depend upon relative age, growth, size and special condition. In these respects it is true the differences among stars are in many cases very wide; yet they are not essential and fundamental; they do not prevent the classification of all under the common heading of "suns."

In one respect, it is true, a quibble might be made concerning the calling of the stars suns, and that concerns the existence of planets revolving around them. No bodies that could properly be called planets, in the sense in which we employ the word in the solar system, have been seen accompanying any of the stars.

The reason probably is because even the nearest stars, such as Alpha Centauri, or Sirius, are so far away that small, non-luminous bodies like planets cannot be seen near them even though they exist.

But thousands of the stars have close companion stars, which obey the same gravitational laws that govern the movements of our planets around the sun. In some cases the companions are so large and massive that together with their primaries they constitute DOUBLE SUNS; but in other cases they are so distant and relatively so small that if they were cooled down to the non-luminous state they could fairly be put in the category of planets. Their existence is in itself an argument for that of others still smaller and nearer to the principal star, which may truly play the part of planets like ours.

We have in our own solar system at least one planet which may have once shone as a companion star to the sun—the planet Jupiter, which, if possessed of the same intrinsic luminosity, surface for surface, would appear from distant space as a star five magnitudes fainter than the sun.

Don't Be "Slouchy"

IMPORTANT, and discouraging, news for tailors. Young people in London, the so-called "fashionables," consider it provincial to wear "evening clothes" except for really important functions.

Intimate dinners, night clubs, etc., are not important occasions.

In other words, youthful England decides to be "slouchy" and save trouble.

Youthful America will continue to "doll up" and look its best.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Deliver the Goods

DON'T be misguided by the efforts being made to humanize business.

You should not expect a business man to be swayed from principles he must follow in order to meet the competition he is fighting.

There must be production at the least possible cost and there must be superiority in the article offered for sale.

If you help produce the goods you are employed as a part of the equipment necessary to manufacture the product on the least expensive basis possible.

If you can't meet the requirements as well as some other workman you should not expect sentiment to hold your job for you.

There are exceptions, of course.

When a worker has given many years of service to his concern, as a reward for past efforts he is favored, perhaps.

But if you have not had this long period of service to bind you to your employers, you must expect to deliver the goods, and continue to deliver no matter if wages are not what you wish.

Business has to pay the employer or he cannot hire helpers.

You must be a profitable producer in his organization, if he retains you.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Unreason

THERE is a man whom I would trust
With utmost faith always,
I count his judgments wholly just,
His ways are upright ways.
The reason, dare I name it so,
For which I thus repose
My trust? In truth, I only know
How well he loves a rose!

This is unreason, some will say.
Who knows? They may be right,
Yet when I saw him pause today
To watch the swallows' flight,
I felt his being still must keep
God's spirit undefiled.
My loyalty to him is deep,
He loves bird, bloom and child!

Tales that are Told

Silenced

IT WAS a noisy meeting of shareholders. The chairman called the meeting to order, and after an eloquent harangue, in which most of the important issues were skilfully avoided, he asked if there were any questions.

A large individual with a forbidding scowl, whom we will call Mr. Murphy, rose to his feet and thundered:

"What we'd like to know, Mr. Chairman, is what you did with the money we gave you last year?"

At that moment a chair fell from the balcony above the stalwart Mr. Murphy and considerably reduced his interest in the proceedings. His unconscious form was grasped capably and carried from the hall. Amid an eloquent silence the chairman asked, quietly:

"Are there any more questions?"

The Insult

A MAN was driving a big car at a fast speed along a wide road. A new car of very small size appeared alongside, as if trying to pass him.

The driver of the big car was peeved. He wouldn't let a small car pass him, even a new one. He went faster still—sixty—sixty-five miles an hour—but still the small car kept beside him.

Suddenly the driver of the small car opened his window and shouted, "Do you know anything about these cars?"

"Why?" answered the man.

"I can't shift the thing into top gear!"—London Tit-Bits.

Actions Speak Louder—

"TELL me," said the pompous barrister for the plaintiff, "what the defendant said."

"He didn't say anything," said the witness. "He just acted a little hastily."

"What did he do?"

"Shall I show you?"

"Yes."

The witness seized the barrister by the hair, threw him on the ground, pulled his nose, and jumped with both feet on his face.

"That's how he acted," he remarked, breathlessly.

The barrister has determined to avoid all practical demonstrations in the future.—London Tit-Bits.

Love's Ambassador

THE young man suddenly woke up to the fact that his hostess' little daughter was trying to make friends with him.

"I say, how old are you?" asked the child.

The young man smiled and answered the question, only to meet with another:

"Are you married?"

He assured the little girl that he was not.

At that moment the hostess herself appeared, and the little girl turned to her and said:

"He's O. K. so far, mother. Is there anything else you want to know?"

Souvenirs

A SCOT and his wife had just returned home from a holiday on the Riviera. They were praising to a friend the excellent hotel at Monte Carlo in which they had stayed.

"That's interesting," said the friend. "I'd like the name of that hotel, because I'm thinking of taking a run over there myself."

The Scot thought for a long time; then he said:

"Man, I can't remember offhand what the name of it is. Just wait a minute till I have a look through our towels."

War on Hay Fever

DR. HARRIS, New York City's health commissioner, determined to help hay fever victims, asks farmers and gardeners to fight ragweed and wherever possible substitute another crop for timothy hay.

Goldenrod and roses, you are told, do NOT cause hay fever or "rose fever."

Hay fever destroys the happiness of thousands every year, so does poison ivy. Because these afflictions don't kill they are neglected. They have caused more unhappiness than all the rattlesnakes and wolves, and should be fought, as we would fight wolves or rattlesnakes.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 29.—Etiquette sleuths report the dinner coat no longer permissible at smart gatherings where there are ladies. It has become strictly a stag garment this season and the tail coat has again been plucked out of the moth balls.

It tried to stage a come-back for several seasons, but only recently made the grade. Nor can it be worn with the crush opera hat as it was last season. A plush high hat is required. The Long Island verandah crowd is wearing white flannel dinner suits.

Another fashionable dining wrinkle is also reported coming from London. The very best people these days do not smoke at the table until the hostess lights up her cigaret. That is the signal that all are privileged to smoke. In my day it would be a signal for many women to go home with their noses in the air.

The one-stud shirt has held ground, but the sawed-off white vest has made way for the return of the V pointed weskit. The top swank in evening sticks is an ebony with a small white knob and the replica of the owner's signature engraved on the side.

The evening handkerchief should be folded into a square and only a slight edge should show from the breast pocket. The smart evening shoes are of one piece of patent leather. The gardenia is the correct lapel flower, although Michael Arlen is wearing a bright red rosebud.

Every gentleman should have a platinum chain for his key. It is attached to a suspender button and falls in a loop to the left trouser pocket. Of course, he must have the monogrammed accessories—such as a cigarette case, patent lighter and pencil. All to match.

Oh, yes, pearl cuff links and white gloves are necessary pour le nuit. The Prince of Wales continues to set styles, not only over seas, but for America. News comes he is now preparing to introduce a dark gray dinner suit with wide velvet lapels. Can you beat it?

There is a general belief that New York gentlemen invariably "dress" for dinner. Before I came here I had an idea they went straight from their infantile youknowwhats into dinner clothes. Proportionately there is no more dinner dressing here than in Indianapolis or Spokane.

* * *

Greenwich, Conn., an hour by train from Grand Central, is said to be one of the richest towns in America in proportion to population. It is also one of the most aristocratic communities in the New York suburban zone. There are more yacht owners there than any other spot hereabouts. Greenwich is pronounced "Gren-itch."

* * *

Now they are saying that chowmein in the Broadway Chinese cafes for which a charge of $1.50 is made really costs 21 cents. Well, even that is an improvement over the $1.50 charge of the night clubs for a six-cent bottle of ginger ale. I'll never get over that, it seems. It has been breaking my heart for five years.

* * *

The real justifiable holler should come over the gyppery in one of the smartest dining places in town. Before each diner they place a few olives and a sprig of celery, whether you have ordered it or not. If you eat a single olive or nibble at a stalk of celery, you must pay $1.00 per person. This is no polite gyppery. It is plain second-story work. Still the place continues to be crowded, so don't mind my squawk.

* * *

Incidentally, the old Palais Royal is now known as the Palais d'Or and the Chinese proprietor is known as Mr. d'Or. Many ask for him.

What Keeps Perishables?

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

The other day a girl opened a can of figs which had been sealed 18 years ago.

When they were packed not much was known about fig canning or any other kind, except of salmon, peas and corn.

The figs were found as sweet and juicy as when they were first excluded from the light of day. Mr. A. T. Aylesbury, chairman of the Canned Food Committee, said: "They are as sure of keeping as if they were in King Tut's tomb."

What kept these figs and prevented their decay? They were preserved indefinitely by excluding three things: air, light and heat.

Air, light and heat had made them grow; air, light and heat would have rotted them.

So the agencies of life and of decay are the same.

It is not one set of environments that makes bad men and another set that makes good men. It is usually the same set in both instances, and what operates to build one character up operates to tear another character down.

There are duties and responsibilities that are upon all of us. There are griefs and disappointments that come to us all, and moments of happiness that are ours universally.

In some cases these things make a man stronger and better, in other cases they ruin him.

The advantages of blessing and cursing are one.

"The sun, light and air
That ripen the pear,
Will blight it and curse it
When life is done."

Somebody has said that all the difference between a live organism and a dead one is that the live one eats his environment, while in the case of the dead one the environment eats him.

A dog running along the road is kept alive and vigorous by air, water and heat. A dead dog lying by the side of the road is speedily reduced to dust by air, water and heat. In one case he is utilizing these things and in the other case they are utilizing him.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

IT WAS her relatives who testified against Mrs. Knapp. Maybe it was our friends God gave us and our relatives that we should be saved from.

Now that women, most of them, have bought tickets for expensive courses of facial massage and contracted for the removal of a few blemishes, a physician announces in American Medicine, that beauty defects are the symptoms of deep seated ailments, and must be treated from the inside.

The thing that makes a woman beautiful is a good disposition. That can always laugh off defects.

Women's "ruling passion strong in death," to talk aplenty is illustrated by a Trenton, N. J., woman, who left a will that was actually seven feet long. The pages were pasted together.

Charles A. Levine sues Mabel Boll, woman flier, for $20,000. She says: "The very idea. He owes me money!"

If aviators are going to get up in the air and fall out, this is the safest way to do it.

Bernard Shaw says America is very successful, and American men are "futile gossips," so he figures that the women must have the practical intelligence that brings about the success.

If the men in your house are not already cowed that is a fine tune to take home and play on your piano.

Mr. Hickey, of the National Industrial Council, suggests that if ballots for women are blue and those for men white, men can tell how much women take in politics. He wants to know.

The women will be glad to give Mr. Hickey the blues—on next election day.

Words of Wise Men

We must never assume that which is incapable of proof.—G. H. Lewis.

We promise according to our hopes and perform according to our fears.—Rochefoucauld.

The visible world is but man turned inside out that he may be revealed to himself.—James.

Through ignorance of what is good and what is bad, the life of men is greatly perplexed.—Cicero.

There is a burden of care in getting riches, fear in keeping them, temptation in using them, guilt in abusing them, sorrow in losing them; and a burden of account at least to be given up concerning them.—Henry.

The most curious offspring of shame is shyness.—Smith.

Who seeks for aid must show how service sought can be repaid.—Meredith.

Glass, China and Reputation are easily cracked and never well mended.—Franklin.

How can we expect another to keep our secret if we cannot keep it ourselves—Rochefoucauld.

In general, pride is at the bottom of all great mistakes.—Ruskin.

Prejudice and self-sufficiency naturally proceed from inexperience of the world, an ignorance of mankind.—Addison.

Progress has not followed a straight ascending line, but a spiral with rhythms of progress and retrogression, of evolution and dissolution.—Goethe.
